ORDER, AND PRELIMINARY AND FINAL INJUNCTION

(REQUEST FOR EMERGENCY
HEARING TODAY MARCH 27, 2019

DAVID STRINGER, a single man, aka Representative David Stringer.

Plaintiff,

v.

THOMAS R. SHOPE JR. in his capacity as Chairman of the House of Representatives
Ethics Committee of the State Legislature of
Arizona; MEMBERS OF THE HOUSE
ETHICS COMMITTEE OF THE STATE LEGISLATURE OF ARIZONA; THE
STATE LEGISLATURE OF ARIZONA;
JOHN DOES i-x; JANE DOES I-X; BLACK
CORPORATIONS I-X; BLACK and WHITE
PARTNERSHIPS I-X.

Defendants

For his Verified Complaint, Plaintiff alleges:

1. Plaintiff resides in Maricopa County Arizona. Defendants reside in Maricopa County, Arizona.
2. Jurisdiction and venue are proper in Maricopa County Arizona.
3. Defendants are investigating plaintiff for alleged ethics violations which

1 have no basis in facts.

2 4. Defendants intend on expelling plaintiff on Wednesday March 27th if 3 plaintiff has not responded to defendants' subpoena which was extended to be due on the 4 27th of March, attached as Ex. 1.

6 5. One of the allegations has to do with a 1983 court case in Maryland, that was
7 later addressed in a bar complaint to the DC bar. The investigation was dismissed by the
8 DC bar in 1984 after reviewing the underlying case with the statement that there was no
9 moral turpitude by plaintiff.

11 6. The May 29, 1984 dismissal letter (the " letter") from the Bar, stated that 12 there was no moral turpitude by plaintiff, and he could continue to practice law.

13 7. The Arizona State Bar was investigating the plaintiff regarding the 1983
14 court matter and requested the letter. It was provided to the Arizona Bar by the DC Bar
15 through plaintiff's counsel. The Arizona Bar dismissed the investigation of plaintiff.

17 8. Plaintiff is in good standing with the Maryland and DC bat although he is 18 inactive in them.

19 9. Plaintiff is in good standing with the Arizona Bar and is an active member.

20
21 10. Plaintiff has never had any discipline from any Bar in all his years of practice
22 as a lawyer.

23 11. Plaintiff requested a protective order of the letter of dismissal from 24 disciplinary Judge O'Neil of the Arizona supreme Court which request was granted by 25 Judge O'Neil. Attached is the Request for protective order and the order of protection , 26

1 Ex. 2.

2 12. Judge O'Neil ordered sealing the May 29, 1984 letter from the public. The
3 public included the Arizona legislature therefore the ethics committee of the House of
4 Representatives.

6 13. Plaintiff has advised the ethics committee continuously through counsel that 7 they could have the letter provided that the letter be kept confidential and not
8 disseminated to the public.

10 14. Judge O'Neil's order states in pertinent part that " a party aggrieved by an 11 order relating to a request for a protective order may seek review by filing a petition for 12 special action with the court", Ex. 2.

13 15. Plaintiff has advised defendants on numerous occasions that it appeared 14 from the Judge's order that defendants would have to file a special action asking for the 15 letter to be released to them.

17 16. Plaintiff told defendants that plaintiff would not oppose the special action
18 provided that the letter be kept confidential by the committee.

19 17. Defendants have advised plaintiff in an open meeting at the legislature that 20 the letter shall be disseminated to the public. Defendants have not filed anything with the 21 court asking for the same.

23 18. The dismissal letter from the DC bar pursuant to the request for protective 24 order was "issued in connection with an investigation more than three decades ago by the
25 DC Bar- which is confidential and shielded from public disclosure pursuant to DC Bar

1 Rule XI, 17(a), Ex. 3.

2 19. The dismissal letter went to the Arizona State Bar and was kept confidential.

3 20. Both the DC Bar and Arizona Bar dismissed their investigation dealing with
4 the 1983 allegations of sexual conduct which never resulted in a plea or conviction.

5 21. Now defendants in their subpoena are requesting under item number 1:

6 “ all communication from/to the DC Bar, including the letter referenced in your
7 counsel’s communication from the Office of D.C. Bar counsel issued May 29,
8 1984.” See the subpoena attached as Ex. 1

9 22. Plaintiff’s counsel is prohibited by Judge O’Neil’s order (the “order”) from 10 providing the dismissal letter from the DC Bar. Defendants may file a special action
11 with the Arizona state supreme court to obtain the letter , as ordered by Judge O’Neil,

12 Ex. 2.

13 23. Therefore, plaintiff requests that item number 1 of the subpoena be quashed,
14 as plaintiff is prohibited from producing it via Arizona State Court order, Ex. 2.

15 24. With respect to item no. 2 in the subpoena Ex. 1, communications from and
16 to Yavapai county bar, plaintiff does have one letter which is not relevant,
17 however, even though defendants can communicate with the Yavapai County and 18 seek whatever may be there, plaintiff will produce it if need be.

19 25. Item no. 3, All video recordings of statements made by Representative
20 Stringer related to the issue of race, including any information regarding when
23
24
25
26

1 videos were shared and/or removed on website or social media associated with
2 representative Stringer. Plaintiff does not have these items in his possession and if
3 relevant to the defendants' investigation they would be on the internet, Facebook,
4 and easily reviewable by defendants.

6 26. Item no. 4 as for all other records relevant to the complaints, which have not 7 yet been disclosed. Plaintiff has disclosed all he has in his custody and control to 8 defendants and has no more records.

10 27. Item no. 5 is for all communication or submissions to any bar organization
11 including applications, and character and fitness materials. Plaintiff has not kept 12 the applications or character and fitness materials which are decades old for the 13 most part . They are not in his custody or control.

14 28. The Arizona State Bar and DC bar have already told plaintiff and defendants
15 know that the Bars do not have the materials requested in item no. 5.

17 29. Item no. 6 requests “ all applications and related materials regarding attempts
18 to become a teacher or gain a masters' degree. Again, plaintiff does not have these 19 in his custody or control.

21 30. Item no.7 requests: all material submitted regarding all results of any
22 background checks. Plaintiff does not have any materials or results of background
23 checks in his custody or control.

24 31. Item no. 8 requests “ all materials related to application for professional 25 licensing or membership in professional organizations.” Plaintiff does not have 26

1 these in his custody or control.

2 32. Item no. 9, All documents relating in any way to criminal offense for which
3 representative Stringer was ever charged, whether or not those charges were later
4 expunged, sealed, or otherwise shielded from public view. Plaintiff has never had
5 a criminal charge other than the one from 1983 which never went to judgment and
6 which was expunged and destroyed by the Maryland courts. He does not have any 7 of the documents requested under item no. 9 in his custody or control.

9 Therefore, Plaintiff respectfully requests relief as follows:
10

11 1. For a Declaration that Defendants can take no action on the subpoena, and 12 that the subpoena attached as Ex. 1, be quashed with the exception of the production of 13 the Yavapai letter.

14 2. For an immediate Temporary Restraining Order restraining the defendants
15 from enforcing the subpoena, Ex. 1.

17 3. For temporary and permanent injunctions against Defendants preventing 18 them from taking action on the subpoena including not permitting defendants from 19 expelling plaintiff from the House of Representative for allegedly not complying with the

22 4. For any further relief as the Court deems proper.

23 RESPECTFULLY SUBMITTED this 26th day of March 2019.

9 STATE BAR OF ARIZONA

10 DAVID H. STRINGER
11 Bar No. 19604

PO No.

REQUEST FOR PROTECTIVE
ORDER SEALING THE RECORD

State Bar File: 19-0274

13
14 Respondent, David H. Stringer, through counsel undersigned,
15 respectfully requests that the Presiding Disciplinary Judge of the Supreme
16 Court of Arizona (PDJ), grant Respondent's Request for a Protective Order,
17 pursuant to Rule 70(g) of the Rules of the Supreme Court. Rule 70(g) permits a
18 party or person, with good cause shown, to request that the Presiding
19 Disciplinary Judge issue an order sealing a portion of the record of a state bar
20 file and for the PDJ to take other measures to assure the confidentiality of the
24

1 sealed information. According to the rule, the material sealed shall remain
2 confidential.

3 The protective order sought here requests that a May 29, 1984, letter of
4 dismissal from the D.C. Bar ("the letter") relating to its investigation of Mr.
5 Stringer be disclosed to the State Bar of Arizona, but otherwise sealed from
6 the public. The public includes but is not limited to all governmental entities
7 and agencies including but not limited to the Arizona Legislature, Executive 8 branch agencies, city, county, and other municipal agencies, all public and
9 private media including print, TV, cable, internet, cellular and wireless
10 communications, all business entities, private individuals and the general
11 public.
14

15 The reason for sealing the information from the public is as follows: The 16 letter was issued in connection with an investigation more than three
17 decades ago by the D.C. Bar, "which is confidential and shielded from public
18 disclosure pursuant to DC Bar Rule XI, 17(a)," per The Office of Disciplinary
19 Counsel in Washington D.C. The letter also includes references to sensitive
20 personal matters that have been expunged from record by the Maryland court
21 since the letter of dismissal was written.

24 The disclosure of the letter or information contained in it would violate
25 Respondent's right to privacy and could be misinterpreted, selectively
26

1 reported or otherwise used to harm Respondent's reputation, personal
2 character, and professional standing.

3 Respondent is an elected official currently serving in the Arizona
4 legislature. Disclosure of information in the letter could be used by political
5 opponents to impugn Respondent's reputation and character, harm him
6 politically, or influence the outcome of an election, causing irreparable harm
7 to Respondent, his constituents, and the governance of the State of Arizona.

9 The State Bar of Arizona wishes to review and obtain a copy of the 10 letter and does not oppose this request for a Protective Order, as the Rules of 11 the originating disciplinary authority state that this material is not publicly
12 available, as confirmed by The Office of Disciplinary Counsel in Washington
13 D.C.

15 For all the above reasons, Respondent respectfully requests that the 16 protective order be granted.

18 A proposed Protective Order is attached as Exhibit A.
19

20 Counsel for Respondent has given her authority to Staff Bar Counsel
21 Matt McGregor to sign and file this Request for Protective Order on her behalf.

DAVID H. STRINGER,
Bar No. 19601

Respondent.

PO 2019-020

PROTECTIVE ORDER

State Bar File No. 19-0274

Respondent filed an unopposed Request for Protective Order (Request).

Accordingly:

IT IS ORDERED granting the Request.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED sealing the May 29, 1984 letter of dismissal from the D.C. Bar from the public pursuant to Rule 70(g), Ariz. R. Sup.Ct.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED sealing any references to the contents of the letter between the parties or notes within the State Bar of Arizona file from the public pursuant to Rule 70(g), Ariz. R. Sup.Ct.

Pre-complaint orders sealing material do not seal such material post complaint if the material is sought to be used or referred to in subsequent pleadings

Sealed material shall be opened and viewed only by an order of the committee, the presiding disciplinary judge, a hearing panel, the board or the court for use by such body and the parties in pending proceedings, and otherwise only upon notice to and an opportunity to be heard by the parties and the witness or other person who is the subject of the information. REQUEST FOR PROTECTIVE

9 DAVID H. STRINGER
10 Bar No. 19604

State Bar File: 19-0274

12
13
14 Respondent, David H. Stringer, through counsel undersigned,
15 respectfully requests that the Presiding Disciplinary Judge of the Supreme
16 Court of Arizona (PDJ), grant Respondent's Request for a Protective Order,
17 pursuant to Rule 70(g) of the Rules of the Supreme Court. Rule 70(g) permits a
18 party or person, with good cause shown, to request that the Presiding
19 Disciplinary Judge issue an order sealing a portion of the record of a state bar
23
24

1 sealed information. According to the rule, the material sealed shall remain
2 confidential.

3 The protective order sought here requests that a May 29, 1984, letter of
4 dismissal from the D.C. Bar ("the letter") relating to its investigation of Mr.
5 Stringer be disclosed to the State Bar of Arizona, but otherwise sealed from
6 the public. The public includes but is not limited to all governmental entities
7 and agencies including but not limited to the Arizona Legislature, Executive
8 branch agencies, city, county, and other municipal agencies, all public and
9 private media including print, TV, cable, internet, cellular and wireless
10 communications, all business entities, private individuals and the general
11 public.
14

15 The reason for sealing the information from the public is as follows: The 16 letter was issued in connection with an investigation more than three
17 decades ago by the D.C. Bar, "which is confidential and shielded from public
18 disclosure pursuant to DC Bar Rule XI, 17(a)," per The Office of Disciplinary
19 Counsel in Washington D.C. The letter also includes references to sensitive
20 personal matters that have been expunged from record by the Maryland court
21 since the letter of dismissal was written.

24 The disclosure of the letter or information contained in it would violate
25 Respondent's right to privacy and could be misinterpreted, selectively
26

1 reported or otherwise used to harm Respondent's reputation, personal
2 character, and professional standing.

3 Respondent is an elected official currently serving in the Arizona
4 legislature. Disclosure of information in the letter could be used by political
5 opponents to impugn Respondent's reputation and character, harm him
6 politically, or influence the outcome of an election, causing irreparable harm
7 to Respondent, his constituents, and the governance of the State of Arizona.

9 The State Bar of Arizona wishes to review and obtain a copy of the 10 letter and does not oppose this request for a Protective Order, as the Rules of
11 the originating disciplinary authority state that this material is not publicly
13 D.C.

15 For all the above reasons, Respondent respectfully requests that the 16 protective order be granted.

18 A proposed Protective Order is attached as Exhibit A.
19

20 Counsel for Respondent has given her authority to Staff Bar Counsel
21 Matt McGregor to sign and file this Request for Protective Order on her behalf.

PLAINTIFF'S EMERGENCY

HEARING ON March 27, 2019)

Plaintiff,

v.

13 Chairman of the House of Representatives
14 Ethics Committee of the State Legislature of
15 Arizona; MEMBERS OF THE HOUSE

18 STATE LEGISLATURE OF ARIZONA;
19 JOHN DOES i-x; JANE DOES I-X; BLACK
21 PARTNERSHIPS I-X.

Defendants

22 Just recently plaintiff has discovered that it is likely that he will be ousted from his 23 seat at the House of representative if he does not respond to a subpoena whose return
24 date is today March 27, 2019. Arizona Revised Statutes Annotated Section 41-1153

1 permits this if a legislator such as Representative David Stringer, does not respond to the 2 subpoena issued by the House Ethics Committee.

3 Arizona Revised Statutes Annotated Section 41-1153 states as follows:

4 A) If a witness neglects or refuses to obey a legislative subpoena or appearing 5 neglects or refuses to testify the Senate or the House may, by resolution entered in 6 the Journal ,commit him for contempt.

8 B) A witness neglecting or refusing to attend in obedience to a subpoena may be 9 arrested by the sergeant- at – arms and brought before the senate or House upon 10 authority of a copy of the resolution signed by the president or speaker and co-
11 signed by the secretary or chief clerk.

13 As set forth in the Verified Complaint and declaration being submitted this
14 date, and incorporated as if fully set forth herein, Plaintiff is requesting that 15 Defendants be temporarily restrained, and then enjoined, from

17 1) proceeding and enforcing the Subpoena issued to defendant on March 11, 2019
18 and extended to be due today , March 27, 2019. Plaintiff simultaneously herewith is 19 responding to the 9-item subpoena but can only produce one letter in response to request
20 no. 2 in the subpoena, which is a letter from plaintiff to the Yavapai County Bar. (Plaintiff
21 the exception of one letter to the Yavapai County Bar has nothing else responsive to the 22 subpoena; and, the first request in the subpoena for a 1984 letter from the DC Bar is 23 under protective order by the Arizona Supreme Court.)
24

25 2) Expelling plaintiff , Representative David Stringer from the House of 26

1 Representative today because of not responding to the subpoena to their liking: see
2 statute above .

5 3) Quashing the subpoena including that Representative Stringer appear before 6 the House ethics committee investigators on Friday, March 29, 2019 at what at 1 PM...
7 Or any continuance of said appearance, to testify and give evidence in an investigation
8 represented Davis to the currently pending before the House Ethics Committee.

10 Representative Stringer has been prohibited by the Committee to interview the two 11 complainants and their letters to the committee. These two complaints are the basis of the 12 investigation as represented by counsel for the committee, Joe Kenfield. In addition,
13 counsel for plaintiff had repeatedly requested that the committee provide her with all 14 their evidence and defendants have not provided anything except the to complaints, 15 nothing else.

17 In TP Racing, L.L.L.P. v Simms, 232 Ariz. 489 (App. 2013) the Court set forth the 18 criteria for granting a TRO or preliminary injunctive relief as follows:

19 A party seeking a preliminary injunction must show a strong likelihood of 20 success on the merits, a possibility of irreparable injury if the injunction is not 21 granted, a balance of hardships weighing in his favor, and public policy
22 favoring the requested relief. Shoen v. Shoen, 167 Ariz. 58, 63, 804 P.2d 23 787,792 (App. 1990). The critical factor is relative hardship, for which the 24 movant must show either "1) probable success on the merits and the 25 possibility of irreparable injury; or 2) the presence of serious questions and 26 'the balance of hardships tips sharply' in his favor" Id. (quoting Justice v.
Nat'l Collegiate Athletic Ass'n, 577 F.Supp. 356, 363 (D.Ariz.1983)

(232 Ariz. at 494)

1 The Court quoted Justice v. National Collegiate Athletic Ass'n, supra, which added
2 the following:

4 These principles are not necessarily separate tests but rather are extremes of a
5 single continuum (577 F. Supp. at 363)

6 Under the first alternative, probable success on the merits is shown by the facts set
7 forth in the verified complaint and declaration in support thereof.

8 With respect to irreparable injury, this is shown by A.R.S. §33-811(C) as follows:

10 Therefore, if we do not get a TRO today March 27th, the likelihood is that the 11 plaintiff will lose his seat in the House of representative today, and our remedies are

14 With respect to relative hardship above, we need to show the presence of serious
15 questions and the balance of hardships tips sharply in our favor. From the quotation of 16 A.R.S. §33-811(C), it should be clear that the balance of hardships tips sharply in our 17 favor. If we do not receive the temporary restraining order and preliminary injunction,
18 Plaintiff will have lost his seat in the house of Representatives, even though a 19 determination of the merits might have ultimately gone in his favor. On the other hand, if 20 we receive the temporary restraining order and Preliminary Injunction, and Defendants 21 will ultimately prevail on the merits, the only hardship to them would be a delay, which is 22 not really a hardship .

24
25 Plaintiff will be immediately and irreparably harmed by depriving him of his right
26

1 to continue as a representative in the House of Representatives in Arizona.

2 It is respectfully requested that the temporary restraining order, preliminary
3 injunction and permanent injunction, issue to prevent the committee from , appearing at a 4 hearing this Friday March 29th, and expelling Representative David Stringer for allegedly 5 being non-responsive to a subpoena.

1 2. One of the allegations of the two complaints that are the subject of the House
2 of Representatives investigation has to do with a 1983 court case in Maryland, that was
3 later addressed in a bar complaint to the DC bar. The investigation was dismissed by the
4 DC bar in 1984 after reviewing the underlying case with the statement that there was no
5 moral turpitude by plaintiff.

7 3. The May 29, 1984 dismissal letter (the " letter") from the Bar, stated that
8 there was no moral turpitude by I, and he could continue to practice law.

10 4. The Arizona State Bar was investigating the I regarding the 1983 court matter
11 and requested the letter. It was provided to the Arizona Bar by the DC Bar through I's

16 6. Plaintiff is in good standing with the Arizona Bar and is an active member.

18 as a lawyer.

19 8. I requested a protective order of the letter of dismissal from disciplinary 20 Judge O'Neil of the Arizona supreme Court which request was granted by Judge O'Neil.
21 Attached is the Request for protective order and the order of protection , Ex. 2.

23 9. Judge O'Neil ordered sealing the May 29, 1984 letter from the public. The 24 public included the Arizona legislature therefore the ethics committee of the House of 25 Representatives.

1 10. I have advised the ethics committee continuously that they could have the
2 letter if they filed a special action for it, provided that the letter be kept confidential and
3 not disseminated to the public.

4 11. Judge O'Neil's order states in pertinent part that " a party aggrieved by an
5 order relating to a request for a protective order may seek review by filing a petition for
6 special action with the court", Ex. 2.

8 12. I have advised defendants on numerous occasions that it appeared from the 9 Judge's order that defendants would have to file a special action asking for the letter to 10 be released to them.

11 13. I told defendants that plaintiff would not oppose the special action provided 12 that the letter be kept confidential by the committee.

14 14. Defendants have advised me in an open meeting at the legislature that the 15 letter shall be disseminated to the public. Defendants did not give me a chance to argue
16 why the letter should be kept private at their open meeting. They have not filed anything 17 with the court asking for the letter as required by the order.

18 15. The dismissal letter from the DC bar pursuant to the request for protective 19 order was "issued in connection with an investigation more than three decades ago by the
20 DC Bar- which is confidential and shielded from public disclosure pursuant to DC Bar
21 Rule XI, 17(a), Ex. 3.

22 16. The dismissal letter went to the Arizona State Bar and was kept confidential.

26

1 the 1983 allegations of sexual conduct which never resulted in a plea or conviction.

2 18. Now defendants in their subpoena are requesting under item number 1:

3 “ all communication from/to the DC Bar, including the letter referenced in your
4 counsel’s communication from the Office of D.C. Bar counsel issued May 29,
5 1984.” See the subpoena attached as Ex. 1

7 19. Plaintiff’s counsel is prohibited by Judge O’Neil’s order (the “order”) from 8 providing the dismissal letter from the DC Bar to any third parties including the 9 committee. Defendants may file a special action with the Arizona state supreme court to 10 obtain the letter , as ordered by Judge O’Neil, Ex. 2.

12 20. With respect to item no. 2 in the subpoena Ex. 1, communications from and
13 to Yavapai county bar, plaintiff does have one letter which is not relevant,
14 however, even though defendants can communicate with the Yavapai County and 15 seek whatever may be there, I will produce the letter from plaintiff to the Yavapai 16 County Bar.

18 21. Item no. 3, All video recordings of statements made by Representative
19 Stringer related to the issue of race, including any information regarding when 20 videos were shared and/or removed on website or social media associated with 21 representative Stringer. Plaintiff does not have these items in his possession and if
22 relevant to the defendants’ investigation they would be on the internet, Facebook,
23 and easily reviewable by defendants.

25 22. Item no. 4 asks for all other records relevant to the complaints, which have 26

1 not yet been disclosed. Plaintiff has disclosed all he has in his custody and control
2 to defendants and has no more records.

3 23. Item no. 5 is for all communication or submissions to any bar organization
4 including applications, and character and fitness materials. Plaintiff has not kept
5 the applications or character and fitness materials which are decades old for the 6 most part . They are not in his custody or control.

8 24. The Arizona State Bar and DC bar do not have the materials requested in 9 item no. 5.

11 25. Item no. 6 requests “ all applications and related materials regarding attempts 12 to become a teacher or gain a masters’ degree. Plaintiff does not have these in his 13 custody or control.

14 26. Item no.7 requests: all material submitted regarding all results of any
15 background checks. Plaintiff does not have any materials or results of background
16 checks in his custody or control.

18 27. Item no. 8 requests “ all materials related to application for professional 19 licensing or membership in professional organizations.” Plaintiff does not have 20 these in his custody or control.

22 28. Item no. 9, All documents relating in any way to criminal offense for which
23 representative Stringer was ever charged, whether or not those charges were later
24 expunged, sealed, or otherwise shielded from public view. Plaintiff has never had 25 a criminal charge other than the one from 1983 which never went to judgment and 26

1 which was expunged and destroyed by the Maryland courts. He does not have any
2 of the documents requested under item no. 9 in his custody or control.

Re: Subpoena and Requested Extension

Dear Ms. Chenal:

Per your message yesterday evening, you are requesting another extension to produce documents and participate in an interview pursuant to the subpoena. The Ethics Committee has already granted you an extension to accommodate your schedule, after which you told the press that your client would nevertheless refuse to comply with the subpoena. In light of this history of delay tactics, your latest requested extension has been denied by Chairman Shope.

Tomorrow is the deadline for the production of documents, and we would like to meet with you in person to receive any documents that you may have to produce. Also, we have some information that we would like to share with you in advance of the interview scheduled on Friday. Please let us know when you are available to meet with us in our office tomorrow.

Furthermore, it has come to our attention that you have reached out again to Speaker Bowers. You have already been asked to direct your communications regarding this matter through counsel. To facilitate the efficient resolution of this investigation for your client and for the Ethics Committee, we remind you of that instruction.

Best regards,

Hand Delivered

Dear Mr. Speaker,

I am writing this letter to you, late Monday night and will have it to your office as quickly as I can Tuesday morning.

I have attempted to reach you previously to lay out my concerns regarding the seemingly biased way the House Ethics Committee is handling its prosecution of Representative David Stringer, but have not heard back from you. I believe I now may know why the committee has been functioning the way it has.

A short while ago I came across an Arizona Capitol Times article from December 7th, 2018 wherein the House Ethics Committee Chairman TJ Shope not only spoke disparagingly of Rep Stringer and presumed that there would be a constant flow of negative remarks made by Rep Stringer becoming public, but stated for the record that 'I don't think he deserves to be there' referring to Rep Stringer's position at the Arizona House of Representatives.

Given that Mr. Shope's public position stated 'Rep Stringer should not remain in office' was spoken before the publicity surrounding Representative Stringer's 1983 false arrest, it is rather obvious that Rep. Shope's opinion has not improved

It is clear Chairman Shope has put us in an impossible situation by not disclosing to you, that he had already publicly pre-judged the case. He failed to tell you this critical fact. As such, he cannot possibly be considered an impartial or fair member, not to mention the Chairman of the House Ethics Committee prosecuting my client. We may not have known until now what he said, but he knew it then and failed to disclose it . He said nothing.

Rep. Shope's conduct in this matter is the very definition of unethical, and while he has publicly declared these hearings "political" and not "legal," that does not relieve him of the responsibility of behaving ethically.

These are your Committees Mr. Speaker. Should you decide that Chairman Shope remain as Chairman despite his disqualifying remarks there may be nothing, we can do about it. However, to be frank, I am writing this to you first, before I have had a chance to research what options might be available to us regarding the Chairman's conflict of interest.

This is such a crystal-clear situation that I believe that you will act in good faith, do the right thing, and remove Chairman Shope from the committee immediately . I am sure that you will name someone to replace him immediately who has not already prejudged Rep Stringer's guilt, or innocence.

You have a reputation of being fair and ethical. Given this , I expect you will act in good faith and replace Mr. Shope with someone that will be just as ethical in the committee's evaluation of the alleged claims of the two complainants, which are the subject matter of the committee's investigation per Mr. Kenfield.

I await your most urgent reply,

Appreciatively,

Re: Rep. David Stringer's Reported Refusal to Comply with the Subpoena

Dear Ms. Chenal:

We are concerned about statements attributed to you in the press on Friday, March 22, 2019. You are quoted in the Yellow Sheet Report saying that "[Rep.] Stringer would not sit for an interview with the House's investigators." See Yellow Sheet Report, Friday, March 22, 2019, at p. 2 (attached to this letter). Please confirm the accuracy of this statement by 5:00 p.m. today.

We are troubled by this press report. If the report is accurate, it is yet another example of Rep. Stringer's obstruction of the work of the Ethics Committee, despite your previous assurances that he would cooperate with the investigation into allegations against him. The Arizona House of Representatives has a constitutional obligation to conduct this investigation to protect the integrity of the institution and preserve public confidence in the Arizona Legislature. The Ethics Committee takes this role seriously, while providing a fair and transparent process to Rep. Stringer and to the citizens of Arizona.

At every point of the Ethics Committee's process, Rep. Stringer has asked for extensions to respond to inquiries, produce documents, and participate in an interview. The Committee has been very generous and accommodating in agreeing to Rep. Stringer's requests. After repeated stalling tactics, Rep. Stringer refused to stipulate to a motion to unseal criminal records under Maryland Code of Criminal Procedure § 10-108, and has refused to disclose documents to the Ethics Committee.

Your client's claim that protections of confidentiality tie his hands and prevent him from cooperating lacks credibility. It is clear from your communications with the D.C. Bar and with this office that you had possession of the May 29, 1984 letter from the Office of D.C. Bar Counsel, with no conditions of confidentiality. Indeed, you had the letter for several weeks before you even requested the protective order from the State Bar of Arizona. That order would not exist, but for the request of your client. You not only notified this office of your possession of the letter well before the protective order's existence, but also selectively quoted from the supposedly "confidential" document. You further offered to share the document with the committee under your own conditions, which directly contradicts your claim of confidentiality. The State Bar of Arizona is in possession of the document, only because you provided it, and you later attempted to shield its contents from the Committee and the public. According to media accounts, your client has now expressed refusal to sit for an interview despite a legislative subpoena and despite rescheduling the interview to accommodate your schedule.

Rep. Stringer's refusals to cooperate and his efforts to obstruct the Ethics Committee's investigation have caused avoidable delay and have prevented the Committee, the House, and the public from quickly accessing information that would assist in evaluating the allegations against Rep. Stringer. The interview is intended to provide Rep. Stringer the opportunity to respond to allegations and to address serious questions. Rep. Stringer has failed to avail himself of the considerable process which has been afforded to him and has instead engaged in efforts to circumvent, delay, and obstruct the process.

If Rep. Stringer intends to disobey the subpoena and refuses to attend the interview with the investigators on Friday, March 29, 2019 (which was originally set for March 22, 2019, but was postponed to accommodate your schedule), we ask that you please inform us by 5:00 p.m. today (March 25, 2019) to prevent additional public resources from being spent to address Rep. Stringer's tactics to interfere with the efficient resolution of this matter.

Sincerely,

Joseph A. Kanefield

NEWS NOTES AND GOSSIP

LIES, DAMN LIES AND ELECTION MATHEMATICS

How many people will be kicked off of the PEVL if Ugenti-Rita's S1188 (permanent early voting list) is signed into law varies greatly depending on who you ask. The bill states that anyone who doesn't use their early ballot – either by mailing it back or dropping it off at a polling place – for either the primary or general election for two consecutive election cycles would be kicked off the PEVL. Hobbs' office told our reporter that using data from 2016 and 2018 elections, they estimated 200,000 voters would be removed from the PEVL statewide (LINK).

But Maricopa County Recorder Adrian Fontes' spokeswoman Kathren Coleman said that in Maricopa County, the number of people who would be dropped from the PEVL is 34,440. In 2016 and 2018, between 56 and 60 percent of all votes cast came from Maricopa County, meaning if the Recorder's Office's number were extrapolated statewide, (assuming the percentage of people who did not sue their PEVL in the 2016 or 2018 general or primary elections in other counties are roughly similar) the number would be in the neighborhood of 57,000 – a far cry from the 200,000 that Hobbs' office estimated. Coleman later said the office actually had two different figures – depending on how they crunch the numbers, there could be as many as 44,000 people affected by S1188 in Maricopa County (she wasn't sure as of our deadline which figure was correct). Pima County Recorder F. Ann Rodriguez told our reporter today that 200,000 is an outrageous number, and simply isn't possible. "That math don't work – I'm sorry, it just doesn't work," she said. Rodriguez said she's also crunched the numbers to see how many people she would have to remove from the PEVL if S1188 were signed into law. It was about 9,000 people from Pima County. "I don't know how they're crunching their numbers, but Maricopa County and Pima County are the brunt of the votes," Rodriguez said.

CONSPIRACY OR INCOMPETENCE?

Ugenti-Rita said the estimate from the Secretary of State's Office is so far off from that of the county recorders figures that it makes the whole Seventh Floor suspect. "It really calls into question, and I'm being polite here, the numbers the Secretary of State's Office provided," she said. "Is this incompetence, or is there something nefarious going on?" she mused. Ugenti-Rita said she asked the Secretary of State's Office how they came to that number, but didn't get a satisfactory answer. "I got gibberish," she said. Having such wildly different numbers "does harm to election integrity in general," she said. When our reporter told C. Murphy Hebert, Hobbs' spokeswoman, about the vast disparities between Fontes' numbers and Hobbs, Hebert still wasn't convinced the numbers were wrong, saying the other 150,000 or more people who would be dropped from the PEVL could have come from the other counties. Our reporter asked for a county-by-county breakdown, as well as the office's methodology in coming to that 200,000 figure. The office did not make that available as of our deadline.

CAN WE GET SOME CLARIFICATION ON THIS CLARIFICATION?

The Arizona Mirror yesterday reported that Disciplinary Judge William O'Neil's order prohibited Stringer from turning over the document to the House Ethics Committee as requested in a subpoena from the committee (LINK), but that wasn't exactly right. Supreme Court spokesman Aaron Nash clarified today that it would not keep Stringer from providing his own copy of the document (LINK). However, Nash couldn't say with certainty whether the protective order signed in the course of the Arizona Bar's investigation prohibits Stringer from giving House ethics the document "given the circumstances," as the Mirror reported today. Stringer's attorney Carmen Chenal certainly thinks it does. She told our reporter that neither she nor Stringer had a copy of the letter prior to the Arizona Bar's investigation into whether he made all appropriate disclosures when he applied to practice law in Arizona. Stringer has until March 27 to provide documents to House Ethics and until March 29 to sit for an interview. Neither seems likely, as Chenal told our reporter today that the DC Bar intended for the document to be kept confidential, and said Stringer would not sit for an interview with the House's investigators. Nash did not immediately return calls for further comment.

THE BEST LAID PLANS OF MICE AND MEN

Chenal sought to keep the DC Bar letter away from the Legislature from the very beginning. In her request for the protective order, she argued the letter should be disclosed to the Arizona Bar but not the public, including the state Legislature first. And Chenal made it clear that sealing the document would protect Stringer from political fallout. "Disclosure of information in the letter could be used by political opponents to impugn [Stringer's] reputation and character, harm him politically, or influence the outcome of an election, causing irreparable harm to [Stringer], his constituents, and the governance of the State of Arizona," Chenal wrote in her request to O'Neil. And her specificity did not go unnoticed. "Stringer asked for the protective order knowing the House Ethics Committee was convening on this specific issue! He had his counsel specifically include the state Legislature not to receive the documents! This was not the courts independently acting to protect Stringer!" attorney Tom Ryan wrote on Twitter. And Amy Chan, a Clean Elections commissioner and former elections director, noted Stringer could still request that the order be vacated and that the House Ethics Committee could still hold him liable for refusing to cooperate. In any case, Nash said the ultimate decision was for Chenal and Stringer to make.

HOT TAKE, MEET CLAP BACK

After Republic Columnist Elvia Diaz penned a scathing rebuke of "Ducey's unmistakable endorsement of Trump's disdain for Mexico and Mexicans in the U.S." and the governor backing "Trump's 'fake' national emergency," Ducey spokesman Daniel Ruiz clapped back on Twitter. In the column -- posted with the headline, "Boost trade with Mexico AND back Trump? Sorry, governor. You can't do both" (LINK) -- Diaz gives Ducey kudos for increasing bilateral trade between the two countries, and offers some backhanded compliments about an event this week where he "rolled out the red carpet for Mexico's new ambassador to the U.S., Martha Bárcena, and invited the crème de la crème of Arizona business and political trailblazers to boast about his work with Mexico." But as the headline suggests, she argued that means little if Ducey is siding with Trump on bypassing Congress to pay for more border wall. "Trade with Mexico is great, and Ducey deserves kudos for it. But you know what would be even greater? For the governor to show that he also cares for ordinary Hispanics in Arizona -- many of whom are deeply against President Donald Trump and his policies that hurt non-whites," she wrote. It seems that line is what got under Ruiz' skin. He told our reporter yesterday that since Diaz was appointing herself as the voice for all Latinos, he felt compelled to defend his boss on Twitter. "Oh, we know he cares, @ElviaDiaz1. It's why he got 44% of the Hispanic vote last November," he wrote, noting that was against a candidate with a Hispanic surname. Ruiz noted that number dwarfed other Arizona Republicans in recent elections. Citing CNN exit polls, Ruiz noted that Trump earned 31 percent of the Hispanic vote, while McSally earned just 30. McCain, who caught flak from his own party for pushing for comprehensive immigration reform, earned just 40 percent of the Hispanic vote in the 2016 Senate race. "Maybe it's his focus on the economy and education. Or his diverse appointments to leadership and judicial positions. Or just his general commitment and action to secure opportunity for ALL," he wrote.

I DON'T UNDERSTAND TRUMP, BUT I CHOOSE TO IGNORE HIM

Ducey today took a slightly stronger stance against Trump's seemingly endless attacks against McCain. In an interview on KTAR this morning, Ducey said he's baffled at Trump's criticisms of McCain. "I don't understand it. I don't know why he continues to do it," Ducey said. The governor elaborated, saying that he's made it very clear how he feels about the late senator and the McCain family. "For the record, I'm a fan of John McCain and always have been," he said. When KTAR's morning show hosts asked Ducey if he, like McSally, had talked to or tweeted at Trump to discuss the president's attacks on McCain, Ducey responded that's not his style. Out of respect for the McCain family, Ducey said he's trying to avoid throwing gas on the fire. "I don't want to amplify this situation. I don't want to give oxygen to this situation. I want to talk about the senator's service and the example he set for all in elected life," Ducey said. But Trump's harsh critiques of McCain have resulted in consequences for the McCain family. Cindy McCain tweeted earlier this week a message from a stranger, who went on a vicious rant about the late senator. The person, Tiffany Nicole, said she was glad McCain is dead and criticized both McCain and Meghan McCain (LINK). Cindy McCain posted the message on Twitter to publicly shame the random person. Meghan McCain has also faced her fair share of Twitter trolls in response to the recent onslaught of attacks from the president.

SO LONG STEPTOE

The Phoenix branch of Steptoe & Johnson, an international law firm, will close its doors later this year. Kathy King, Steptoe's director of media and public relations confirmed the news to our reporter that it will officially close by September. In a statement, Steptoe said, "While this was a difficult decision, Steptoe's strategic plan is focused on growth in priority practices in key regulatory and financial markets in the United States, Europe and Asia, and maintaining an office in Phoenix is not aligned with the strategic direction of the firm." The firm was open for 32 years and according to its statement recorded its best financial year ever in 2018.

THE SKY IS NOT THE CONTRIBUTION LIMIT

Mark Kelly returned $55,000 from paid speeches he did in the United Arab Emirates after CNN's KFILE questioned Kelly's campaign about the money (LINK). While Kelly's campaign did not cite a reason for returning the money to Keppler Speakers, it was likely to avoid opening him up to criticisms about being influenced by foreign influence. Kelly spoke at the event with his brother in a speech called "The Sky is not the Limit: Life Lessons from NASA's Kelly Brothers."

Subject: URGENT : Your Subpoenae and other issues

⚠ EXTERNALExtension on Subpoenae and other issues

Hi Joe I need answers to my recent emails and those of today including this one please. I know there is a lot going on and you're being pulled in lots of directions these days with the new job, etc., but is there someone else I should communicate with rather than you?

My primary concern at the moment is the continued lack of due process. We have been reassured we will have it but amazingly we are still waiting to interview the two complainants whose complaints are the subject of the investigation. While we continue to communicate with you we are being denied access to basic information we will need to properly defend my client. I have asked you to make them available before since they have not responded to my requests to interview them, and you have not facilitated my interview of them. The committee has no legal right to interview my client before we can conduct the necessary discovery. That is not due process Joe, it is an abuse of process, which is illegal.

This is all contributing to a growing sense that this is a hanging jury and the mission of at least some committee members is to arrive at a specific outcome, rather than be guided by the facts of the matter. I had the same feeling after the last Ethics Committee meeting when I was not allowed to speak during the public portion of the meeting. Information that could help the committee if reviewed on a confidential basis was turned down because it was deemed more important to get potentially embarrassing details into the public than to see them, but my own comments were not allowed because the committee did not want them in the public record. That is a troubling inconsistency and a reminder that Chairman Shope considers this a political process rather than a legal one, when it is a legal one being managed by politicians.

At this point it would be appropriate to grant us a week extension to respond to the subpoenae and then schedule the interview of my client 2 days after the response to your subpoenae, with the caveat that the committee will make available the 2 complainants for my interview of them in the meantime.

Thank you,
Carmen

Carmen, I respectfully disagree with your interpretation of the requirements of due process in this matter. Consequently, we will not facilitate interviews with the complainants at this time. The Ethics Committee understands your reasons for requesting that the D.C. Bar Counsel letter dated May 29, 1984, remain confidential as they were explained in the motion for protective order you filed with Judge O'Neil on March 7, 2019. I look forward to receiving your response to my letter before 5:00 p.m. Take care,

Joe

Dear Joe,

As soon as I receive your responses to my various correspondence of today, I shall respond to yours which came later in the day. You seem to ignore all my requests which is terribly disrespectful of the legal process, and not like you. We are not obstructing justice. I am disappointed in you Joe because it is your committee under your advisement that is clearly obstructing justice. I expect more of you. Answer my correspondence to you and I will immediately respond to yours.

It is premature for you to interview my client representative STRINGER when we have not been able to have a right to do process and confront the complainants. When will you make them available? Also the committee at their last meeting did not allow me to explain why we needed the letter to remain with the ethics committee and not to go to the public. Thanks so much Carmen

Joe one of the rights under due proces is to be able to confront the individuals that are accusing you. I have tried to set up a meeting with both complainants with the ethics committee and have been unsuccessful. Can you please make them available for me to interview this week. It should take no more than 30 minutes at the very very most one hour. Again I appreciate your help. Carmen

RE: Yavapai County Bar Association Membership; Personal and Confidential

David Stringer
231 S. Marina St.
Prescott, AZ 86303

December 10, 2018

Member David Stringer:

The Yavapai County Bar Association, an Arizona Non-Profit organization, was formed for the purpose of educating and facilitating continuing legal education and community events for members of the State Bar of Arizona and their staff, living in Yavapai County.

Membership in this organization is conditioned on the requirement that members comport themselves to the highest level of dignity, compassion, and as a member of the State Bar, adherence to the oath taken when becoming a member of the State Bar of Arizona. This standard of behavior is intentionally high so as to promote confidence in our members by the public we serve.

Your recent comments in public regarding race, diversity, and the burdens of minorities on Arizona, do not comport with this high level of dignity and respect we expect from our members or other Arizona attorneys. These comments fail to promote public trust in our membership and our profession in general.

As such, the Yavapai County Bar Association board has preliminarily determined that your membership renewal for 2019 will be declined, and as such, we are returning your check for membership; see enclosed. Your membership shall end December 31, 2018.

Pursuant to A.R.S. § 10-3621, you have an opportunity to be heard, orally or in writing, at least five days before the effective date of the termination, December 31, 2018, by the members of the Yavapai County Bar Association board.

Thank you for your time and attention on this matter.

PERSONAL AND CONFIDENTIAL

RE: YCBA Membership

Attention: Brian Shaw, Esq.
YCBA President

Sir:

This is in response to your letter of December 10, 2018, advising that my application to renew my membership in the Yavapai County Bar Association has been "preliminarily" declined. The stated reason is "recent comments in public regarding race, diversity, and the burdens of minorities" that do not comport with the "high level of dignity and respect we expect from our members...". For the reasons stated below, I respectfully disagree and urge you to review my comments in their full context and totality.

I am offering a response with the understanding that our communications regarding this matter will be held in the strictest confidence and are privileged from disclosure. To date, I have refrained from a detailed public response to statements attributed me in the media regarding the matters you allude to. I have no plans to offer public comment. However, concerns expressed by an association of my fellow attorney's is a different matter. Out of respect for my profession and a Bar association I hold in high esteem, a response is warranted, with the understanding that our communications are privileged.

First, I should point out that the check of September 26th, returned with your letter is for my 2018 YCBA dues, as noted in the memo line, not an early payment of dues for 2019. (Attachment 1) Your letter is dated December 10th, which suggests that the check was held for an unusually long time. I mention this because my most "recent comments" were not publicized until November 30th, over a month after the check was tendered. This suggests that the decision to "preliminarily" decline my membership was under consideration before my "recent comments" were publicized.

I typically pay my dues at the door early in the year. Since I have been in the legislature I have missed most to the monthly meetings. I did receive an invitation to the Bar picnic and attended with two guests, one of whom is a prelaw major at ASU. My attendance was cleared in advance with Mr. Polk. My first monthly luncheon was on September 26th, when I paid my yearly dues at the door. I also attended a Federal Bar presentation November 9th, which was paid separately. Although I have missed most of the meetings in the last two years, I do find value in the programs offered by YCBA and have attended when my schedule permits. I support my local Bar, value collegial relationships with my fellow attorney's, and will renew my membership if allowed to do so.

Second, I urge the YCBA Board to carefully review my actual statements and not simply what I am said to have said in newspaper reports. I am attaching a transcript of the audio of my most recent exchanges on November 19th with students at ASU. (Attachment 2) A review of this transcript makes clear that statements attributed to me in the media have been excerpted and reported without context. The result is an incomplete and distorted version of what I actually said. The same is true of my June 11th statements before the Republican Men's Forum. An audio of my remarks is available on YouTube and can be accessed thru my Facebook page.

Third, I submit that an association of attorney's sworn to uphold Constitutional rights should be especially vigilant in evaluating political speech. Your letter states that my comments "fail to promote public trust in our membership....". I beg to differ. My comments, read in context and in full were offered with civility and good faith and reflect intellectual honesty and respect for the truth. Everything I have said is factually accurate and can be supported by academic research and the public record. To take four of the most widely reported statements:

1. ".....there aren't enough White kids to go around." The full statement was made in the context of our state's changing demographics and the fact that Arizona's public schools are now 60% minority. The full sentence is "This complicates racial integration because there aren't enough White kids to go around." This is not a racially pejorative statement but a statement of fact. It explains why the Tucson Unified School District is now at 48% capacity due in large part to White flight to charter and private schools. Residential segregation and White Flight from district schools to private and charter schools is a fact of life in Arizona and throughout the country generally. As a member of the House Education Committee for the past two years, I am informed on this issue and the challenge it presents to integration and assimilation in Arizona's public schools.
2. ".....non English speaking children are a burden to our public schools." I recently completed a MA in Education at ASU with a concentration in teaching English as a Second Language (ESL). My capstone project was on Arizona's Structured English Immersion program for English Language Learners. The financial cost of this program born by Arizona taxpayers is 11.5% higher funding than for native English speakers. (ARS 15.943 (ELL). Additional millions are allocated for compensatory education programs and teacher bonuses to ESL teachers. (ARS 15.943.04) Although roughly 80% of ELLs in Arizona's public schools are Hispanic, there are many other language groups represented. My statement referred to non English speaking students. There was no allusion to race or ethnicity.

3. "....immigration represents an existential threat to the United States." This is not an original idea. Many public intellectuals and commentators including Mark Levin, Patrick Buchanan, Tucker Carlson, Heather McDonald, Ann Coulter, and many others have made similar comments about the erosion of national identity and unity as a result of uncontrolled borders and high levels of immigration. Harvard professor, Robert Putnam wrote a bestselling book about how diversity undermines social cohesion and social capital. (Bowling Alone, 2000,). Heather McDonald's "The Diversity Delusion" is a recent bestseller. The ideas behind my statements inform the discussion about Brexit and the migration crises in Europe and the southern border of the United States. Voters have a right to be informed on these issues. Telling the truth is not racism.
4. ".....Blacks don't blend in." A review of my full comments to ASU students reveals this statement, widely reported in the media, to be close to a fabrication. The context was the metaphor of the Melting Pot. There is an extensive academic literature on this subject going back to Nathan Glazer and Daniel Patrick Moynihan's work "Beyond the Melting Pot, 1963). The basic idea is that immigrants of European decent more easily assimilated because they shared a more or less common racial and cultural background, but that other immigrant groups who did not share this background have been marginalized in American society. My full statement, referring to Europeans: "By the 2nd or 3rd generation, everybody looks the same, everybody talks the same, but that's not the case with African-Americans or other racial groups because they don't melt in. They don't blend in, they always look different." The fact that they "always look different" goes a long way to explain racial discrimination, residential segregation, voting patterns and racial profiling. My comment was descriptive of reality, not racially pejorative.

Fourth, I urge you to consider the effect on both your members and the community at large of an association of attorney's imposing a politically correct speech code. Such an action raises troubling questions about YCBA's commitment to political freedom and constitutional principles of free speech. Although you describe my comments as "public", I must point out that the Republican Men's Forum where I spoke on June 9, 2018, is a private organization, much like the YCBA. Although my comments have been excerpted and widely publicized, they were not offered publically. Similarly, my exchanges with students at ASU were made in the context of a private, academic discussion. They were recorded without my knowledge and disseminated by the students themselves. It was the media, not the students, who distorted my comments. None of the media accounts that I have seen, with the exception of prescottnews, of which I am the publisher, has reported my full statements. I mention this not because it would change anything I said but to clarify that I have not sought a public forum to offer what some have characterized as racially insensitive statements.

In reviewing this matter, it may be relevant to consider my personal and professional background. I was first admitted to practice law in 1978 in Washington DC. I am also admitted in Maryland since 1990, and Arizona since 2002. I retired from the active practice of law in 2010, although I have kept my Arizona license active. I have owned a home and business in Prescott since 2004. In forty years of practicing law I have no history of ethical violations, professional lapses or attorney discipline. Over a span of roughly 25 years, my practice encompassed a substantial amount of court appointed and pro bono legal work, both criminal and civil, principally in the District of Columbia. The client base associated with this work was focused in minority communities, predominantly the African American community. In my career as an attorney, I have provided literally thousands of hours of pro bono legal services to people of color.

My legal work in Arizona has been confined to pro bono work. I frequently offer legal advice to friends and associates without fee. In 2017, I handled the appeal of an African American woman living in the Cliff Rose area of Prescott who was targeted for racial harassment by a White neighbor. I have attached my pleading in that matter. (Attachment 3) It was a small case. My client proceeded pro se in the Prescott Municipal Court. When she was found guilty on perjured testimony, it was not a small matter to her. Or to me. I accepted the case on a pro bono basis and bore the costs of investigation and the preparation of transcripts. As outlined in the pleading, I discovered that the complainant had a history of racial animus and harassment.

On appeal to the Yavapai County Superior Court, the case was dismissed without prejudice by Judge Napper in March of last year. (In the interest of full disclosure, my client has since passed away and in a Will prepared by local attorney's Walker and Walker shortly before her death, left me her BMW and a $20,000 insurance policy.) I am currently handling on a pro bono basis the case of Rep. Paul Mosley, (State vs Stephen Paul Mosley) which involves issues of legislative immunity that are of first impression in Arizona.

Since retiring to Prescott, I have been active in civic and philanthropic work. I have served as a Commissioner on the Prescott Planning and Zoning Commission, as a founding Board Member of the Yavapai County Reentry Program, and as a member of the Board of Trustees of the Sharlot Hall Museum and the Prescott Historical Society, to name a few. I have also served as General Counsel to the Citizen's Tax Committee and spearheaded campaigns opposing local tax initiatives. I am particularly proud of my role in defeating the 2014 Jail District Sales Tax, which is saving the residents of Yavapai County 300 million dollars in additional taxes. Since 2016, I have represented LD1 in the State Legislature. In 2017, I co founded a bipartisan study group on criminal justice reform. We are currently in the process of rewriting Arizona's criminal code, which is one of the harshest in the nation.

This past November, I was honored by the voters of LD1 with a second term in the State Legislature. My views on race, immigration and diversity are no secret to the voters of my district. I campaign on these issues. The voters responded by returning me to office as the second highest vote getter for a House seat in the history of Arizona. I mention this not as a boast, but in rebuttal to your assertion that my statements have failed to "promote public trust in our membership and our profession generally." That's not quite what last month's vote of the people is telling us. I readily concede that as a political figure I am controversial. At the moment, I am getting a lot of attention in the press. But I do not complain of this. As FDR once said, "I'm proud of my enemies. I've earned every one of them."

Talking about race, immigration and diversity is not racism. My comments have not been directed at persons but have been phrased in academic and philosophical terms. You will search in vain for any pejorative or demeaning language in anything I have said. Although my statements may be controversial and offensive to some, they are cheered by others as refreshingly honest and truthful. Most importantly, they do not constitute hate speech. The Supreme Court has recently held that under the First Amendment, there is no such thing as hate speech. (Matal v Tam, July 17, 2017). As an association of attorney's, the YCBA should be setting an example as champions of free speech, however politically incorrect or offensive some members may find it. By proposing to deny me membership in the YCBA over political speech, you are acting in direct conflict with the letter and the spirit of the First Amendment.

As an elected official in a state whose public institutions are directly impacted by high levels of immigration, I have a duty to share my views with voters. People are free to agree or disagree, but my constituents have a right to know what I think. The challenges associated with these issues cannot be solved by ignoring them.

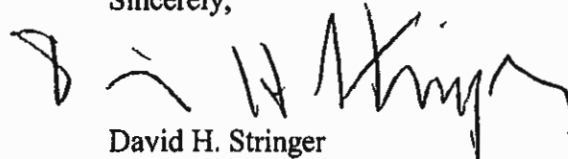

As I write this letter, our national government is shut down due to political divisions over border security and building a wall to stem illegal immigration. Race, immigration and diversity are divisive and inflammatory issues in our society. As an elected official and a member of the Bar, I understand my responsibility to be cautious in what I say and respectful of persons. If some of my colleagues believe my words have been clumsy or if I have given unintended offense to persons, I apologize. However, in resolving this matter, I urge the Board of the YCBA to consider the high duty of attorney's to serve justice as defenders of the constitutional rights of the public. I urge your full throated support of free speech.

A letter about potential litigation would not be complete without a settlement offer. I make no admission of wrong doing. However, as a practical matter, I will be at the state legislature beginning January 14th. I will not be in Prescott on Wednesday's to attend YCBA functions until recess in May. My suggestion is that you vacate your preliminary decision to decline my membership application and defer ruling on my renewal for 2019, until I formally apply and tender dues when I return from the legislature. At that time I would expect you to consider my application for membership de novo and without prejudgment.

I have reviewed ARS 10-3621 and believe your notice of December 10, 2018, is defective on a number of points including vagueness and lack of specificity, improper motivation, meritless allegations, abuse of discretion, personal animus and conflict of interest among one or more Board members, and violation of constitutional protections for political speech. In order to provide the Board adequate time to consider the information provided herein, including the settlement offer, I hereby waive the time limits set forth in ARS 10-3621, although I reserve the right to file suit within six months of any definitive action you might take. I also waive legislative immunity for the purpose of civil process as provided in the Arizona State Constitution. In other words, take as much time as you need.

I am available to discuss this matter in person if you think that would be helpful. Again, I emphasize that this letter and any subsequent communication related to my membership in the YCBA be held in the strictest confidence and privileged from public disclosure. To this end, I request that any copies of this correspondence needed for Board review be numbered and reviewed in a controlled setting.

Sincerely,

So, What Did Representative David Stringer Really Say?

(/media/k2/items/cache/93ce32036561bc1cc590fd61bb8e9273_XL.jpg)

Representative David Stringer was in attendance at the Menorah Lighting Sunday night. Photos from various political events over the years.

Representative David Stringer (LD1) once again made headlines last week.

Note: This article's date has been changed to allow it to be found more easily by readers. The original date of the article is December 3, 2018.

Representative Stringer is under the microscope once again for making comments that some have interpreted to be racist. He has lost his Chairmanship of a legislative committee. And according to Cindy Barks, of the Daily Courier, the Prescott City Council will call a special meeting on Tuesday to discuss whether or not they should make a special statement or recommendations regarding Stringer's statement.

Were the comments really racist? Frequently, media, in its zeal to push a chosen narrative, carefully picks out comments in order to make a point. Often that media will have limitations on exactly what they can report - only so many words in an article, only so long in a newscast. In order to attract readers or viewers, they choose a few words they think will be salacious.

In this case, does the total context of Representative Stringer's comments make a difference?

Background

Representative Stringer had attended a lecture by Professor Don Critchlow. Afterwards, Stringer was in the elevator with a couple of students who started asking him questions, and, unknown to him, recorded the conversation. Here is a transcript - as complete as possible, a few words or phrases were not understandable - of both recordings.

4:21 Clip

David Stringer: ...Uh, the African American vote is probably over 90% Democrat, and it's been that way for decades. The Asian-American vote, the Asian Americans are an educated culture, affluent, relatively speaking, and in our society are not an under-class, they vote overwhelmingly Democratic. The Hispanics, even middle-class Hispanics, they vote overwhelmingly Democrat, because the number one issue is immigration, and bringing more of their co-religionists and people like them, into the country. So, you're never going to get Hispanics elected as Republicans as long as the Republican Party is for border security and lowering levels of immigration. Not going to work, they're not that stupid. They understand which party will do more for them. And that's a divide we're never going to be able to breach.

John (a student): We should go out sometime and have a talk about this. I have something to say about this. I'm agreeing with you that...

David Stringer: It's a very sensitive issue.

John: I thought it was a bit underwhelming for a Democrat election, dating back to 2010, midterm election, during Obama's first term... But even, look at that. Barak Obama won reelection in 2012, the midterms didn't really give us much to work with the upcoming presidential election. But Republicans gained, what was the final count in the Senate? Three in the Senate? And the GOP House, as you have pointed out, didn't do anything anyway on immigration, healthcare. They were pretty much sitting on the sidelines. I don't think that this was the big victory that people were hoping for. And then that middle class observation - it is pretty clear, at least to me, especially after this election, thought it was clear before, but this election confirmed it, that the Democratic has now become the party of the wealthy, of elites. And it's an uneasy alliance of very, very elite, wealthy coastal Americans and lower class urban voters, but not just money to the media, I think there was a Harvard study that showed that 90% of media coverage was anti-Trump against Republicans, who turn on late-night television, who one after another, hammering away, Silicon Valley, I have friends that work in IT that's like, 100% um, consensus on the side of the left, so there are just so many institutional, not to mention university, so many institutional challenges here, that it's actually amazing the Republicans do as well as they do, considering all the obstacles that, uh, that are there.

Don Critchlow: So, I am flying tomorrow for an interview for a documentary in New York City to benefit (unintelligible). So, if something happens to me, John, I want you to raise money for us by asking questions, 'Was Don Critchlow assassinated as we are making too much progress here in university as you can see by this...'

7:30 Clip:

David Stringer: ...been going on for decades, have to remedy those things. The point is, we're spending more money than anyone else, and not getting very much. You say, 'By what measure are we failing?' I would say our educational system is failing, I would say our military system is failing. We've been fighting these wars now over there now for a decade and a half or longer, and they don't seem to be successful at all. Do you know how long World War...

Unknown Student: Is that because this is multi cultural?

David Stringer: It's a lack of political will...

Unknown Student: Through mob culture.

David Stringer: A lot of problems within our military. Talk to our soldiers. Huge racial conflicts and tensions in our military. Costs a fortune to run our military. Soldiers cost a lot...

Unknown Student: Because we have black people in our military.

David Stringer: No, I didn't say that. Sir, don't put words in my mouth now.

Unknown Student: Well, you implied that.

David Stringer: No, I didn't imply that.

(Unable to discern conversation.)

David Stringer: I said there is racial tension in the military. I didn't blame it on blacks or any particular ethnic group. But, uh...

Unknown Student: You're beating around the bush here.

David Stringer: I'm not beating around the bush. Your basic premise is that we don't have any problems here.

Unknown Student: Yes.

David Stringer: Your basic point is that we are a very successful nation. And I would suggest to you that I don't think that's the case.

Unknown Student: But, why are there test...?

David Stringer: Also, diversity in our country is relatively new.

Unknown Student: What do you mean? Irish and Italian - my great-grandfather... (difficult to understand)

David Stringer: They were all Europeans. By the 2nd or 3rd generation, everybody looks the same, everybody talks the same, but that's not the case with African-Americans or other racial groups because they don't melt in. They don't blend in, they always look different.

Unknown Student: Sure they do.

Unknown Student: Why does looking different matter?

David Stringer: I don't know. And maybe it doesn't. It doesn't to you. Maybe it doesn't to a lot of people. But it seems to matter to a lot of people who move out of Detroit, who move out of Baltimore - you know, we have white flight in this country.

Unknown Student: Well, just because the guy... unintelligible...

David Stringer: Well, people are making free choices about where they live. Why is Anthem mostly white, and South Phoenix mostly Hispanic, right? I don't know why, I chose people (unintelligible)

Unknown Student: I sort of want to readdress what you said about how our test scores are lower because of multiculturalism.

David Stringer: No, I said that there is an achievement gap. I said that when you look at different ethnicities...

Unknown Student: You said, 'When you break it down...'

David Stringer: When you drill down, you find that there are achievement gaps. You've heard about this.

Unknown Student: I have not.

David Stringer: You really have not? You have not? It's a big debate in education.

Unknown Student: Why?

David Stringer: About why is it that some groups seem to perform better than other groups over long periods of time in spite of huge resources being put into the school.

Unknown Student: Why?

David Stringer: I don't know why. I honestly don't know why. But it seems to be an enduring, persistent feature of American education that not everybody is getting an equal education, or the same education, even though we're spending roughly the same amounts of money.

Unknown Student: So, what you're saying is,

David Stringer: But you did not know this. I am sorry. I just assumed... I'm in the Department of Education, I'm getting my Master's degree... I'm just suggesting this is why I'm paying attention to this.

Unknown Student: I am very aware...

Unknown Student: Ok, so taking your premise here, uh, so, here in the US, your proposal here, is just to cap it off, cap off immigration.

David Stringer: Slow it down...

Unknown Student: You're very conservative.

David Stringer: To create more opportunity for assimilation. So it's not too much too fast.

Unknown Student: So, you end up, so you're still where we are, which is still a fairly diverse society,

David Stringer: Yes, very diverse.

Unknown Student: So, what's your solution then? How would you go about..

David Stringer: I don't have a solution. I'm just pointing out the problem. I don't have a solution. I don't know how to fix Detroit. I don't know if anybody does know how to fix Detroit. I don't know how to fix that. I lived in Baltimore a few years. I don't know how to fix that. Okay? But that's a different issue than immigration, ok? Those cities are primarily African-American. They're diverse, they have other groups, but they're primarily African-American. The immigration thing is affecting Arizona, California, Texas, Florida, states like that in a very dramatic way. And it's not - You know, it's producing tensions and producing burdens on our system. Did you know that in Arizona we have a very large Hispanic-speaking school children. And that's what I'm studying, ESL. But we have a bunch of overrides for ESL, 11.5%, so it costs a lot more to educate a child that doesn't speak English as a native language. So, that's a burden on the taxpayers, and it's a pretty significant burden.

Unknown Student: Wouldn't they also be included in the taxpayers?

David Stringer: It's not, who pays taxes? Who actually pays the taxes? We just learned that 49% of the people don't pay any taxes at all.

Unknown Student: Just income taxes.

David Stringer: 51% pay taxes, yes - sales tax. Everybody pays sales tax. But then, some people spend more than others. But if you look at who's paying the taxes in the State of Arizona or in the United States, you'd say that some people are paying a lot more than others.

Unknown Student: I just don't see the difference between my great-grandfather, who's a Polish immigrant wanting a better life and somebody from Venezuela who wants to escape a socialist regime.

David Stringer: I don't see a big difference either. I mean, you're coming here for similar purposes, I think that's true.

Unknown Student: There were ethnic issues for that Polish immigrant, who was called a Polack, they were discriminated against, but they assimilated.

David Stringer: The difference between the Polack, I shouldn't say Polack, you said Polack, but I shouldn't say

Polack, the difference between the Polish-American immigrant and the immigrant from say, Somali, is that the 2nd generation Polish immigrant looks like the Irish kid and the German kid and every other kid. But, the immigrant from Somali does not.

Unknown Student: Does it matter?

David Stringer: Well, that's a question. That's a legitimate question. It doesn't matter to you. Maybe that's a good thing. It seems to matter to a lot of people.

Unknown Student: Does it matter to you?

David Stringer: Uh, I don't know. I honestly don't know.

Unknown Student: C'mon, you've got to take a position on that.

David Stringer: No, no, because we're talking philosophically here. My opinion and my preferences really don't. I'm an old white guy, so I look like an old white guy, you know? My career, you might be interested to know this, I spent my career in Washington, D.C., doing a lot of legal aid work for the African American community. I did literally thousands of cases. So, I had a sense that you were maybe trying to stereotype me into this old angry white man, and I am anything but. I spent my life, not in Arizona, but in a very cosmopolitan working with a lot of minorities.

David Stringer: Ok, I have to go. But thank you, nice chatting with you guys.

Unknown Student: Yes.

After that, Representative Stringer received directions to where he was going, and then thanked the students once again as he went on his way.

The first report on these recordings was in a Phoenix New Times article, "In Latest Racist Remarks, Rep. David Stringer Says Black People Don't 'Blend In' (<https://www.phoenixnewtimes.com/news/arizona-lawmaker-resigns-as-commission-chair-after-racist-comments-11057287>)" At the beginning of the article, it is explained that, "New Times embedded highlights from the audio throughout this piece and posted the full files at the bottom." This transcript was taken from the full files at the bottom of the article.

Note from the Editor:

In full disclosure, Representative Stringer is a partner in Specialized Publishing, the parent company of Prescott eNews. However, he has no input in the editorial content of this publication. Comments he makes as a politician, or as a guy on an elevator, are comments he makes for himself.

We will not try to defend or justify his comments in this forum. We will defend his right to express his opinions - it's a matter of free speech. He will reap the good and bad consequences of his words on his own.

The LD1 voters decided overwhelmingly in an August primary and a November general election that he should continue representing this district. Stringer received the 2nd highest number of votes for the Arizona Legislature - only behind Representative Noel Campbell.

In the meantime, it is only appropriate that Stringer's comments be considered in full context before he is judged.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT FOR THE STATE OF ARIZONA

STATE OF ARIZONA,
(APPELLEE)

P1300CR201601098

VS.

DIVISION PTB
HONORABLE JOHN D. NAPPER

ZENA MITCHELL,
(APPELLANT).

APPELLANT'S MOTION TO STAY APPEAL PENDING

TRIAL COURT'S RULING ON MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL

Appellant, thru counsel, respectfully requests that the proceedings in the above referenced appeal be stayed for sixty days pending the trial court's ruling on defendant's motion for a new trial based on newly discovered evidence. In support of this request, counsel states as follows:

1. On July 15, 2016, following a two day trial in the Justice Court of the City of Prescott, defendant, Ms. Zena Mitchell, was found guilty of one count of failing to control a barking dog in violation Section 5-2-5A1, Prescott City Code, said offense alleged to have occurred on March 1, 2016. Defendant filed a timely appeal. By order of Judge Cele Hancock, dated January 5, 2017, the matter has been assigned to this court.

2. The underlying facts concern a complaint from a neighbor of Ms. Mitchell's, Mr. Patrick Swafford, that her dog barked continuously and unreasonably on numerous occasions, including March 1, 2016. At trial, Mr. Swafford testified that he reported the matter to the Cliff Rose HOA and called the police on a number of occasions. Officer Shannon Gray testified that she responded to calls several times but was unable to substantiate the claim.

3. Appellant is untrained in the law and was a pro se defendant at trial. She denied that her dog barked unreasonably and claimed that Mr. Swafford deliberately provoked the dog as a form of racial harassment. Ms. Mitchell is the sole African American resident of the Cliff Rose community. She claimed that Mr. Swafford was harassing her in an attempt to force her out of her home.
4. Upon examination, Mr. Swafford, who is White, denied that his complaint against Ms. Mitchell was motivated by racial bias or that he harbored prejudicial views toward racial minorities. Ms. Mitchell's effort to impeach his testimony was unsuccessful.
5. Although the state presented testimony from another neighbor claiming that Ms. Mitchell's dog barked excessively, Mr. Swafford was the complainant on the March 1st incident and the government's key witness.
6. The court found Ms. Mitchell guilty and imposed a $150 fine which was suspended.
7. Subsequent to trial, difficulties between the parties continued with Ms. Mitchell experiencing continued harassment. On December 2, 2016, while her dog was outdoors, she discovered Mr. Swafford on the sidewalk in front of her home provoking her dog to bark and recording the event with a camcorder. She called the police who responded but declined to intervene because Mr. Swafford was not on her property. However, the officer reportedly told Ms. Mitchell that she could apply to the court for a civil protective order.
8. On December 5, 2016, Ms. Mitchell applied for a protective order in Superior Court and the matter was set for a hearing. However, she was unable to obtain service on Mr. Swafford who was reportedly staying at another residence in Phoenix. The matter was continued several times in an effort to accomplish service. A private process server, Mr. John

Semerau was retained for this purpose. After several attempts, Mr. Semerau spoke to neighbors of Mr. Swafford in an effort to determine his whereabouts. As a result of these contacts, Mr. Semerau learned that Patrick Swafford was currently under a civil protective order in Maricopa County for racial harassment of his neighbors. (See Attachment #1)

9. According to Mr. Rasshi Kapoor, who is of Indian decent, for a period from November 2015 thru June of 2016, Mr. Swafford made threats and racially offensive remarks to him and his family, referring to them as "sand niggers" and "camel jockies". (See Attachment 2). As a result of Mr. Swafford's provocations, Mr. Kapoor installed security cameras and recording equipment on his property and was able to record Mr. Swafford's remarks which were reviewed by the Justice Court in Maricopa County.

10. On January 24, 2017, Mr. Swafford was served with Ms. Mitchel's petition for a protective order and notice to appear in Yavapai County. At the subsequent hearing on February 2, 2017, one of the witnesses in the case, Ms. Georgia Sparks, the former President of the Cliff Rose HOA, provided Ms. Mitchell with copies of several documents relating to Mr. Swafford's background and credibility as a witness. One document is an email Mr. Swafford sent to Ms. Sparks on March 12, 2016, advising her to lie about correspondence she received from Ms. Mitchel's counsel and encouraging the Cliff Rose HOA to do everything possible to drive up Ms. Mitchel's legal costs. (See Attachment 3). A second document refers to a 2006 settlement order filed in United States District Court by the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission against Mr. Swafford and in favor the Danko Office Imaging Company which assesses attorney's fees against Mr. Swafford in the amount of $25,000. (See Attachment 4).

Although the settlement order does not provide details about the Commission's findings, it is reasonable to infer that a judgment entered by the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission very likely involved an allegation of employment discrimination and that Mr. Swafford was found liable.

11. All of the material described herein reflects on Mr. Swafford's credibility as a witness and predates appellant's July 15th trial. Had this information been known at the time, it would have provided significant impeachment of Mr. Swafford's testimony and support for Ms. Mitchell's claim that his complaint against her was inspired by racial animus. The information in the hands of Ms. Sparks was unknown to Ms. Mitchell until February 2, 2017. With regard to Mr. Swafford's harassment of the Kapoor family and the current injunction against him in Maricopa County, it is unreasonable to expect that a pro se defendant in Justice Court would have the means to discover this on their own.

12. These materials have only recently come to the attention of appellant and counsel. Additional time is needed to further investigate Mr. Swafford's background and pattern of targeting people of color for racial harassment.

WHEFREFORE, for these as such other reasons as may appear to the court, it is respectfully requested that this motion be granted and that appellant's appeal be stayed for sixty days from the date hereof for the purpose of filing a motion for new trial.

Respectfully submitted,

David H. Stringer, Bar No. 019604
Attorney for Appellant

Attached is our response. Thank you .

Friday is the last day of trial on the [REDACTED] case. It starts at 1:30 pm in Florence. I will meet with my clients in the morning in Florence, and takes 1.5 hours to get there. They do not send minute entries to attorneys in Phoenix on custody or any cases, but I am trying to get a process server down there to get something that shows I am in trial. First chair. Assuming I can prove it to you then our response to the subpoena is due Wednesday March 27? And meet with committee Friday 29th at 1:00pm. Please confirm as I do not have my calendar with me.

Re: Response to your March 4th letter

Dear Mr. Kanefield,

First, thank you for allowing me adequate time to respond to your March 4th letter. As you know, I had a number of pending matters before I took on this very complex and sensitive matter involving Representative Stringer.

We previously provided you with a preliminary and final response to your February 13th letter. This letter serves to address your letter of March 4th, 2019.

As I believe you know, on March 14th the State Bar of Arizona dismissed the bar charge against Representative Stringer and closed the file. In the dismissal letter from the State Bar, it states with respect to the 1983 arrest of my client, which is apparently of interest to the Committee that:

"In early 1984, the matter was referred to the District of Columbia Office of Disciplinary Counsel. Following a review by that office no action was taken against Representative Stringer and the matter was dismissed."

The letter from the State Bar dismissing the charge goes on to state that:

"I also confirmed with the District of Columbia Office of Disciplinary counsel that the referral made in 1983 regarding this matter was dismissed without any action against Representative Stringer's license to practice law" (you have the dismissal letter from the Bar).

The quoted statements above are important and obviously pertinent to the Committee's investigation, because they come from an independent and reliable source, the State Bar of Arizona. It confirms that the DC Bar investigated and dismissed the 1983 matter which is now, inexplicably of interest to the Committee. In your March 4th letter, you assert that Mr. Stringer's cooperation, "will save the Arizona taxpayers thousands of dollars in legal fees." In view of that statement, one has to ask how the Ethics Committee can justify spending thousands of dollars of taxpayers' money on legal fees investigating a charge that was investigated and dismissed by the District of Columbia Bar 35 years ago and dismissed again on March 14th by the State Bar of Arizona?

The dismissals by the District of Columbia Bar and the State Bar of Arizona Bar obviously support and justify our position that the Committee's investigation of my client should be dismissed. However, despite the objective justification for dismissal of the Committee's investigation, my response to your letter of March 4th follows. On Page 1 of your March 4th letter (the "letter") you claim that some unspecified records relating to these matters still exist because the New Times has them. So far as I am aware, the New Times does not have the unspecified records to which you refer. More to the point, is it your position that due process would be satisfied on the basis of information in unauthenticated records from an unofficial source like the New Times?

The Court File of the 1983 Case is Destroyed

You also request that we stipulate to open the case file of records apparently expunged more than 30 years ago. It is a mystery why you believe we can provide records that were expunged, and then destroyed decades ago. As recently stated by DC Bar Counsel, who investigated this same issue about the status of the case file: DC Bar counsel Julia Porter stated in her email of February 5, 2019 (already provided to you) regarding the Stringer 1983 matter:

"Dear Ms. Chenal - Our case manager says that we have no additional documents for the two matters that were investigated and ultimately dismissed. The dismissal letters were scanned and saved electronically but the other documents in of the files were destroyed".

The investigation was professionally done, and the finding was entirely in Representative Stringer's favor. There is no possible just outcome that can result from trying to better the work product of those professionals some 35 years later with no record or some partial unauthenticated record. The committee might be able to generate some negative headlines for Rep. Stringer by promoting speculation, but while that might be the goal of the 2 complaints, it cannot be the goal of the committee itself. In short, your work was done for you 35 years ago by a team of professionals who had everything they needed to do the job right. On what grounds would you or anyone seek to set aside those findings?

It would be disingenuous for us to stipulate to obtain court records that do not exist.

Records Request from the Committee to my Client

At page 2 of your letter you ask: "that you (Rep. Stringer) provide any records in Rep. Stringer's possession, custody, or control relating to the criminal charges he faced in Maryland, court records relating to those charges (including those already published), or the expungement that the Maryland court presumably granted for the charges Rep. Stringer referred to in the Arizona Daily Independent article." As I have previously informed you relating to this request --- my client has only the two emails previously forwarded to you from DC Bar counsel and the May 29th, 1984 dismissal letter which we will be happy to share with the committee under a protective order or similar protection such as a non-disclosure agreement. It is my understanding that you are asking the committee chairman about this and I appreciate it.

At the bottom of page 3 of your letter, you ask for: "Specifically, please provide his Maryland Bar application, DC Bar Application, Arizona Bar Application, and Certified Public Accountant license application". The State Bar stated in its March 14th, 2019 dismissal letter, page 1, par. 4, that the Arizona Bar Application does not exist, and Rep. Stringer no longer possesses any of the other requested items most of which are decades old. Nor does Rep. Stringer have the results of any background checks, which you have also requested.

Purpose of the Investigation

I appreciate your clarifying that "the purpose of this investigation is to gather evidence surrounding these complaints to assist the Ethics committee in determining how best to address the complaints and allegations" (Your March 4th letter, bottom of pg. 2). I assume the allegations to which you are referring are those in the two complaints filed with the ethics committee, correct? Please confirm that my assumption is correct. Finally, I want to take the opportunity in this response to address other relevant matters.

Due Process

I am requesting an executive session meeting with the committee, or you, that can be kept confidential but where all the evidence on both sides is presented. For now, this informal meeting would just be myself and the committee or just the two of us. I have briefly outlined some case law below which entitles us to due process.

The Court Will Review the Expulsion of a Legislator When It is Alleged that the Legislative Action Violated the Member's Right to Due Process.

In Mecham v. Gordon, 156 Ariz. 297, 751 P.2d 957, the Arizona Supreme Court held that the Court would not interfere in the political decisions of the legislature "when all constitutional requirements undisputedly were met." 62 Ariz. at 268. (emphasis added)

In Arizona Independent Redistricting Commission v. Brewer, 229 Ariz. 347, 275 P.3d 1267(2012) The Court stated: "But it is well settled that when one with standing challenges a duly enacted law on constitutional grounds, the judiciary is the department to resolve the issue even though promulgation and approval of statutes are constitutionally committed to the other two political branches." 229 Ariz. at 355.

Although both the McCham and Brewer cases involved impeachment, the principles of due process are equally applicable to our case. We are entitled to interview his accusers (neither have responded to my request to meet). Perhaps you can facilitate this short meeting between them and me. We are also entitled to review the evidence on which the committee bases its charges prior to any formal decision being made by the Committee.

The right of the judiciary to review the expulsion of a member of the legislature was first squarely faced in Sweeney v. Tucker, 473 Pa. 493, 375 A.2d 698 (1977). The Pennsylvania Supreme Court relied in part on the decision of the United States Supreme Court in Powell v. McCormick, 395 US 488 (1969). There, the Supreme Court found unconstitutional the U.S. Congress' refusal to seat Representative Adam Clayton Powell because of improprieties allegedly committed by him. In Montoya v. The Law Enforcement Merit System Council, 148 Ariz. 108, 713P.2d 309 (1985) the Arizona Court of Appeals held that an individual terminated by government has a liberty interest if that individual is libeled at the same time, and a property interest if the individual has a fixed term of employment. Charles Montoya was discharged by the Arizona Department of Public Safety due to suspicion regarding his honesty. Montoya was a "limited term employee" who could be "terminated at any time". 40 Ariz. at 108 -109. The Court held that because he had no fixed term of employment, he had no property right in the employment. This implied that if he had had a fixed term in employment, he would have a justiciable property right. In the case of Representative Stringer, he was elected by the voters in his district to a fixed term and therefore he has a property right in this position.

Arizona law makes clear that the Court has jurisdiction to resolve an allegation which implicates the unconstitutional denial of a property right, and under the law of all jurisdictions, courts have jurisdiction to resolve an allegation which implicates the denial of a liberty interest, especially when the allegation is that he/she was libeled as part of the termination.

If the legislature had unfettered discretion to expel members, without any possibility for judicial intervention and review when violations of due process are involved, a member could be expelled because of his or her ideology concerning such basic issues as race, gender and religion. The case law confirms that judiciary has the jurisdiction to review expulsion cases as well, especially when due process issues are implicated. E.g., Powell v. McCormick, 395 US 488 (1969); Sweeney v. Tucker, 473 Pa. 493, 375 A.2d 698 (1977); Montoya v. The Law Enforcement Merit System Council, 148 Ariz. 108, 713P.2d 309 (1985).

Conclusion

It is difficult to imagine an investigation more unjustified and unfair to Rep. Stringer, to taxpayers and to the people who elected Rep. Stringer than to ask him to address an issue that was resolved more than 30 years ago. It is also painfully obvious that no member of the legislature -- as a condition of holding office -- is required to provide medical records, tax returns, school records, or any other records of a personal and confidential nature. It is the obligation of the committee to justify this investigation --- Rep Stringer bears no burden of proof in this matter; that burden rests with his accusers. I cannot help thinking that this may be political.

First, nothing Mr. Stringer has said was either terribly original or unusual, his positions mirror those of countless politicians, elected officials, professors, and authors.

Second, not only is Mr. Stringer not a racist but his entire life has been spent helping minorities, often at no cost to them with a real personal and financial cost to Mr. Stringer. And he has long placed himself in harm's way politically to support criminal justice reform which is an issue of tremendous importance to the minority community in Arizona.

Third, his 1983 matter was dismissed by the court in Maryland, and by the DC bar with no moral turpitude found, and with no effect on his license. And, neither of the allegations had anything to do with child pornography which was both the most sensational part of the hit job at the New Times and the main thrust of Mr. Townsend's complaint.

The committee chairman has already stated on the record that he believes this investigation is political and the complaints come from members with political motives. Representative Townsend, one of the two complainants, publicly stated that she believes my client should be kicked out of office to protect her party from losses in 2020.

I hope that you can and will advise your client that in view of the dismissal of these charges by the District of Columbia Bar and the State Bar of Arizona this investigation is not justified either as a matter of law or as a matter involving taxpayer dollars.

Sincerely,

Carmen A. Chenal

Arizona Rep. David Stringer faces expulsion calls after charges from 1983 revealed

Democrats in the Arizona House of Representatives are demanding state Rep. David Stringer resign or face expulsion over a report that he was charged with sex offenses in 1983.

The Phoenix New Times published a story (<https://www.phoenixnewtimes.com/news/court-records-arizona-lawmaker-david-stringer-charged-child-porn-1983-11183294>) Friday about Stringer facing several sex-related charges, according to Maryland state court records obtained by the publication.

At least one of the offenses was related to child pornography, the records state. It's unclear, from available court records, what happened with that charge.

The revelations have again led to calls for Stringer's resignation, and a fellow Republican lawmaker said she plans to file an ethics complaint against him.

Last year, numerous Republicans and Democrats called for Stringer, R-Phoenix, to step down after a series of his racist comments made international

But the embattled lawmaker has no plans to step down, according to a 12News video report. <https://www.12news.com/video/news/politics/rep-david-stringer-responds-to-child-porn-charges/75-99eb6149-bcd4-4eb3-812a-35c9e3d48d9>. He told the station he's never been convicted of a crime.

In a text message to a 12News reporter, he said, "Resigning over a 35 year old allegation for which I was not convicted and which was expunged would set an incredibly bad precedent."

"My life was touched by the criminal justice system many years ago but I escaped the worst consequences."

Stringer didn't respond to repeated requests for comment from The Arizona Republic about details of his 1983 case. However, a right-leaning media outlet reported about his case earlier this month.

ADVERTISEMENT

The Arizona Daily Independent (<https://arizonadailyindependent.com/2019/01/16/experience-drives-david-stringers-empathy-for-those-trapped-in-unjust-system/>) reported that the case started in September 1983, when police officers showed up at Stringer's home over "false" accusations that he had pornography and had patronized prostitutes.

"Stringer didn't have pornography of any kind in his home and those charges were later dropped," the Independent's report states. "But two prostitutes who had been arrested earlier were offering up names in exchange for leniency from prosecutors, and one of the people they claimed was a client was David Stringer."

The article did not cite a source or any other evidence for those statements.

What Stringer's court records show

Court records posted online by the New Times include a case history that states in two places, "Charge is child pornography." The outcome of the charge or charges is unclear from the documents.

It's also unclear what other specific charges he faced, with entries in the document stating "SEX02" and "SEX04" under different case numbers.

Many details of what happened are unknown given the matter was reportedly expunged, meaning records of the case were erased.

Microfilm of his case history was mistakenly provided to the New Times, according to a Maryland Judiciary spokeswoman quoted in that publication's report.

The spokeswoman instructed the paper to destroy the records.

According to the case history, the court entered a judgment of guilt on some combination of charges. Stringer was sentenced to 5 years of probation and ordered to complete 208 hours of community service per year.

Court records also list another part of Stringer's apparent sentence: "Defendant is to seek admission to Dr. Berlin's Program at Hopkins." The New Times reported a man named Dr. Frederick Berlin is currently the director of the Sexual Behavior Consultation Unit at Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine.

Stringer reportedly told the Daily Independent that he accepted a plea of "probation before judgment" on two misdemeanor counts to avoid the possibility of a conviction.

"Weighing the litigation risk against a sure thing, he accepted the deal, completed his community service probation, and the matter was later expunged," the conservative publication's article states, apparently quoting the lawmaker.

Democrats and some Republicans: Time for Stringer to resign

House Minority Co-Whip Reginald Bolding, D-Phoenix, said the latest revelations about Stringer show he can no longer be an effective legislator for his district.

"We believe that he needs to resign," Bolding told The Arizona Republic. "In the absence of a resignation, the House has to show leadership and push for expulsion. It gives Arizona a black eye... we have to take action."

Rep. David Stringer faces another scandal with 1983 sex crime charges

Prior to Friday's revelations, Bolding had led an effort to formally censure Stringer on the House floor over his "white supremacist" comments about race.

The Arizona Democratic Party echoed that call for expulsion in a press statement from spokesman Les Braswell: "These latest revelations of sexual misconduct go beyond the pale of his already disgusting behavior as an elected official in Arizona."

Stringer also faces increasing calls for his resignation from fellow Republicans. Gov. Doug Ducey on Friday called for him to step down — for the third time in a year.

"I've already said he should resign and step down, and I stand by that statement," Ducey told reporters.

State Rep. Kelly Townsend, R-Mesa, said she plans to file a complaint against Stringer with the House Ethics Committee, the body that typically investigates ethical issues involving lawmakers, on Monday. She also called for him to resign.

"The reputation of our institution must remain intact, and the cumulative and escalating nature of the recent unfortunate events places that in jeopardy," Townsend said in a statement.

House speaker: Stringer needs to 'reflect'

But House Speaker Rusty Bowers, R-Mesa, stopped short of calling for Stringer's resignation.

"I spoke to him and expressed my deep concern with the article and its implications," Bowers said in a statement. "Rep. Stringer may have fulfilled the legal consequences of his actions, but I believe that charges of this nature cast a shadow over the entire Legislature and his ability to be an effective legislator."

Bowers said he's asked Stringer to "reflect" on demands that he step down.

Calls for Stringer's resignation started last June, when he was filmed telling a room of Republican activists that immigration poses an "existential threat" to America, adding "there aren't enough white kids to go around" in Arizona public schools.

He continued to make waves throughout the year with controversial comments and writings about race. Ducey and numerous other leaders demanded he resign.

In November, the New Times published recordings of comments Stringer made to a group of university students. Among other remarks, the lawmaker said, "African-Americans and other racial groups don't ... blend in."

Stringer blamed both controversies on media outlets misreporting his statements. He pointed to his re-election margin as his chief defense — 67,023 voters returned him to office in November.

"I am not going to disenfranchise the thousands and thousands of people who just returned me to office a month ago," he said last year.

On Thursday, Stringer surprised his House colleagues when he apologized for his comments on the House floor.

"I believe, on reflection, I have a duty to apologize to you as my colleagues," he said. "I apologize to you. I apologize to the speaker. I apologize to our staff here at the House. And I apologize to the public."

Stringer an advocate for reform of criminal justice system

Stringer has been one of the Legislature's most vocal advocates for criminal justice reform. This session, he's sponsoring a bill that would allow convicted adult sex offenders to petition a court to remove their duty to register after 10 years.

He's also an attorney and has been a member of the State Bar of Arizona since January 2004, according to online records.

Attorneys are admitted to the bar through the Arizona Supreme Court.

A spokeswoman for the court said it cannot release records from Stringer's application, citing a rule that requires admission applications be kept confidential.

It's unclear if Stringer disclosed his Maryland plea in his application to practice law in Arizona.

The Independent reported that Stringer's bar admission in Arizona, and earlier Maryland, "required not just technical competence but police clearances and character and fitness investigations, which meant disclosing not just convictions, but arrests themselves.

"He said that he has always fully complied with those requirements and is proud that since his first admission to practice law in 1978, over 40 years ago, he has maintained an unblemished record as an attorney," the article states.

Good Afternoon, Ms. Chenal,

I just received a phone call from Representative David Stringer, who advised me that he has retained you to represent him in the above referenced matter. We will add you to our file as Respondent's Counsel.

Representative Stringer was calling me back from a voicemail that I just left for him minutes before. When I spoke with Representative Stringer about this matter over the telephone yesterday, he advised me that the D.C. Bar took the matter up in 1984 and then dismissed it.

I reached out to the folks in Washington D.C. to see if they had any records or documentation of the 1984 matter that they opened and dismissed regarding the criminal matter from 1983.

They may have something, but if they do, they would need Representative Stringer's consent and permission to provide those materials, whatever they have, if they have anything at all, to me so I can add it to our file here and review it.

Would Representative Stringer be willing to provide that consent and permission to the Washington D.C. bar?

Please advise at your convenience. If there is anything that you need from me, please do not hesitate to contact me at your convenience. My direct phone number is listed below. I look forward to working with you on this matter.

I have spoken with Representative Stringer. He would like to speak with you regarding what, if anything, you guys have, and then also he may have some questions about what, if anything, is publicly available pursuant to your Rules, as he may wish to seek a protective order here in Arizona over whatever we obtain from you, if anything.

So, I am going to send an email to Representative Stringer and to you both stating that, and also providing the generic phone number for the Office of Disciplinary Counsel.

Is it OK if Representative Stringer uses both of you as a point of contact?

Hi Matt –

Our electronic database reveals there were two docketed matters against Mr. Stringer, one in 1984 and one in 1999, both of which were dismissed within several months of being opened. Mr. Stringer is also licensed in Maryland according to our records.

Hope that helps.

Best regards,

Lawrence

I apologize for any inconvenience but can you please confirm by return email to me the following: that the May 29, 1984 dismissal letter you sent me regarding David Stringer's bar investigation is the only document the D.C. Bar has, and the other documents from Mr. Stringer's 1984 matter were destroyed.

BEFORE THE PRESIDING DISCIPLINARY JUDGE

7 IN THE MATTER OF A MEMBER OF THE
8 STATE BAR OF ARIZONA

PO No. 2019-020

REQUEST FOR PROTECTIVE

9 DAVID H. STRINGER
10 Bar No. 19604

State Bar File: 19-0274

12
13
14 Respondent, David H. Stringer, through counsel undersigned,
15 respectfully requests that the Presiding Disciplinary Judge of the Supreme
16 Court of Arizona (PDJ), grant Respondent's Request for a Protective Order,
17 pursuant to Rule 70(g) of the Rules of the Supreme Court. Rule 70(g) permits a
18 party or person, with good cause shown, to request that the Presiding
19 Disciplinary Judge issue an order sealing a portion of the record of a state bar
23
25

1 sealed information. According to the rule, the material sealed shall remain
2 confidential.

3 The protective order sought here requests that a May 29, 1984, letter of
4 dismissal from the D.C. Bar ("the letter") relating to its investigation of Mr.
5 Stringer be disclosed to the State Bar of Arizona, but otherwise sealed from
6 the public. The public includes but is not limited to all governmental entities
7 and agencies including but not limited to the Arizona Legislature, Executive
8 branch agencies, city, county, and other municipal agencies, all public and
9 private media including print, TV, cable, internet, cellular and wireless
10 communications, all business entities, private individuals and the general
11 public.
14

15 The reason for sealing the information from the public is as follows: The 16 letter was issued in connection with an investigation more than three
17 decades ago by the D.C. Bar, "which is confidential and shielded from public
18 disclosure pursuant to DC Bar Rule XI, 17(a)," per The Office of Disciplinary
19 Counsel in Washington D.C. The letter also includes references to sensitive
20 personal matters that have been expunged from record by the Maryland court
21 since the letter of dismissal was written.

24 The disclosure of the letter or information contained in it would violate
25 Respondent's right to privacy and could be misinterpreted, selectively
26

1 reported or otherwise used to harm Respondent's reputation, personal
2 character, and professional standing.

3 Respondent is an elected official currently serving in the Arizona
4 legislature. Disclosure of information in the letter could be used by political
5 opponents to impugn Respondent's reputation and character, harm him
6 politically, or influence the outcome of an election, causing irreparable harm
7 to Respondent, his constituents, and the governance of the State of Arizona.

10 The State Bar of Arizona wishes to review and obtain a copy of the 11 letter and does not oppose this request for a Protective Order, as the Rules of
12 the originating disciplinary authority state that this material is not publicly
14 D.C.

16 For all the above reasons, Respondent respectfully requests that the 17 protective order be granted.
18

19 A proposed Protective Order is attached as Exhibit A.

20 Counsel for Respondent has given her authority to Staff Bar Counsel
21 Matt McGregor to sign and file this Request for Protective Order on her behalf.

Re: File No: 19-0274
Complainant: State Bar of Arizona
Respondent: David H. Stringer

Dear Ms. Chenal:

The State Bar recently opened a bar charge against your client, Representative David H. Stringer. After our review of the charge and subsequent inquiry, we have determined that no further investigation is warranted at this time. We therefore consider this file closed.

On January 29, 2019, the State Bar of Arizona Initiated this matter due to news reports that had surfaced about your client's criminal history. The matter was opened to determine if Representative Stringer had made all appropriate disclosures of this criminal matter during the admissions process to become a member of the State Bar of Arizona in 2004.

I initially spoke with Representative Stringer regarding his application for admission in Arizona. He indicated that he made all appropriate disclosures. During that contact he advised that when he was arrested in 1983 he was licensed to practice law in the District of Columbia. In early 1984, the matter was referred to the District of Columbia Office of Disciplinary Counsel. Following a review by that Office no action was taken against Representative Stringer and the matter was dismissed.

I thereafter contacted the Arizona Supreme Court Admissions Office to determine whether that office had a copy of Representative Stringer's application for admission. I was advised that the application no longer existed. I also confirmed with the District of Columbia Office of Disciplinary Counsel that the referral made in 1983 regarding this matter was dismissed without any action against Representative Stringer's license to practice law.

At this time, it does not appear that there is clear and convincing evidence or that such evidence could be developed to support the allegation that Representative Stringer failed to make the required and appropriate disclosures in seeking admission to the State Bar of Arizona.

This matter is dismissed, and our file closed. However, if additional information should come to our attention, the State Bar may reopen this matter for further investigation.

Pursuant to Rule 70(a) (4), Ariz. R. Sup. Ct., the record of this charge will be public for six months from the date of this letter. This charge has no adverse impact on your client's standing with the State Bar. The record shows a charge that was dismissed. Pursuant to Rule 71, Ariz. R. Sup. Ct., the State Bar file may be expunged in three years.

Sincerely,

Dear Carmen, please consider this my response to your emails from yesterday. Please let me know if that is not correct. I am meeting with Chairman Shope tomorrow morning. I will let you know his decision shortly thereafter.

You asked who is the investigator in this matter. Ballard Spahr was hired by the House Ethics Committee chair to conduct this investigation. The investigation is being led by me and my team. The lawyers at Ballard Spahr will ask Representative Shope questions as part of our investigation for the Committee. You also asked how many copies we need of the documents requested in the subpoena. We would prefer that the documents be provided electronically if possible. If the documents must be provided in paper form, please provide us three copies.

Thank you for providing me the case number of the matter involving Representative Stringer that is pending before the State Bar of Arizona as well as Judge O'Neil's protective order issued on March 12, 2019. You asked if I will agree that "the State Supreme Court's order applies to the ethics committee". Please clarify this request. The subpoena issued by the Ethics Committee Chair on March 11, 2019, is directed to Representative Stringer and not the State Bar of Arizona.

Finally, you have offered to share the May 29, 1984 letter of dismissal from the D.C. Bar with the House Ethics Committee subject to it being kept under seal. It would be helpful if you could provide more information as to why Representative Stringer is requesting this letter be kept confidential. This will be helpful as Chairman Shope considers this request. Take care,

The protective order is just with respect to the May 1984 one page letter from DC bar. Unless bar says we cannot do so we will happily share the letter with you in our response to your subpoenae - subject to it being kept under seal and not given to the public (meaning anyone outside the ethics committee). This would be somewhat consistent with what the protective order says.

Dear Carmen, please consider this my response to your emails from yesterday. As I noted in my prior email, I will ask Chairman Shope if he would be willing to extend the subpoena deadline to Friday, March 29. I will let him know you have requested the extension because you are in trial on March 22 in another matter and need additional time to gather the requested documents. Please let me know if that is not correct. I am meeting with Chairman Shope tomorrow morning. I will let you know his decision shortly thereafter.

You asked who is the investigator in this matter. Ballard Spahr was hired by the House Ethics Committee chair to conduct this investigation. The investigation is being led by me and my team. The lawyers at Ballard Spahr will ask Representative Shope questions as part of our investigation for the Committee. You also asked how many copies we need of the documents requested in the subpoena. We would prefer that the documents be provided electronically if possible. If the documents must be provided in paper form, please provide us three copies.

Thank you for providing me the case number of the matter involving Representative Stringer that is pending before the State Bar of Arizona as well as Judge O'Neil's protective order issued on March 12, 2019. You asked if I will agree that "the State Supreme Court's order applies to the ethics committee". Please clarify this request. The subpoena issued by the Ethics Committee Chair on March 11, 2019, is directed to Representative Stringer and not the State Bar of Arizona.

Finally, you have offered to share the May 29, 1984 letter of dismissal from the D.C. Bar with the House Ethics Committee subject to it being kept under seal. It would be helpful if you could provide more information as to why Representative Stringer is requesting this letter be kept confidential. This will be helpful as Chairman Shope considers this request. Take care,

Subject: RE: Subpoane on REpresentative Stringer's matter

Carmen, I will ask Chairman Shope if he would be willing to extend the subpoena deadline to Friday, March 29. Please let me know the reason why Representative Stringer is requesting the extension. Also, please note that this is not a subpoena to appear before the full Ethics Committee. Rather, this subpoena requires the production of records and Rep. Stringer's appearance to be questioned by the Ethics Committee investigators on behalf of the Committee at my office on Friday, March 22 at 1:00 p.m. Also, during our last phone call you referenced a legal proceeding to seal records related to Representative Stringer at the State Bar of Arizona. Please provide the case name and number of this civil action. Take care,

Joe

Joe,

Thank you for offering to give us more time to respond to the record subpoena and for David to appear before the ethics committee. Does next Friday the 29th at 1pm work for David to appear before the committee members, and you at your office and provide the records that are available. We will be happy to answer any of the committee members questions. Please let me know.

All my best,

Carmen

This is an ongoing process so it is going to be going back-and-forth like this. You wanted an answer on the stipulation and I told you that we may stipulate but as of today we won't stipulate. I think there is a possibility we will stipulate but not today. Let's keep this amicable. All my best Carmen

Re: Arizona House Ethics Committee Investigation of Representative David Stringer

Dear Mr. Kanefield:

This is our response to your letter of February 13, 2019, regarding an ethics investigation concerning Representative David Stringer. Our understanding is that the investigation concerns 1) a claim of disorderly conduct based on a newspaper article alleging a 1983 arrest in Baltimore, Maryland, and 2) a claim of disorderly conduct based on statements by Mr. Stringer on issues of immigration, race, and diversity.

On February 26, 2019, we provided you with a preliminary response regarding the 1983 matter. At that time, we raised several threshold questions about the ethics committee's evidentiary and procedural process which have yet to be answered. Set forth below we address the remaining concerns of your February 13, 2019 letter, namely Mr. Stringer's statements which have been the subject of news reports.

House Members' Political Speech is protected by the First Amendment of the United States Constitution , and Article 2, Section 6 of the Arizona Constitution

First, political speech by a member of the legislature cannot constitute disorderly conduct . In fact, expressions of opinion by a legislator, and by any Arizonan, are constitutionally protected under the First Amendment of the United States Constitution and Article 2, Section 6, of the Arizona State Constitution. Every member of the legislature, including Representative Stringer has sworn to uphold our state and federal constitutions. There is no exception that allows the state legislature to sanction or censure a member's political speech.

The Supreme Court of Arizona has clearly stated that the Constitution of Arizona provides an additional layer of protection for free speech and has “a greater scope than the first amendment.” Mountain State Telephone and Telegraph Co. v. Arizona Corporation Commission. 773 P.2d. 455, 459. (Ariz. 1989). The Court has held that the right to free speech for all Arizonans is a “personal right”. Phoenix Newspapers, Inc. v. Superior Court., 418 P.2d. 594. For these reasons, any effort to censure or otherwise discipline Representative Stringer, or any member of the state legislature, for exercising their constitutionally protected right to free speech would constitute a violation of their civil rights and would be actionable under both state and federal law. Any effort to censure, silence, or punish free speech is an affront to the dignity of constitutional government.

Rep. Stringer's statements on the politically sensitive topics of immigration, race and diversity, are expressions of opinion. The statements of June 11, 2018 were part of a speech delivered at the Republican Men's Forum in Prescott, Arizona; the remarks of November 19, 2018, were made to a small group of students following a seminar at ASU about the November 2018 election. Rep. Stringer's statements were not addressed to legislative colleagues or staff of the House of Representatives or to the general public. Second, we encourage members of the Ethics Committee to review Mr. Stringer's actual statements and not simply what he is reported to have said in newspaper articles. We note that the two complainants did not cite Mr. Stringer's actual statements or specify what they found offensive, but simply attached copies of newspaper articles in support of their claims.

With all due respect to the media, journalists are not the self-appointed arbiters of what constitutes racism. Members of the media often have their own biases and agendas and standards of political correctness. They have a right to their opinions, but those opinions are of no more validity or worth than those of anyone else.

Creating an eye-catching headline characterizing statements as "racist" does not in fact make them racist. Relevant portions of Mr. Stringer's June 11th statements are available for review on YouTube. We are forwarding a transcript of the audio recording of his November 19th statements at ASU, Ex. 1.

A review of these records clearly shows the statements attributed to him in the media have been excerpted and reported without context. The result is an incomplete and distorted version of what Mr. Stringer said.

As members of an elected body sworn to uphold the constitutional rights of Arizonans, the House Ethics Committee should be especially vigilant in evaluating political speech. Mr. Stringer's comments, read in context, were offered with civility and good faith and reflect intellectual honesty and respect for the truth. Everything he has said is supported by academic research and the public record. The following is a detailed response to four of the most widely reported statements:

1. “.....there aren’t enough white kids to go around.” The full statement was made in the context of our state’s changing demographics and quotes or paraphrases many educators and education advocates who have described a trend where white flight to charter and private schools from district schools is creating re-segregation in our schools and this is doing a disservice to newly arrived students. Increasing segregation prevents integration . And, a lack of native-born students who can help assimilate newly arrived students is making life much more difficult for those who have to teach in those school districts, particularly when there is a great deal of emphasis placed on English proficiency.

Residential and educational segregation is often a fact of life in Arizona and throughout the country generally. As a member of the House Education Committee from 2016 to 2018, Rep. Stringer is informed on this issue and the challenge it presents to integration and assimilation in Arizona’s schools. Mr. Stringer’s statements are factually accurate and promote open public discourse. Attempting to punish or silence debate on this topic does a disservice both to our democratic institutions and the cause of public education in Arizona.

2. “....non-English-speaking children are a burden to our public schools.” Rep. Stringer recently completed a MA in Education at ASU with a concentration in teaching English as a Second Language (ESL). His capstone project was on Arizona’s Structured English Immersion program for English language learners. The financial cost of this program borne by Arizona taxpayers is 11.5% higher funding than for native English speakers. (ARS 15.943 (ELL).

Additional millions are allocated for compensatory education programs and teacher bonuses to ESL teachers. (ARS 15.943.04). Although roughly 80% of ELLs in Arizona are Hispanic, there are many other language groups represented.

Rep. Stringer's statement referred to non-English speaking students. There was no allusion to race or ethnicity.

Further, in their effort to attribute racism to Rep. Stringer's motives, the media and the accusers in this matter have chosen to ignore that Stringer himself has invested several years of effort and substantial personal resources to earn a master's degree in ESL so he can help the very students he is accused to being biased against. This pattern of ignoring Mr. Stringer's actions in favor of misleading newspaper headlines is visible again and again in this matter.

3. "...immigration represents an existential threat to the United States." This is not an original observation and statement by Representative Stringer. Many public officials and commentators, including Mark Levin, Tucker Carlson, President Trump, and many others have made similar comments about the erosion of national identity and unity as a result of uncontrolled borders and high levels of both legal and illegal immigration. Nor is this strictly a Republican or conservative observation or opinion. Harvard professor Robert Putnam, a nationally recognized liberal, has written a bestselling book that addresses how diversity can undermine social cohesion and social capital. (Bowling Alone, 2000). The ideas behind Rep. Stringer's belief that unlimited legal and illegal immigration overwhelms a nation's ability to properly assimilate newcomers paraphrases our own Governor Doug Ducey, among others, yet no one who has made such statements has been on the receiving end of such concentrated and hostile media attention or targeted for an ethics investigation.

Merely a decade ago it was accepted truth within the Democratic Party that illegal immigration was wrong, bad for the country, and something that needed to be completely shut down. The 2008 Democratic Party Platform warned that "We cannot continue to allow people to enter the United States undetected, undocumented, and unchecked, adding that “those who enter our borders illegally, and those who employ them disrespect the rule of law and they are showing disregard for those who are following the law. We simply cannot allow people to pour into the United States undetected, undocumented, unchecked and circumventing the line of people who are waiting patiently, diligently and lawfully to become immigrants into this country.”

And who addressed the “challenge” of illegal immigrants and said, “we certainly do not want any more coming in.”? It was Nancy Pelosi.

Mr. Stringer’s views are not only very much in the mainstream of American views today, he is only a decade removed from the same viewpoint as the leadership of the Democratic Party. Mr. Stringer’s views inform the discussion about Calexit, and Brexit and the migration crises in Europe and on the southern border of the United States. As an elected official, Rep. Stringer has a right to discuss these issues with his constituents. Telling them the truth on a topic that is about national security, economic strength, public safety, and more, is not racist. At the risk of incurring further backlash by once again merely repeating what countless officials and leaders have said before, the issue of illegal immigration is not about race.

4. “.....blacks don’t blend in.” A review of Rep. Stringer’s full comments to ASU students reveals this statement, widely reported in the media without context, is close to a fabrication. And as with the other statements that form the basis for these complaints, it is not some original creation of David Stringer. Rather, it is the life experiences of Mr. Stringer’s own clients and friends as black Americans that give him the anecdotal information, that he relayed to the ASU students. Those students may or may not have agreed, but they are real feelings based on real life experiences and they deserve respect and consideration. The metaphor of the Melting Pot was the context of Mr. Stringer's remarks.

There is an extensive academic literature on this subject going back to Nathan Glazer and Daniel Patrick Moynihan's work, "Beyond the Melting Pot" (1963). The basic idea is that immigrants of European decent more easily assimilated into the dominant, European society because they shared a common racial and cultural background. Other immigrant groups who did not share this background have been marginalized to varying degrees. The full statement, referring to Europeans: "By the 2nd or 3rd generation, everyone looks the same, everybody talks the same, but that's not the case with African-Americans or other racial groups because they don't melt in. They don't blend in. They always look different." The fact that they "always look different" goes a long way to explain racial discrimination, racial profiling, residential and school segregation, and more. This studied observation of a very long time ago is supported by the far more current real-life experiences of Mr. Stringer's friends and clients—making it descriptive of reality, not racially pejorative.

It is racist for a policeman to pull someone over for driving while black. It is not racist to point out that driving while black is something that happens. Mr. Stringer's statement was descriptive of reality; In reviewing Mr. Stringer's statements it is relevant to consider his personal and professional background. He has been a practicing attorney for over forty years. He has no history of ethical violations, lapses of professional judgment or attorney discipline. Over a span of twenty-five years, roughly 1985 to 2010, he was an active trial attorney in Washington DC.

He accepted many court appointed cases both civil and criminal and performed literally thousands of hours of pro bono legal work. The client base for this work was primarily focused in minority communities, predominantly the African American community but also other communities of color in Washington DC and suburban Maryland. It is this personal experience working with minority communities that informs Mr. Stringer's views on the marginalization and alienation that many people of color feel in a society that is predominantly white. Rep. Paten spoke to this the other day on the House floor when she referred to "code switching" and "how we talk when ya'all are not around." When Mr. Stringer states that ".....blacks don't blend in", he is expressing the angst of what hundreds of black clients have told him over twenty-five years of fighting for their civil and constitutional rights in courts of law. This personal history is incompatible with the idea that Mr. Stringer harbors uncharitable or racist views towards people of color. His entire career is a testament to racial justice and protecting the civil and constitutional rights of his clients.

Since retiring to Prescott, Arizona in 2010, Mr. Stringer has been active in civic and philanthropic work. He has served on many local boards and commissions. And he has continued with his longtime practice of providing pro bono legal services to his community. In 2017, he accepted the appeal of an African American woman in Prescott who had been targeted for racial harassment by a white neighbor. She had represented herself in the Prescott Justice Court and was found guilty on perjured testimony. Mr. Stringer accepted the case pro bono and bore the costs of investigation and preparation of transcripts. He discovered that the complainant had a history of racial animus and harassment. Mr. Stringer's investigation of the case and Motion for New Trial led to his client's conviction being vacated and the case dismissed with prejudice on appeal. A copy of the pleading is attached as Ex. 2.

In his first term in the Arizona legislature, Rep. Stringer co-founded a bipartisan study group on criminal justice reform. Championing criminal justice reform has brought Rep. Stringer to the attention of powerful interests in our state who are opposed to reform. Yet he has persisted despite the political cost. Placing his political future at risk so that tens of thousands of people, many of whom are minorities, can make it out of the criminal justice system earlier is not only an issue of importance to minorities, but it is entirely inconsistent with racial prejudice or bias against people of color by Representative Stringer.

Mr. Stringer's statements about immigration, race and diversity are not evidence of racism. His comments have not been directed against persons but have been phrased in academic and philosophical terms. The Ethics Committee will search in vain for any pejorative or demeaning language in anything he has said. Although his views may be threatening or offensive to some, others find them refreshingly honest and truthful. Most importantly, they do not constitute hate speech. The Supreme Court has recently held that under the First Amendment, there is no such thing as hate speech, Matal v Tam, July 17, 2017. For the Ethics Committee to find that Mr. Stringer's statements violate a standard of conduct of the state legislature is to act in direct conflict with the letter and spirit of the First Amendment.

Conclusion

On January 23rd, Rep. Stringer stood before an open session of the House of Representatives and tendered a formal apology to his colleagues and House staff, the Speaker, and the general public, for any offense he might have given. He did so out of concern that they had been misled by reports in the media that he made racist statements or was prejudiced toward people of color. His purpose was to assure his colleagues of his respect for them and willingness to work with them as legislators for the good of our state. Mr. Stringer recognizes that the issues surrounding immigration, race and diversity are highly sensitive in our society. As a Member the House of Representatives, he recognizes his responsibility to be cautious in his choice of words and respectful of persons. To the extent that he has unintentionally given offense, he has apologized.

However, Mr. Stringer urges the Ethics Committee to examine his statements in their full context and to recognize that they are intended to promote an honest and open discussion about these issues that are of concern to people who come from every part of society.

Considering the foregoing, it is respectfully requested that the ethics complaint concerning Representative . Stringer's statements be dismissed.

Sincerely,

Carmen A. Chenal

So, What Did Representative David Stringer Really Say?

(/media/k2/items/cache/93ce32036561bc1cc590fd61bb8e9273_XL.jpg)

Representative David Stringer was in attendance at the Menorah Lighting Sunday night. Photos from various political events over the years.

Representative David Stringer (LD1) once again made headlines last week.

Note: This article's date has been changed to allow it to be found more easily by readers. The original date of the article is December 3, 2018.

Representative Stringer is under the microscope once again for making comments that some have interpreted to be racist. He has lost his Chairmanship of a legislative committee. And according to Cindy Barks, of the Daily Courier, the Prescott City Council will call a special meeting on Tuesday to discuss whether or not they should make a special statement or recommendations regarding Stringer's statement.

Were the comments really racist? Frequently, media, in it's zeal to push a chosen narrative, carefully picks out comments in order to make a point. Often that media will have limitations on exactly what they can report - only so many words in an article, only so long in a newscast. In order to attract readers or viewers, they choose a few words they think will be salacious.

In this case, does the total context of Representative Stringer's comments make a difference?

Background

Representative Stringer had attended a lecture by Professor Don Critchlow. Afterwards, Stringer was in the elevator with a couple of students who started asking him questions, and, unknown to him, recorded the conversation. Here is a transcript - as complete as possible, a few words or phrases were not understandable - of both recordings.

4:21 Clip

David Stringer: ...Uh, the African American vote is probably over 90% Democrat, and it's been that way for decades. The Asian-American vote, the Asian Americans are an educated culture, affluent, relatively speaking, and in our society are not an under-class, they vote overwhelmingly Democratic. The Hispanics, even middle-class Hispanics, they vote overwhelmingly Democrat, because the number one issue is immigration, and bringing more of their co-religionists and people like them, into the country. So, you're never going to get Hispanics elected as Republicans as long as the Republican Party is for border security and lowering levels of immigration. Not going to work, they're not that stupid. They understand which party will do more for them. And that's a divide we're never going to be able to breach.

(a student): We should go out sometime and have a talk about this. I have something to say about this. I'm agreeing with you that...

David Stringer: It's a very sensitive issue.

John: I thought it was a bit underwhelming for a Democrat election, dating back to 2010, midterm election, during Obama's first term... But even, look at that. Barak Obama won reelection in 2012, the midterms didn't really give us much to work with the upcoming presidential election. But Republicans gained, what was the final count in the Senate? Three in the Senate? And the GOP House, as you have pointed out, didn't do anything anyway on immigration, healthcare. They were pretty much sitting on the sidelines. I don't think that this was the big victory that people were hoping for. And then that middle class observation - it is pretty clear, at least to me, especially after this election, thought it was clear before, but this election confirmed it, that the Democratic has now become the party of the wealthy, of elites. And it's an uneasy alliance of very, very elite, wealthy coastal Americans and lower class urban voters, but not just money to the media, I think there was a Harvard study that showed that 90% of media coverage was anti-Trump against Republicans, who turn on late-night television, who one after another, hammering away, Silicon Valley, I have friends that work in IT that's like, 100% um, consensus on the side of the left, so there are just so many institutional, not to mention university, so many institutional challenges here, that it's actually amazing the Republicans do as well as they do, considering all the obstacles that, uh, that are there.

Don Critchlow: So, I am flying tomorrow for an interview for a documentary in New York City to benefit (unintelligible). So, if something happens to me, John, I want you to raise money for us by asking questions, 'Was Don Critchlow assassinated as we are making too much progress here in university as you can see by this...'

7:30 Clip:

David Stringer: ...been going on for decades, have to remedy those things. The point is, we're spending more money than anyone else, and not getting very much. You say, 'By what measure are we falling?' I would say our educational system is failing, I would say our military system is failing. We've been fighting these wars now over there now for a decade and a half or longer, and they don't seem to be successful at all. Do you know how long World War...

Unknown Student: Is that because this is multi cultural?

David Stringer: It's a lack of political will...

Unknown Student: Through mob culture.

David Stringer: A lot of problems within our military. Talk to our soldiers. Huge racial conflicts and tensions in our military. Costs a fortune to run our military. Soldiers cost a lot...

Unknown Student: Because we have black people in our military.

David Stringer: No, I didn't say that. Sir, don't put words in my mouth now.

Unknown Student: Well, you implied that.

David Stringer: No, I didn't imply that.

(Unable to discern conversation.)

David Stringer: I said there is racial tension in the military. I didn't blame it on blacks or any particular ethnic group. But, uh...

Unknown Student: You're beating around the bush here.

David Stringer: I'm not beating around the bush. Your basic premise is that we don't have any problems here.

Unknown Student: Yes.

David Stringer: Your basic point is that we are a very successful nation. And I would suggest to you that I don't think that's the case.

Unknown Student: But, why are there test...?

David Stringer: Also, diversity in our country is relatively new.

Unknown Student: What do you mean? Irish and Italian - my great-grandfather... (difficult to understand)

David Stringer: They were all Europeans. By the 2nd or 3rd generation, everybody looks the same, everybody talks the same, but that's not the case with African-Americans or other racial groups because they don't melt in. They don't blend in, they always look different.

Unknown Student: Sure they do.

Unknown Student: Why does looking different matter?

David Stringer: I don't know. And maybe it doesn't. It doesn't to you. Maybe it doesn't to a lot of people. But it seems to matter to a lot of people who move out of Detroit, who move out of Baltimore - you know, we have white flight in country.

Unknown Student: Well, just because the guy... unintelligible...

David Stringer: Well, people are making free choices about where they live. Why is Anthem mostly white, and South Phoenix mostly Hispanic, right? I don't know why, I chose people (unintelligible)

Unknown Student: I sort of want to readdress what you said about how our test scores are lower because of multiculturalism.

David Stringer: No, I said that there is an achievement gap. I said that when you look at different ethnicities...

Unknown Student: You said, 'When you break it down...'

David Stringer: When you drill down, you find that there are achievement gaps. You've heard about this.

Unknown Student: I have not.

David Stringer: You really have not? You have not? It's a big debate in education.

Unknown Student: Why?

David Stringer: About why is it that some groups seem to perform better than other groups over long periods of time in spite of huge resources being put into the school.

Unknown Student: Why?

David Stringer: I don't know why. I honestly don't know why. But it seems to be an enduring, persistent feature of American education that not everybody is getting an equal education, or the same education, even though we're spending roughly the same amounts of money.

Unknown Student: So, what you're saying is,

David Stringer: But you did not know this. I am sorry. I just assumed... I'm in the Department of Education, I'm getting my Master's degree... I'm just suggesting this is why I'm paying attention to this.

Unknown Student: I am very aware...

David Stringer: Slow it down...

Unknown Student: You're very conservative.

David Stringer: To create more opportunity for assimilation. So it's not too much too fast.

Unknown Student: So, you end up, so you're still where we are, which is still a fairly diverse society,

David Stringer: Yes, very diverse.

Unknown Student: So, what's your solution then? How would you go about..

David Stringer: I don't have a solution. I'm just pointing out the problem. I don't have a solution. I don't know how to fix Detroit. I don't know if anybody does know how to fix Detroit. I don't know how to fix that. I lived in Baltimore a few years. I don't know how to fix that. Okay? But that's a different issue then immigration, ok? Those cities are primarily African-American. They're diverse, they have other groups, but they're primarily African-American. The immigration thing is affecting Arizona, California, Texas, Florida, states like that in a very dramatic way. And it's not - You know, it's producing tensions and producing burdens on our system. Did you know that in Arizona we have a very large Hispanic-speaking school children. And that's what I'm studying, ESL. But we have a bunch of overrides for ESL, 11.5%, so it costs a lot more to educate a child that doesn't speak English as a native language. So, that's a burden on the taxpayers, and it's a pretty significant burden.

Unknown Student: Wouldn't they also be included in the taxpayers?

David Stringer: It's not, who pays taxes? Who actually pays the taxes? We just learned that 49% of the people don't pay any taxes at all.

Unknown Student: Just income taxes.

David Stringer: 51% pay taxes, yes - sales tax. Everybody pays sales tax. But then, some people spend more than others. But if you look at who's paying the taxes in the State of Arizona or in the United States, you'd say that some people are paying a lot more than others.

Unknown Student: I just don't see the difference between my great-grandfather, who's a Polish immigrant wanting a better life and somebody from Venezuela who wants to escape a socialist regime.

David Stringer: I don't see a big difference either. I mean, you're coming here for similar purposes, I think that's true.

Unknown Student: There were ethnic issues for that Polish immigrant, who was called a Polack, they were discriminated against, but they assimilated.

David Stringer: The difference between the Polack, I shouldn't say Polack, you said Polack, but I shouldn't say

Polack, the difference between the Polish-American immigrant and the immigrant from say, Somal, is that the 2nd generation Polish immigrant looks like the Irish kid and the German kid and every other kid. But, the immigrant from Somal does not.

Unknown Student: Does it matter?

David Stringer: Well, that's a question. That's a legitimate question. It doesn't matter to you. Maybe that's a good thing. It seems to matter to a lot of people.

Unknown Student: Does it matter to you?

David Stringer: Uh, I don't know. I honestly don't know.

Unknown Student: C'mon, you've got to take a position on that.

David Stringer: No, no, because we're talking philosophically here. My opinion and my preferences really don't. I'm an old white guy, so I look like an old white guy, you know? My career, you might be interested to know this, I spent my career in Washington, D.C., doing a lot of legal aid work for the African American community. I did literally thousands of cases. So, I had a sense that you were maybe trying to stereotype me into this old angry white man, and I am anything but. I spent my life, not in Arizona, but in a very cosmopolitan working with a lot of minorities.

David Stringer: Ok, I have to go. But thank you, nice chatting with you guys.

Unknown Student: Yes.

After that, Representative Stringer received directions to where he was going, and then thanked the students once again as he went on his way.

The first report on these recordings was in a Phoenix New Times article, "In Latest Racist Remarks, Rep. David Stringer Says Black People Don't 'Blend In' (<https://www.phoenixnewtimes.com/news/arizona-lawmaker-resigns-as-commission-chair-after-racist-comments-11057287>)" At the beginning of the article, it is explained that, "New Times embedded highlights from the audio throughout this piece and posted the full files at the bottom." This transcript was taken from the full files at the bottom of the article.

Note from the Editor:

In full disclosure, Representative Stringer is a partner in Specialized Publishing, the parent company of Prescott eNews. However, he has no input in the editorial content of this publication. Comments he makes as a politician, or as a guy on an elevator, are comments he makes for himself.

We will not try to defend or justify his comments in this forum. We will defend his right to express his opinions - It's a matter of free speech. He will reap the good and bad consequences of his words on his own.

The LD1 voters decided overwhelmingly in an August primary and a November general election that he should continue representing this district. Stringer received the 2nd highest number of votes for the Arizona Legislature - only behind Representative Noel Campbell.

In the meantime, it is only appropriate that Stringer's comments be considered in full context before he is judged.

STATE OF ARIZONA,
(APPELLEE)

P1300CR201601098

VS.

DIVISION PTB

ZENA MITCHELL,
(APPELLANT).

TRIAL COURT'S RULING ON MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL

Appellant, thru counsel, respectfully requests that the proceedings in the above referenced appeal be stayed for sixty days pending the trial court's ruling on defendant's motion for a new trial based on newly discovered evidence. In support of this request, counsel states as follows:

1. On July 15, 2016, following a two day trial in the Justice Court of the City of Prescott, defendant, Ms. Zena Mitchell, was found guilty of one count of failing to control a barking dog in violation Section 5-2-5A1, Prescott City Code, said offense alleged to have occurred on March 1, 2016. Defendant filed a timely appeal. By order of Judge Cele Hancock, dated January 5, 2017, the matter has been assigned to this court.

2. The underlying facts concern a complaint from a neighbor of Ms. Mitchell's, Mr. Patrick Swafford, that her dog barked continuously and unreasonably on numerous occasions, including March 1, 2016. At trial, Mr. Swafford testified that he reported the matter to the Cliff Rose HOA and called the police on a number of occasions. Officer Shannon Gray testified that she responded to calls several times but was unable to substantiate the claim.

3. Appellant is untrained in the law and was a pro se defendant at trial. She denied that her dog barked unreasonably and claimed that Mr. Swafford deliberately provoked the dog as a form of racial harassment. Ms. Mitchell is the sole African American resident of the Cliff Rose community. She claimed that Mr. Swafford was harassing her in an attempt to force her out of her home.

4. Upon examination, Mr. Swafford, who is White, denied that his complaint against Ms. Mitchell was motivated by racial bias or that he harbored prejudicial views toward racial minorities. Ms. Mitchell's effort to impeach his testimony was unsuccessful.

5. Although the state presented testimony from another neighbor claiming that Ms. Mitchell's dog barked excessively, Mr. Swafford was the complainant on the March 1st incident and the government's key witness.

6. The court found Ms. Mitchell guilty and imposed a $150 fine which was suspended.

7. Subsequent to trial, difficulties between the parties continued with Ms. Mitchell experiencing continued harassment. On December 2, 2016, while her dog was outdoors, she discovered Mr. Swafford on the sidewalk in front of her home provoking her dog to bark and recording the event with a camcorder. She called the police who responded but declined to intervene because Mr. Swafford was not on her property. However, the officer reportedly told Ms. Mitchell that she could apply to the court for a civil protective order.

8. On December 5, 2016, Ms. Mitchell applied for a protective order in Superior Court and the matter was set for a hearing. However, she was unable to obtain service on Mr. Swafford who was reportedly staying at another residence in Phoenix. The matter was continued several times in an effort to accomplish service. A private process server, Mr. John

Semerau was retained for this purpose. After several attempts, Mr. Semerau spoke to neighbors of Mr. Swafford in an effort to determine his whereabouts. As a result of these contacts, Mr. Semerau learned that Patrick Swafford was currently under a civil protective order in Maricopa County for racial harassment of his neighbors. (See Attachment #1)

9. According to Mr. Rasshi Kapoor, who is of Indian decent, for a period from November 2015 thru June of 2016, Mr. Swafford made threats and racially offensive remarks to him and his family, referring to them as "sand niggers" and "camel jockies". (See Attachment 2). As a result of Mr. Swafford's provocations, Mr. Kapoor installed security cameras and recording equipment on his property and was able to record Mr. Swafford's remarks which were reviewed by the Justice Court in Maricopa County.

10. On January 24, 2017, Mr. Swafford was served with Ms. Mitchel's petition for a protective order and notice to appear in Yavapai County. At the subsequent hearing on February 2, 2017, one of the witnesses in the case, Ms. Georgia Sparks, the former President of the Cliff Rose HOA, provided Ms. Mitchell with copies of several documents relating to Mr. Swafford's background and credibility as a witness. One document is an email Mr. Swafford sent to Ms. Sparks on March 12, 2016, advising her to lie about correspondence she received from Ms. Mitchel's counsel and encouraging the Cliff Rose HOA to do everything possible to drive up Ms. Mitchel's legal costs. (See Attachment 3). A second document refers to a 2006 settlement order filed in United States District Court by the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission against Mr. Swafford and in favor the Danka Office Imaging Company which assesses attorney's fees against Mr. Swafford in the amount of $25,000. (See Attachment 4).

Although the settlement order does not provide details about the Commission's findings, it is reasonable to infer that a judgment entered by the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission very likely involved an allegation of employment discrimination and that Mr. Swafford was found liable.

11. All of the material described herein reflects on Mr. Swafford's credibility as a witness and predates appellant's July 15th trial. Had this information been known at the time, it would have provided significant impeachment of Mr. Swafford's testimony and support for Ms. Mitchell's claim that his complaint against her was inspired by racial animus. The information in the hands of Ms. Sparks was unknown to Ms. Mitchell until February 2, 2017. With regard to Mr. Swafford's harassment of the Kapoor family and the current injunction against him in Maricopa County, it is unreasonable to expect that a pro se defendant in Justice Court would have the means to discover this on their own.

12. These materials have only recently come to the attention of appellant and counsel. Additional time is needed to further investigate Mr. Swafford's background and pattern of targeting people of color for racial harassment.

WHEREFORE, for these as such other reasons as may appear to the court, it is respectfully requested that this motion be granted and that appellant's appeal be stayed for sixty days from the date hereof for the purpose of filing a motion for new trial.

Respectfully submitted,

David H. Stringer, Bar No. 019604

Joe I will send the final response to your original letter in just a few. And, with respect to your most recent letter we need until a week from today, March 15, 2019 to respond. Representative Stringer is in Mexico.

We should hear from the bar next week and I will let you know what happens there- and let you know whether we will stipulate to the Maryland court records. It is simply impossible in light of the pending Bar issues to do that today. Best, Carmen.

I want to attend the ethics committee meetings that discuss Representative Stringer. Rule 8, Ethic Committee Rules of Procedure, that the ethics committee meetings are open to the public.

I also understand that Rule 10 provides that the Chairman of the Ethics Committee shall prepare a notice with the date, time, place and description of the matters to be considered in each meeting; and shall distribute copies to the committee members, the Information Desk and the Chief Clerk's Office by at least the previous day before each committee meeting.

Would you be kind enough to ask Mr. Thomas Shope, Jr. , to provide me with the following: 1) 24 hours notice via email (perhaps through you), prior to each meeting with the date, time and location of the ethics committee meeting that has as an agenda item, the investigation of my client; 2) the description of the matters to be considered at the meeting.

Re: Arizona House Ethics Committee Investigation of Rep. David Stringer

Dear Ms. Chenal:

Thank you for your preliminary response to our request for any evidence you or your client may have regarding his statements reported in the Arizona Daily Independent on January 16, 2019, and the complaints against him.

In your preliminary response, you state that you are not aware of any provision enabling Rep. Stringer to unilaterally waive MARYLAND CODE ANN., CRIMINAL PROCEDURE § 10-108, which states that "a person may not open or review an expunged record or disclose to another person any information from that record without a court order." During our telephone conversation with you this morning and in a follow up e-mail message, we directed you to subsection (b)(1) of § 10-108, which outlines the process for the court to open an expunged record: after notice to the person who is the subject of the record, a hearing, and a showing of good cause. The Committee is not asking for a unilateral solution from Rep. Stringer. Rather, the Committee is requesting that Rep. Stringer cooperate in the investigation and stipulate to a simple motion to open, review, and disclose any expunged records that may still exist.

Your response also suggests that there is no purpose to this consent, because according to the court's retention schedule, these records have been destroyed. In fact, you claim they were destroyed decades ago. While that may be the usual process, based upon the records published in the Phoenix New Times, it appears that at some records related to these criminal matters still exist. Additionally, the court can open not only court records, but any existing police investigation records. Further, the brochure you rely on states that "[y]ou can petition to have the case reopened." (See Expungement: Information About Removing Criminal Records From Public Access in Maryland, at 10.) Again, consistent with Maryland law, we are asking for your client's cooperation to disclose expunged records. This can be done without your client's consent, but moving forward with Rep. Stringer's cooperation will save the Arizona taxpayers thousands of dollars in legal fees.

You assert that Maryland law prohibits your client from disclosing any information related to these records. The relevant provision, however, does not prohibit the records from doing so, but rather prohibits only the government custodians of those records from disclosing such information. Even assuming that this provision extends to the subject of the records, it still does not prohibit the subject from discussing the underlying conduct, arrest, and his own experience. Indeed, your client has provided information related to the arrest and charges regarding this matter to media sources, including the Arizona Daily Independent. To claim Rep. Stringer can discuss the information that was the basis for the expunged criminal charges in a widely-distributed publication in a voluntary interview, but not as part of the Committee's investigation, would be disingenuous.

In any event, nothing in Maryland law prohibits your client from disclosing information related to his own expunged records. The Maryland Judiciary brochure you provided, under the heading "Must I Disclose Expunged Charges?", p. 11, makes this clear: it states that disclosure of expunged information "may not be required by an employer or educational institute"; that "[a] person need not refer to or give information concerning an expunged charge."; and that "you may be required to disclose information about expunged cases in certain situations not governed by Maryland law." This language all shows that while employers or others may not require your client to divulge expunged information, he is free to do so, and may be required to do so in appropriate situations.

Accordingly, we ask that you provide any records in Rep. Stringer's possession, custody, or control related to the criminal charges he faced in Maryland, court records relating to those charges (including those already published), or the expungement that the Maryland court presumably granted for the charges Rep. Stringer referred to in the Arizona Daily Independent article.

You have asked for specific information related to the ethics standards that will be relied upon by the Arizona House of Representatives Ethics Committee. The Committee will apply the standard of "disorderly behavior," as found in Article 4, Part 2, Section 11 of the Arizona Constitution, and Rule 1, of the Rules of the Arizona House of Representatives. The complaints submitted against Rep. Stringer allege violations of this standard. As you know, these complaints are based upon Rep. Stringer's own statements, as reported in the press and elsewhere, and documentation of past criminal conduct. The purpose of this investigation is to gather the evidence surrounding these complaints to assist the Ethics Committee in determining how best to address the complaints and allegations.

Carmen A. Chenal

Your client's cooperation will ensure that we are able to provide a thorough and accurate review of the facts and circumstances. We continue to invite you to provide any relevant evidence you or your client possesses. The evidence gathered as part of this investigation will be provided to you when the investigation is complete and you, and Rep. Stringer will be provided notice of any Ethics Committee proceedings. Please let us know if you have further questions on this topic.

The purpose of this letter is not to debate the veracity of the information provided in your response, which we understand was a preliminary response. During our call this morning, you asked for a brief extension to provide your final response, and we have agreed to give you until Wednesday, March 6, 2019, at 5:00 p.m., to provide any documents that you have that are relevant to this inquiry. We hope that Rep. Stringer will cooperate and provide all documents to the Committee willingly.

Thank you for informing us of the letter issued by the District of Columbia Office of Bar Counsel. We look forward to reviewing that letter.

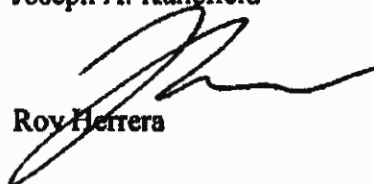

Finally, you referred to the number of background checks to which Rep. Stringer has submitted. We ask that you provide copies of any applications for professional licensing that Rep. Stringer has submitted in Arizona or other states and the results of any background checks. Specifically, please provide his Maryland Bar application, D.C. Bar application, Arizona Bar application, and Certified Public Accountant license application. Additionally, please provide the results of any background checks Rep. Stringer has in his possession, custody, or control.

Thank you again for your preliminary response. We look forward to your final response on Wednesday.

Best regards,

Joseph A. Kanefield

Re: Representative David Stringer
Date: August 26, 2018

To: Joseph Kanefield. Esq.

Dear Mr. Kanefield:

This is a preliminary response to your letter of February 13, 2019, concerning your investigation of an ethics complaint filed against Representative David Stringer. First, I would like to thank you for your professional courtesy, in agreeing to extend the due date for this initial response to February 26th, with a more substantive response, if needed, due by March 4th. I also want to assure you of Mr. Stringer's full cooperation. He stands ready to answer all reasonable questions relevant and material to matters appropriately before the Committee.

You have asked if Mr. Stringer is willing to waive the disclosure of material that was expunged many years ago by the Maryland court system in accordance with Title 10-108. I note that this provision of the Maryland code prohibits the disclosure of expunged records by any "person". Criminal penalties and fines are prescribed. I am not aware of any discretion, or provision enabling Mr. Stringer to unilaterally waive, or circumvent, this prohibition. Mr. Stringer is a member of the Maryland Bar and is obligated to respect the laws of that state. Principles of comity would appear to require that the State of Arizona should also respect the laws of another state. Furthermore, those expunged records were shredded 3 years after the expungement (see below)

Question:“ Will the public still be able to view records on case search after the record is expunged? Answer: “no.”

Question: “ If my record is expunged can I come in again and get a copy if I lost all the paperwork?” Answer: “ You can petition the court to have the case reopened. However, 3 years after the expungement has been granted the file is shredded” (emphasis added). It is now decades later. I have attached the Maryland expungement brochure for your easy reference. You can access the Maryland’s judiciary website at <http://www.mdcourts.gov> and the criminal procedure articles sections 10-101 to 10-110. If after reading the expungement law referenced herein, you can show me how to obtain the authenticated court records that were shredded decades ago, I would be glad to discuss it further. As I see it though, we cannot stipulate to something that was expunged, shredded and does not exist. The non-existence of these expunged materials decades later , is consistent with what we have been told by a spokesperson for the Maryland Judiciary. If you would like we can meet and discuss it further.

Preliminary Response to some of your other issues

On another note, as we discussed last Thursday, as a threshold matter and to make sure we are responsive to the concerns of the Ethics Committee, it would be helpful to know the specific rule or standard of conduct Mr. Stringer is alleged to have violated as a Member of the Arizona House of Representatives. As you know, a fundamental principle of due process and time-honored tradition of American law is that the moving party has the burden of proof. The accused does not have an obligation to prove their innocence or rebut presumptions against them. In responding to the complaints, you have forwarded, we note that no specific ethical violations are cited. In addition, the evidence purporting to support the complaints appear to be limited to newspaper articles. Is there other, more substantive evidence you wish us to consider?

There is no claim either in the complaint to the Ethics Committee or in the newspaper article that Mr. Stringer was convicted of a crime. There is no claim that he has any legal disabilities that would impact his eligibility to hold elective office. Further, the entire matter predates his election to the Arizona House of Representatives by decades. It is difficult to understand how anything that is alleged to have happened decades ago and did not result in a conviction or any discipline by the D.C. Bar, could be relevant to an Ethics investigation or raise legitimate questions about an elected official's eligibility to serve their office. Again, in order to provide the committee with a useful and pertinent response, please provide us with the issues you want us to address, questions that we can answer for you, and any competent evidence supporting the allegations along with the House rule or ethical standard Mr. Stringer is alleged to have violated.

We wish to present competent and relevant evidence. However, it is not clear what evidentiary standard the Committee will follow. Traditionally, in administrative or civil proceedings of this nature due process protections are applied. The moving party has the burden of proof, evidence must be material and competent, the respondent has a right to conduct discovery, challenge the evidence, confront the accusers, call witnesses, present evidence, and so forth. These protections are essential to protect the integrity of the process and promote public confidence in the result. We encourage the Committee to adhere to fundamental and time-honored traditions of due process as we move forward.

Your letter also invites Mr. Stringer to comment on statements attributed to him in an article appearing in the Arizona Daily Independent, dated January 17, 2019, entitled Experience Drives Representative Stringer's Empathy for Criminal Justice Reform. The events reported date from 1983, decades ago. In response to your request, I can provide the following information. Mr. Stringer was represented by counsel in all court proceedings. He was not required to attend pretrial conferences. He had no direct contact with the State's Attorney's office and was not a party to his attorney's discussions with the State's Attorney leading up to the disposition of the case in January 1984. Mr. Stringer has no records of the case. He is now 71 years old. His memory of events occurring in 1983 is good but not infallible. However, to the best of his recollection after the passing of significant time, the article in the Arizona Daily Independent fairly and accurately sets forth what transpired.

In 1983, Mr. Stringer was a member of the District of Columbia Bar. The matter you are inquiring about was reviewed by Office of Bar Counsel for the Board of Professional Responsibility which regulates attorney conduct for members of the DC Bar. As you know, investigations involving attorneys are confidential and only released to the public when there is an adverse finding warranting attorney discipline. The DC Bar's investigation of Mr. Stringer has never been publicly released and it would be inappropriate to do so now. Indeed, we have been told they have no records of their investigation.

However, the Office of Bar Counsel has provided a copy of a letter issued May 29, 1984, outlining their review of Mr. Stringer's case. The letter indicates that Bar Counsel undertook a review of the proceedings in the Baltimore Circuit Court. The letter states that their review of the "facts and circumstances of the case" and the application of relevant case law, "lead to the conclusion that there was no involvement of moral turpitude such as would adversely affect your fitness to practice law." (emphasis added) The letter alludes to two misdemeanor offenses for which Mr. Stringer received Probation Before Judgment. There is no reference to pornography as either a pending charge or as part of the disposition. There is no indication that such a charge was ever prosecuted. In effect, Mr. Stringer was cleared by the DC Bar of any ethical violations and he was not subject to any form of disciplinary action.

Bar Counsel's 1984 letter was written before the matter was expunged. Because it refers to matters that are now a legal nullity, it would be inappropriate to release it. However, if suitable arrangements can be made for a review of the letter in Executive session, we would likely be willing to allow members of the Ethics Committee or attorney's representing the Committee to review the letter.

Mr. Stringer was not convicted of any criminal offenses. His case was resolved through Maryland law that has no direct parallel in Arizona law. It can best be likened to a form of diversion. Probation Before Judgment is not a conviction under Maryland law. It seems reasonable to infer that a disposition of this nature is only granted only in meritorious circumstances.

Mr. Stringer has always maintained his innocence. He accepted Probation Before Judgment in order to resolve the allegations against him without placing his career at risk. Subsequently, Mr. Stringer did in fact go on to a successful career as an attorney. In 1991 he was admitted to practice law in Maryland and in 1993 he was licensed as a CPA. In 2004 he was admitted to practice law in Arizona. All these professional licenses required extensive background checks. Mr. Stringer has now been a practicing attorney for over forty years and has an unblemished record. He has never been subject to any form of attorney discipline and he remains an attorney in good standing in all three jurisdictions where he has been admitted to practice law.

In sum, Mr. Stringer has never pled guilty to a crime, has never been convicted of a crime, and has no criminal record. He has no legal or ethical disability that would disqualify him from serving in the Arizona House of Representatives. He enjoys broad support from his constituents. In November 2018, he was reelected to a second term in the legislature with the second highest vote count in the state for a House race.

Given these circumstances, we question whether the complaint concerning a 1983 arrest is an appropriate matter for an ethics investigation. Given the history of the matter, we question if there any circumstances where a 35-year-old arrest that did not result in a conviction would be grounds for reversing an election and disqualifying an otherwise qualified legislator from completing the term to which he was elected? We encourage you to discuss the information provided herein with the complainants and offer them an opportunity to withdraw their complaint. In the alternative we respectfully request that the matter be dismissed.

Please regard this letter as a preliminary response. We look forward to responding to the complaint regarding Mr. Stringer's statements about immigration, race and diversity in our March 4th submission.

Many of the issues raised in this letter, particularly those relating to procedural questions, might best be resolved thru direct discussion between counsel.

I would welcome that opportunity. Please feel free to contact me at your convenience at my above address or phone number.

Sincerely,

Carmen

This guide is designed to give you pertinent information concerning the removal of criminal records from public access in Maryland and to help you understand the process of filing for expungement.

WHAT IS EXPUNGEMENT?

Expungement is the removal of records from public inspection. In Maryland, records may be expunged from 1) Motor Vehicle Administration files, 2) police files and 3) court and police files. Each process removes very specific files and must be done through the proper agency. You must apply for expungement of each arrest based on the date of arrest and according to the disposition. No process expunges the records from all agencies.

MOTOR VEHICLE ADMINISTRATION (MVA)

Many public driving records are automatically expunged, depending upon the offense for which you were convicted and the length of time since your last conviction.

For additional information, contact the MVA at the following phone number:

POLICE RECORDS: WHEN NO CHARGES WERE FILED

- Effective 10/1/2007, if you were detained by a police agency, but were released without being charged, records will automatically be expunged within 60 days after release.
- Prior to 10/1/2007, if you were detained by a police agency, but were released without being charged, records may exist in police files. To get these records expunged, contact the arresting agency and request an Investigative Release Form. Ask the agency for specific information on how its process works. Expungement must be requested within eight (8) years of incident date.

COURT/POLICE RECORDS MAY EXIST:

- If you have been arrested and charged with a crime, including a traffic violation for which a term of imprisonment may be imposed.
- If you have been charged with a civil offense or infraction as a substitute for a criminal charge.

Court records are not automatically expunged. To remove these records, you may file a petition for expungement with the court if:

- You were found not guilty.
- You were found guilty of or not criminally responsible for certain nuisance crimes or specified misdemeanors.
- The charge was dismissed.
- The crime on which the conviction was based is no longer a crime.

- The charge resulted in probation before judgment (excluding charges of driving while under the influence or driving while impaired).
 - The State's Attorney did not prosecute (nolle prosequi) your charge.
 - The court indefinitely postponed your case (stet).
 - Your case was compromised.
 - You were convicted of only one non-violent criminal act and you were granted a full and unconditional pardon by the Governor.
 - You were convicted of a crime listed under Criminal Procedure Article § 10-110.
 - You were convicted of possession of marijuana under Criminal Law Article § 5-601.
- *See § 10-105 and § 10-110 of the Criminal Procedure Article for additional information

WHEN CAN I FILE FOR EXPUNGEMENT?

The waiting period required for filing a petition for expungement varies, depending on how your case was concluded and whether you file a General Waiver and Release (CC-DC-CR-078).

- If your petition is based on an acquittal, a nolle prosequi, or a dismissal, you may file a petition three (3) years after the disposition, or within three (3) years if you file a General Waiver and Release of all legal claims and lawsuits arising from the charge.
- If your petition is based on a probation before judgment, you may file:
 - ❖ three (3) or more years after probation was granted or discharged, whichever is later.
- If your petition is based on a guilty verdict or a finding of not criminally responsible for a specified nuisance crime, you may file:
 - ❖ three (3) or more years after the guilty conviction or satisfactory completion of the sentence, including probation, whichever is later.
 - ❖ three (3) years after finding of not criminally responsible under CP §§ 10-105(a)(9) and (a)(10).
- If your petition is based on a conviction of a crime and the act on which the conviction was based is no longer a crime, you can file at any time.
- If your petition is based on a stet or a compromise, you may not file within three (3) years of your cases's disposition.
- You may also petition the court for expungement at any time on a showing of good cause.

- If a person died before a disposition of a charge by nolle prosequi, dismissal, or a not guilty verdict, their attorney or personal representative may file on their behalf.
- If your petition is based on a conviction of a misdemeanor that is a violation under Criminal Procedure Article § 10-110 or an attempt, conspiracy, or solicitation of any offense listed, you may file 10 or more years after you satisfy the sentence or sentences imposed for all convictions for which expungement is requested, including parole, probation, or mandatory supervision.
- If your petition is based on a violation of Criminal Law Article § 3-203, common law battery, or an offense classified as a domestically related crime under Criminal Procedure Article § 6-233, you may file 15 or more years after you satisfy the sentence or sentences imposed for all convictions for which expungement is requested, including parole, probation, or mandatory supervision.
- If your petition is based on a conviction of Criminal Law Article § 5-601, you may file four (4) years after the later of the conviction or satisfactory completion of the sentence, including probation.

GENERAL WAIVER AND RELEASE

This form releases all persons and agencies from any claims regarding the arrest or detention. It must be filed in order to process an expungement, if it is less than three (3) years from the time your case was concluded.

CASE INFORMATION

Who is the complainant?

The person who, under oath, signs a statement establishing reasonable grounds to believe that some named person has committed a crime. In criminal cases, the complainant is usually a police officer or a citizen.

How can I find the name of the complainant if I don't remember?

The Maryland Judicial Case Search website -- <http://casesearch.courts.state.md.us/> may be helpful for finding case information. Not all information and/or parties involved may be available online.

What is my tracking number?

The assigned 12-digit number that identifies the defendant and incident throughout criminal proceedings.

What is the disposition?

The verdict given by the Judge at the conclusion of the trial/sentencing.

PETITIONS FOR EXPUNGEMENT

Which version of the Petition should I file?

There are two (2) versions of the Petition for Expungement:

- Complete CC-DC-CR-072A if your petition is based on an acquittal (found not guilty), dismissal, probation before judgment, nolle prosequi, stet, or not criminally responsible disposition.
- Complete CC-DC-CR-072B if your petition is based on a guilty disposition and the charge is eligible for expungement.

Can I include all my case numbers on the petition?

A Petition for Expungement may include only the case numbers for one unit (see below for definition of "unit"), which may include both criminal and traffic charges. If the unit included both criminal and traffic charges, list all the case/citation numbers that apply to that unit.

Can the clerk help me complete the forms?

No. The clerk may only provide public information from the computer and/or case file, such as case number(s), date of service, service agency, and disposition of charges.

What do you mean by a "unit"?

According to Criminal Procedure § 10-107, a unit consists of two (2) or more charges, other than minor traffic violations, arising from the same incident, transaction, or set of facts.

Do I need an attorney?

You may be represented by an attorney, but you are not required to do so. However, it may be useful to consult with an attorney if you have questions regarding disclosure, security clearances, immigration or naturalization, or other questions about expungements.

Does my expungement paperwork have to be notarized?

No.

WHAT DO THE DISPOSITIONS MEAN AND HOW DO THEY AFFECT EXPUNGEMENTS?

Use the Petition for Expungement of Records (Guilty Disposition) (CC-DC-CR-072B) form for guilty dispositions.

GUILTY VERDICT

A verdict convicting the defendant of the crime charged.

- Under Criminal Procedure § 10-105, a person is eligible to file for expungement if they were convicted of a crime and the act on which the conviction is based is no longer a crime or the crime is considered a nuisance crime under this statute.
- Under Criminal Procedure § 10-107, if a person is not entitled to expungement on one (1) charge or conviction in a unit, the person is not entitled to expungement of any other charge or conviction in the unit.
- Under Criminal Procedure § 10-110, over 100 misdemeanors are eligible for expungement based on certain waiting periods and if you are not charged with a crime at the time that you requested the expungement. For a list of expungeable offenses, please see the List of Expungeable Charges under Criminal Procedure Article § 10-110 (CC-DC-CR-072G2).

NOLO CONTENDRE (NOLO)

A plea in a criminal action having the same legal effect as a plea of guilty and on which the defendant may be sentenced.

Use the Petition for Expungement of Records (Acquittal, Dismissal, Probation before Judgment, Nolle Prosequi, Stet, or Not Criminally Responsible Disposition) (CC-DC-CR-072A) form for the following dispositions:

DISMISSED

A ruling by a judge that all or some of the charges in a case are terminated (thrown out), without further evidence or testimony.

NOT GUILTY (ACQUITTAL)

A judgment by a jury or judge that a defendant is not guilty of a crime as charged.

- Not guilty dispositions are not automatically expunged.
- If a General Waiver is submitted with the petition, you may petition the court to expunge a case that results in either a not guilty verdict or judgment of acquittal immediately after the disposition. If no General Waiver is submitted, the petition can be filed three (3) years after entry of disposition.

PROBATION BEFORE JUDGMENT (PBJ)

Guilty verdict was stricken and probation was assigned; not a conviction if probation was successfully completed.

- Under Criminal Procedure § 10-105(c)(2), a PBJ can only be expunged after probation is discharged or three (3) years after probation was granted, whichever date is later.
- If your probation was discharged in less than three (3) years, you may file a motion for a good cause exception. The court will decide whether there is good cause to grant the expungement early.

STET

A conditional stay of all further proceedings in a case. On motion of the State's Attorney, the court may indefinitely postpone trial of a charge by marking the charge "stet" on the docket.

- Under Criminal Procedure § 10-105 the waiting period to expunge the charge(s) that has been marked "stet" is three (3) years after the case was marked "stet" on the docket.
- If it has been less than three (3) years, you may file a motion for a good cause exception. The court will decide whether there is good cause to grant the expungement early.

NOT CRIMINALLY RESPONSIBLE

A finding in a criminal case having the same legal effect, for expungement purposes, as a plea of guilty.

- Under Criminal Procedure § 10-105, a limited number of minor common nuisance crimes and certain misdemeanors can be expunged if the person was found not criminally responsible. You may not file a petition for expungement until three (3) years have passed since the finding of not criminally responsible.

NOLLE PROSEQUI (NOL PROS)

A formal motion by a State's Attorney, indicating that the charge(s) will not be prosecuted.

- Nolle prosequi dispositions are not automatically expunged. You must file a Petition for Expungement of Records if you want this removed from court and law enforcement records.
- If the case was nolle prosequi and you were not served, you must still file for expungement. However, if a judge advises in court that such a case be expunged, a petition is not needed and there is no filing fee.

WHEN ARE YOU NOT ENTITLED TO AN EXPUNGEMENT?

You are not entitled to an expungement:

- In any case where a guilty finding was entered, except for: certain nuisance crimes under Criminal Procedure § 10-105(a)(9), possession of marijuana under Criminal Law Article § 5-601, and specified crimes under Criminal Procedure § 10-110.
- If you received a probation before judgment, except a probation before judgment for a crime where the act on which the conviction is based is no longer a crime, AND within three (3) years of the entry of the probation before judgment you have been convicted of another crime (other than a minor traffic violation or a crime where the act on which the conviction is based is no longer a crime) OR
- If you are a defendant in a pending criminal proceeding.
- In civil cases, unless you were charged with a civil offense as a substitute for a criminal charge. Although ordinary civil cases cannot be expunged, you can ask that civil case information be shielded or that the case be sealed to remove it from public inspection. For information on this process see:
<http://www.mdcourts.gov/district/selfhelp/accesstocourtrecords.html>
- In peace order and protective order cases. These civil proceedings are not covered under the expungement statute. Although peace and protective order cases cannot be expunged, you can ask the case information be removed from public inspection. For information on this process see:
<http://www.mdcourts.gov/district/selfhelp/accesstocourtrecords.html>
- Of a disposition of probation before judgment or guilty for a violation of driving under the influence (DUI) or driving while impaired (DWI) (Transportation Article § 21-902, Criminal Law Article §§ 2-503, 2-504, 2-505, or 2-506, or former Article 27 § 388A or § 388B).
- If one charge in the unit is not eligible for expungement, the other charges in the unit are not eligible for expungement no matter what type of charges they are (criminal, traffic, boating violation, light-rail violation, etc.). However, because a related minor traffic violation that arises from the same incident is not considered part of the unit, the existence of related minor traffic charges will not affect whether other charges in the unit can be expunged.
- If you were charged with minor traffic offenses only. The court does not have authority to expunge minor traffic offenses. Only the MVA can expunge minor traffic offenses.
- A conviction that has been shielded under Criminal Procedure §§ 10-301 through 10-306 may not be considered a conviction for purposes of expungement.

PARDONS

A pardon is an act of clemency in which the Governor, by order, absolves the grantee from the guilt of the grantee's criminal acts and exempts the grantee from any penalties imposed by law for those criminal acts. If you want to clear your record of a guilty charge that is currently not eligible, you must call the Parole Commissioner's Office to request a packet for a pardon. The granting of a pardon for an individual's criminal conviction does not automatically expunge the record of the conviction. Criminal Procedure Article § 10-105(c)(4) provides that a petition for expungement based on a full and unconditional pardon by the Governor may not be filed later than 10 years after the pardon was signed by the Governor. For more information regarding pardons contact the Parole Commission directly: 6776 Reisterstown Road #307, Baltimore, MD 21215 1-877-241-5428 (toll free) or 410-585-3200 <http://dpscs.maryland.gov/about/FAQmpc.shtml#pardon>

COST OF EXPUNGEMENT

Form CC-DC-CR-072A. There is no charge to expunge a verdict of acquittal, dismissal, probation before judgment (PBJ), nolle prosequi, stet, or not criminally responsible disposition.

Form CC-DC-CR-072B. The filing fee is $30 and is nonrefundable, even if denied. The fee is for each case (not for each charge related within a unit of the case). If you cannot afford the fee, you may request that the court waive the filing fee.

JUVENILE RECORDS

As of October 1, 2014, juvenile records (a court record and police record concerning a child alleged or adjudicated delinquent or in need of supervision, or who has received a citation for a violation) may be expunged under certain circumstances. You may petition for expungement in the juvenile court if you meet the conditions set out in Courts & Judicial Proceedings Article, § 3-8A-27.1. You may file for expungement of the adult criminal record if the original charge was transferred to the juvenile court (Criminal Procedure § 4-202) or was transferred at sentencing (CP § 4-202.2). Petitions for expungement of adult criminal charges that have been transferred to the juvenile court must be filed in the court of original jurisdiction. Contact the Juvenile Division of the Circuit Court for more information.

HOW DO I FILE FOR EXPUNGEMENT?

1. Obtain a Petition for Expungement of Records (Acquittal, Dismissal, Probation before Judgment, Nolle Prosequi, Stet, or Not Criminally Responsible Disposition) (CC-DC-CR-072A), Petition for Expungement of Records (Guilty Disposition) (CC-DC-CR-072B), and the General Waiver and Release (CC-DC-CR-078), if necessary, at any District or Circuit Court. (Forms available online at: www.mdcourts.gov)
2. You will need to know the case number, date that you were arrested, summoned, or cited; the law enforcement agency that took the action; the offense with which you were charged; and the date your case was disposed.
3. Complete the forms and file with the clerk. Include an extra copy for the State's Attorney and each law enforcement agency named in the petition. You must file in the court in which your case was concluded.
4. Pay the nonrefundable filing fee (applicable only to guilty dispositions).

HOW LONG DOES IT TAKE?

The process should take approximately 90 days from the time you file your petition, unless there is an objection or appeal. If the State's Attorney and/or the law enforcement agencies object to your petition, the court shall hold a hearing and will notify you to attend.

If the State's Attorney and the law enforcement agencies do not object within 30 days of receiving the petition, the court shall pass an order requiring the expungement of all police and court records about the charges. The court will notify you that your petition has been granted or denied.

The expungement process cannot be expedited or "fast tracked" through the system. All cases are handled in exactly the same manner. There are no exceptions.

After the court orders are sent to each required agency, each agency has 60 days from receipt to comply with the court order. You will receive a Certificate of Compliance in the mail to notify you that your expungement has been completed. Until you receive your Certificate of Compliance from each agency listed on your petition, do not assume that your records have been expunged.

Can an expungement be denied?

Yes.

Who do I call if I have a question about an expungement?

Call the clerk's office where you filed the expungement. The clerks can provide information about the court process, but cannot give legal advice. For legal advice, consult an attorney. The clerk may not be able to provide specific information as to where in the process your expungement stands.

What can I do after the petition is denied by the Judge at the hearing?

You may file an appeal within 30 days of the denial.

How will I be notified about the answer to the petition?

The petitioner or attorney, whoever filed the petition, may receive an answer from the State's Attorney in the mail 30 days from the receipt of the petition. In some jurisdictions, the State's Attorney may not answer at all. According to the Maryland Rules, a failure to file an answer constitutes agreement.

Why does the expungement process take so long?

Maryland expungement laws (Criminal Procedure §§ 10-101 to 10-110) set specific time requirements for the various phases of an expungement. The entire process will take approximately 90 days from the date of filing, but could take more time.

CERTIFICATES OF COMPLIANCE

What can I do if I do not receive a copy of all the certificates of compliance?

First, contact the agency or agencies directly that you have not received certificates from. Then, contact the court to see if they have received certificates from those agencies. As a last resort, file a lawsuit against the state agency if they disseminate the information. The clerk can provide information about the court process, however you may want to seek the assistance of a lawyer before filing a lawsuit.

I just received a copy of the court order and certificate of compliance from the courts. Does this mean I am clear to apply for a job or adopt?

No, this is only your certification that the court has complied with the order and notified the parties on the form. Until you have received a compliance letter from each of the listed parties on the court order, do not assume that your record has been cleared of the petitioned charge.

EXPUNGEMENT ORDER

How long should I keep my copy of the Expungement Order?

Keep these documents FOREVER.

What does it mean when I receive an Order for Expungement of Police and Court Records and Certificate of Compliance?

It means that a particular agency has complied with the expungement order.

Will the public still be able to view records on case search after the record is expunged?

No.

If my record is expunged, can I come in again and get a copy if I lost all the paperwork?

You can petition the court to have the case reopened. However, three (3) years after the expungement has been granted, the file is shredded.

Why does my record still show on other databases after it has been expunged from the Court's system?

Each entity (courts, arresting agency, parole and probation, Criminal Justice Information Services (CJIS), Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI), etc.) has its own stand alone database for which it is responsible. Since these databases are not connected, each entity will expunge their own database. Once CJIS expunges the record in Maryland's Central Repository, which is done within 60 days of the court order, the FBI will be notified to expunge their database.

Even after a record has been expunged, it may continue to be visible to individuals performing background checks. Some companies and agencies download case information and retain it for a long period of time. If they have access to older data, they may find the information which has since been expunged. If you are asked about expunged information, you may need to provide a copy of the court order to prove the record has been expunged.

MUST I DISCLOSE EXPUNGED CHARGES?

According to Maryland law, Criminal Procedure § 10-109:

Disclosure of expunged information about civil citations and criminal charges in an application, interview, or other means may not be required by an employer or educational institute.

A person need not refer to or give information concerning an expunged charge when answering a question concerning a criminal charge or civil citation that did not result in a conviction or that the Governor pardoned.

Refusal by a person to disclose information about criminal charges that have been expunged may not be the sole reason for an employer to discharge or refuse to hire the person.

Despite these provisions, you may be required to disclose information about expunged cases in certain situations not governed by Maryland law. Consult with an attorney if you need advice about how to comply with the law.

AMENDED PETITIONS

What are the procedures for filing an expungement in circuit court (or other agencies) after District Court has received/processed the paperwork?

Per Rule 4-506, the application, petition, or answer may be amended by the Petitioner in the manner prescribed by Rule 2-341.

Unless the court orders otherwise, a party filing an amended pleading must file a comparison copy of the amended pleading. Language that is stricken should be lined through or enclosed in brackets (ex: ~~old language~~ or [old language]). The new language should be underlined or in boldfaced type (ex: new language or new language). The clerk will resubmit the amended petition to the agency.

CJIS RELATED QUESTIONS

How long will it take before it will not show on a record check?

If the employer does the record check through the Criminal Justice Information Systems – Central Repository (CJIS-CR) system, it will not show on the record after CJIS has complied with the order and finished processing the expungement.

Once my case is expunged, will it still be on my background check?

No, once CJIS has complied with the order and finished processing the expungement it will not show on your record in the CJIS system.

If I have received my Certificates of Compliance, why does the FBI still show that I have a record?

The courts do not process expungements for the FBI's system. Once CJIS expunges the record in Maryland's Central Repository, which is done within 60 days of the court order, the FBI will be notified to expunge their database.

Why is my case still showing up in CJIS after four months?

CJIS handles expungements for the entire State of Maryland. The volume of expungement requests that CJIS processes is much greater than that of individual jurisdictions, and expungements are processed in the order received.

I recently had a background check done through my job and the charge that I had expunged still appears. What do I do?

If the record check was not processed through the State of Maryland, you must go back to your company and have them do a fingerprint supported check through CJIS to receive an accurate record check.

HELPFUL SUGGESTIONS

The following suggestions will help you succeed with an expungement:

- Make sure that you have completed the expungement petition completely and accurately with your full name, including any alias that you used at the time of arrest, date of birth, and current address.
- Request to have a background check done through CJIS-CR if you are not sure of dates of arrest and occurrences. This will also allow you to see what is on your criminal history.
- After the expungement process is completed and all Certificates of Compliance have been received, have a background check done. This is to double check that the expungement was done as well as check for any other occurrences that may appear.
- Ensure that you have filed at the appropriate time and not too soon. Filing too soon will cause the expungement to be denied. The $30 filing fee is nonrefundable, even if denied.
- Make sure you are filing in the appropriate court jurisdiction (District or Circuit) because filing in the wrong jurisdiction can delay your case from being expunged from the State of Maryland in a timely manner. If your case was appealed to a higher court, that is where you need to file.
- Make sure you keep copies of all your court papers, the expungement documents, and the expungement order since they may be needed for future reference. Once the case has been expunged, all documents pertaining to the case will be destroyed.

LIMITING ACCESS TO COURT RECORDS

Expungement completely removes a criminal case from public inspection. Although your court record may not be eligible for expungement, there are certain instances in which you may be able to ask the court to keep some or all information in a case private. There are several different ways that information contained in a court record can be removed from public inspection: certain information in a record can be shielded, the record can be sealed, or the record can be expunged, depending on your situation.

Re: Arizona House Ethics Committee Investigation of Rep. David Stringer

Dear Ms. Chenal:

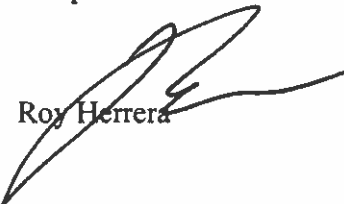

We are writing to you in connection with the Arizona House of Representatives Ethics Committee Investigation regarding complaints against Rep. David Stringer. We have been retained to assist the Committee with its investigation, and it is our understanding that Rep. Stringer is your client. As we are gathering material to present to the Committee, we invite you to submit any evidence that you or your client may have to us regarding the complaints against him or regarding his statements as reported in The Arizona Daily Independent on January 16, 2019.

To whom it may concern:

The State of MD struggled with the Child Molesting problem, Fathers Spillane was not required to go through any treatment.

Even sadder Mr Stringer is claiming innocence as the Arizona Republican Party and Sheila Polk continue their relentless engagement in For Profit Cannabis Fraud.

"The Rev. Michael Spillane, 59, admitted to molesting the youths while working in the parishes of the Baltimore Archdiocese from 1969 to 1986."

It is possible Tom Miller of Elizabeth Anne Seton knows of Mr Stringers crimes, I know this as I spent time working with Tom Miller before the news of Fathers Spillane was released.

http://www.bishop-accountability.org/news3/2002_06_05_MarylandGazette_PriestIn_Michael_J_Spillane_3.htm

Tom Miller and I spent time documenting Todd Hibler's drug business for his father in Law Enforcement before I left MD to move to Tucson for the 2nd time. Tom Miller was aware of my disability and also new Cannabis was a medicine. Tom was happy it would be easier to get in Arizona. As that year the DEA had written a 69 page paper clearly illustrating it helped patients like me and many others. (That 69 page paper has been share with the AZ Legislative body every year since 2011, none of you seem to care) Did a FBI presentation on Drugs to Troop 115 before I left.

Lt. Col. Russell Hibler and his wife, Suzanne, both psychologists employed at the government's super-secret security agencies, appear to be unlikely suspects for involvement in a major drug distribution network.

But when police, acting on tips from informants, raided the Hibler family home last week with an arrest warrant for the Hiblers' son, they arrested the parents and their two children on charges of intent to distribute drugs. The family was arrested after police found $780,000 worth of marijuana, cocaine and hashish, an assortment of weaponry, including an Uzi submachine gun and an AK-47 assault rifle, and $70,000 in cash.

The arrests stunned residents of Crofton, about 20 miles east of Washington. The planned community of 2,500 homes is about as far from the drug-infested streets of America's capital as any government employee could conveniently live.

Please confirm this was received. Please confirm you are sincere and are fully examining Mr Stringers past, I do think Tom Miller might know him and of this history.

Have zero faith in the Arizona Legislative Body, Stringers past and INSYS Syndros Medicare Scam clearly illustrate Fraud and abusing minors is simply par for current AZ politics.

Hope that changes.

Please confirm this was received.

T.J. Shope, Chair House Ethics Committee
AZ House of Representatives
1700 W. Washington Street
Phoenix, AZ 85007

Dear Representative Shope,

Some of us in LD1 are concerned that the scope of David's Stringer's conduct toward his constituents is not contained in the current two complaints against him, but we believe it is a part of the whole picture and may prove helpful. Three of the documents attached to this cover letter depict his offensive behavior toward his constituents. Two of these speak to the racial bias he displays when addressing constituents. This is a pattern.

The evidence given in the two Ethics Complaints already filed reference the newspaper reports of comments Mr. Stringer has made that became public. His constituents know the pattern of awful, hostile behavior is far more extensive. Some constituents are however afraid to come forward and we understand that this is problematic for the Committee as Committee members can only address the evidence they are presented. It is unfortunate that official reports were not made but that does not lessen the behavior they would have documented. I repeat, constituents are afraid.

The fourth document is the letter written to Humboldt School personnel. If a School District is willing to take the fallout of actions necessary to protect not only their students but their staff, there is something very wrong with the whole situation. There have been threatening repercussions to people involved in school and civic decisions. Since reporting this behavior incites those to retaliate even further, difficult decisions have been made to defuse the situation with silence.

Mr. Stringer has incited a few very hostile people who tend to follow him. They have written vile letters (plural) and have presented what looks like aggressive behavior. These may seem vague accusations, but please understand some of his constituents who live in close proximity to these emboldened individuals are afraid. Constituents may not agree with their representatives but they should not be fearful of them or those that do their bidding.

Being in LD1 Maricopa I have the advantaged position of being able to speak with some sense of being removed from some of the behaviors faced by my Yavapai friends. Yet I have also had calls from Maricopa constituents after they have visited Mr. Stringer asking why his behavior is allowed to continue. Many of these people know that I am at the Legislature most days when you are in Session making me a point person, of sorts. Sadly, I have had to reply that none of us have spoken up so most of what happens when constituents approach him is not known to the greater electorate. It has been known to his colleagues and for that I have no response. We are encouraging anyone to come forward and are seeking ways to ensure those verbally abused by Mr. Stringer are protected.

There are additional letters I will be forwarding to you and I ask that you get them to the Ballard Spahr office after your review. I am in contact with a para-legal from that office.

I encourage you to consider the offered information seriously and follow up where appropriate.

Sincerely,
Ruth Lambert LD1, Anthem

Today I was racially profiled by Representative David Stringer.

This is not OK.

Short version of the story. Today I was at a picnic at Watson Lake for one of my husband's association events. Representative Stringer showed up with a current individual running for mayor. He approached our table and introduced himself and the candidate for mayor. At our table were 6 individuals...all professionals working in and around our county. At this point I engaged Representative Stringer in a discussion surrounding education. If you know anything about me you know I am very passionate about the public-school education system, and the lack of respect we as educators receive. I'm not even going to bring in to this story the MANY uninformed statements Representative Stringer brought up. Too many to list. It is what happened next that was hurtful, surprising, infuriating, and simply NOT OK.

As our education conversation continued, someone at the table said, "You really don't know who you are speaking to (referring to me)." At this point Representative Stringer looked directly at me and said, "I know exactly who I am speaking to. I see the San Francisco t-shirt with the peace sign and that.... that.... that....Star of David. Oh, I know exactly who I am speaking to. She's advertising it!" At which point my husband became upset and told him to stop disrespecting his wife, and Representative Stringer looked at my husband and called him a "radical liberal."

I am still in a state of shock. I am hurt. I am angry. Explain to me how someone who is obviously bias, one-sided, closed-minded, and prejudiced is good representation for our state? I thought that individuals in our government were "about the people and for the people.... all people." I thought part of a Representative's job is to "listen" to his constituents...not "judge" them based on what they are wearing. Representative Stringer's actions were scary. Representative Stringer's actions were unprofessional. Representative Stringer's actions were NOT OK.

From today forward, I will do my best to keep individuals such as David Stringer away from making any decisions that will impact our future. Please consider doing the same. Possibly start by sharing this post if you are comfortable doing so.

To whom it may concern on the Ethics Committee at the Arizona Legislature,

This letter is in reference to Representative David Stringer and how strongly I feel as a LD 1 registered Republican constituent that he be expelled from the House of Representatives in the State of Arizona.

Before I ever heard Dave's comments about our white, black, Asian, and brown children (Dave's words not mine), or the records from 1983 that just recently came out in the news I always came away from meetings with him feeling uneasy. Since these events occurred in the last 8 months, I started recalling my meetings with him and have several concerns about how he will not be able to represent me in LD 1.

I first met Dave Stringer in 2014 as he was running for a position on the Prescott Unified School District School Board. I was the President of the Prescott High School PTSA (Parent, Teacher, Student Association) 2011-16. Just for the record, I am a 61 year old woman, who has been an involved parent in the PUSD for 13 years as a PTA President, Public Education Advocate, worked on our bonds and overrides, Booster Mom to two children for 5 sports. I held several forums for the school board candidates in the spring of 2014. When I first met Dave it was over the phone, he wanted to control the whole forum (content and format). I told him I would be running the forum and send him the agenda for the meeting and the questions. He always gave me the impression he did not like women, and I remember feeling from him that he was not listening to a word I said nor did he respect me. The only thing I remember from that meeting was that Dave was very dismissive, walked around our high school said it was okay for a "government school". These were the comments he made as he walked past the buckets holding rain water coming from the ceiling. He noted that this school was much better than the school he attended.

The following year, Dave attended the Prescott Unified School District Bond and Override community forum which the PTSA hosted, and made crude comments about the information we were sharing. David would say things like: my white kids were privileged (Dave had no idea if our family was a mixed family), government schools were for the poor, and the Asian and white kids attend Basis.

After that incident, I met Dave for a forum in March 2016, at Las Fuentes in Prescott when he ran for the 2016 representative seat along with Noel Campbell. After the forum on education issues, Dave came over to a group of us that gathered. Dave got in my face about some comments, pointing his finger at me. I asked him to take three steps back when talking to me. He was argumentative and dismissive. Dave said he was sure that the white and Asian kids were doing better at the charter schools and we as a group didn't know what we were talking about regarding public district education versus for profit charters. After he got elected, all of my meetings with him at the legislature were the same, very uncomfortable.

In the spring of 2018, a group of us including parents, teachers, and advocates for education asked for a meeting with Dave. As we entered his office the creep meter went up when we sat down on his couch. He did not have a desk, only had a recliner that he promptly sat down and popped up the foot rest in front of our faces, it was so uncomfortable we did not stay for very long.

On another visit last spring, a group of us were waiting to visit Noel Campbell and Dave Stringer. A young mom with a daughter about 12 years old had just left the office of Dave Stringer. The daughter was emotional and crying; the mom told us in the stairwell that Dave was rude and yelled at her and her daughter. At our meeting with Dave and Noel, they told me to take a valium and calm down, we were talking about funding for public district education and I got a little emotional. Certainly, this is not a way to talk with your constituents.

Finally, on December 6, 2018 I attended the Prescott Valley City Council Meeting. The reason I attended was I had written a statement asking the city council to ask David Stringer to resign. I was allowed to be on record but only at the end of the meeting. The meeting was originally for our LD1 representatives, Noel Campbell, David Stringer, and President of the Senate, Senator Karen Fann. Before the meeting Dave came in and saw a group of us sitting in the front rows of the event. About 12 teachers and education advocates most wearing red (Red for Ed) from Prescott and Prescott Valley. Dave said to our group how happy he was that the Bond didn't pass in Humboldt Unified School District. During the meeting David said the statement again. I would suggest getting that tape of the City Council Meeting. After the meeting, Noel and Karen left quickly, and then Dave approached our group. He told us again how happy he was that the bond didn't pass, he claimed he didn't know any of us, that we all looked the same, then he said he knew me, told my friend he recognized her but she was heavier than the last time he saw her. He was rude, unprofessional, and completely out of line. I was so surprised at his actions that I could barely talk after he left. A police officer escorted Dave out.

Truthfully, I don't know why our legislature wants to deal with this mess. He will continue to be an embarrassment and will be a lame duck while in office. I am deeply concerned for the safety of our children and would not let my children be near him. His behavior concerns me and I don't want to continually be wondering what kind of history will creep out about David's life. We deserve better, all of us.

Thanks for taking the time to listen to my story. Please contact me with any questions

Respectfully,

JoAnne Chaffeur

Arizona State Legislature Ethics Committee
1700 W Washington
Phoenix, AZ 85007-2890

Dear Ethics Committee,

I am writing to you, to add testimony to the recent discussions about the possible expulsion of Representative David Stringer from office. I am a mother, teacher, and life long resident of Prescott, Arizona with a personal story relating to Representative Stringer's conduct and behavior as a political representative.

Last spring, my daughter and I made a trip to the state capitol, along with many other teachers, in order to join the discussion with lawmakers, about increasing funding for our schools and students. While at the capitol, I paid a visit to Representative Stringer, along with one of my teaching colleagues and our two teenage daughters. I entered Representative Stringer's office with every intention of having an amicable, respectful, and productive discussion about our experiences in the field of education. Unfortunately, my encounter with him, both surprised and disappointed me, and was directly contrary to what I had hoped and intended for the meeting.

Stringer_361

From the moment we walked in his office, Representative Stringer addressed us using condescending word choice and tone of voice. In fact, I attempted to address the manner in which he was speaking to us by politely asking him to refrain from using the adjective "little" to describe the discussion we were having with him (as well as a note we had left for him earlier that day). This simple request led to a surprising and unexpected reaction from Representative Stringer. He stood up and told me that I needed to leave his office immediately. When I explained that I was not trying to be disrespectful, and requested the opportunity to stay and finish our conversation, he described me as militant and combative and he called for security to have me removed. This action seemed completely out of line, given the situation, and I was extremely disheartened; this seemed an inappropriate response from someone who was elected to represent me, and others in my district. Despite my confusion and disappointment, I complied, and ultimately left his office as requested.

In light of the recent discussions about Stringer's criminal history and propensity for making racially charged comments, this incident, while distinctly different, perhaps can serve as yet another example of Representative Stringer's abuse of power and lack of fitness as a representative of the people.

When I left Representative Stringer's office, I ran into two other teachers from Tucson who had also just met with him. They relayed to me some of the statements Stringer had made to them while they were in his office. He told them their schools did not deserve funding because of their low test scores and that their students would be better off going to charter schools. However, when these teachers tried to explain that many of the families they serve didn't have cars, or parents who had the ability to drive their kids across town to another school, he stated that that was ridiculous and proclaimed that "everyone has a car".

Regardless of one's opinions relating to charter versus traditional public schools, Representative Stringer's statement underscores just how unaware, or unwilling he is, to acknowledge the socio-economic reality of many people living in our state.

After I had been escorted out of Representative Stringer's office, my daughter and colleague chose to stay behind and continue the conversation with him. During this discussion, my daughter did her best to explain what it is like for many teachers and students in Arizona. She attempted to inform Representative Stringer that many teachers struggle to make a living, but he continually interrupted her. He stated his belief that most teachers have "significant others" to bring in income, overlooking the fact that many teachers are single, or even single parents. He also proclaimed that living simply is a "virtue", implying that teachers are benefiting from living paycheck to paycheck.

Again, the intent of this letter is not to argue political stances on education funding, but rather to point out that Representative Stringer is intellectually disconnected from reality, and to the voices and concerns of the people he is supposed to represent.

My daughter left Representative Stringer's office in tears. Not only was she shocked by his decision to have me escorted out of his office, but she found he was disrespectful throughout the meeting and was completely unwilling to listen to anything she, or her friends, had to say.

I know there is much to consider in any decision of this magnitude, and while my experience alone, may not be grounds for removing Representative Stringer from office, I do strongly believe this contributes to the case being made that he does not have the disposition, code of ethics, or moral stamina to remain in office. In making this decision, I hope that you will consider the lasting detriment that Stringer will leave on the reputation of our great state, District 1, and potentially the Republican Party in Arizona. He is leaving a trail of damage behind him that far outweighs any potential contributions he could possibly make remaining in office.

Thank you for your time and all of your effort to acknowledge and support your constituents. Please feel free to contact me directly if you have any questions, or would like to discuss this matter further.

Sincerely,

Ashley Fine

I believe this letter, which should already be a part of your investigation paperwork, shows the impact Mr. Stringer's words and actions have on our community.

Maximizing achievement since 1906

December 5, 2018

Dear Humboldt Unified School District Administrators, Faculty, and Staff:

Our faculty and staff have set a standard of excellence based upon critical core values that include an unwavering belief in all of our students, high expectations and high levels of support for all, and that all of our actions are based on what's best for students.

The recent comments made by Representative David Stringer do not reflect these core values. Mr. Stringer has demonstrated a pattern of unacceptable public comments that confirm that he is unable to meet the minimum expectations that our administrators, board members, teachers, support staff, and families have set for participants in our educational community. Viewed in the best light these comments can be understood as incredibly insensitive but a plain reading reveals blatant racism.

It is important for us to have a positive working relationship with our state and local government representatives. We hope to continue to work closely with Representative Noel Campbell and Senator Karen Fann on key educational issues that impact our 5,700 students.

However, due to the continued inappropriate commentary exhibited by Representative Stringer, he can no longer be welcomed on any of our school campuses or permitted to participate in any school-related functions. It is terribly disappointing and disheartening for us in the Humboldt Unified School District that someone with such an out of touch perspective on reality is a part of any decision-making process that will have an impact on all of our students.

Sincerely,

Mr. Daniel Streeter
Superintendent

Governing Board President

Hello JoAnne and Karen,

Thank you for inquiring if I have anything I would like to have shared with the Arizona House of Representative Ethics Committee as they investigate David Stringer's unfortunate pattern of racist comments during his time in Prescott. As a long-time Republican voter from Prescott, Mr. Stringer's public comments denigrating ethnic minorities is of particular concern to me.

In spring 2016, Mr. Stringer and I were both among many people who attended a local forum at Las Fuentes retirement village here in Prescott. Support on the state level for public education was a prominent topic of discussion during the forum. Afterwards, knowing that I was a principal at one of our local elementary schools, Mr. Stringer engaged me in conversation about public schools in Arizona. He asserted that an ethnically diverse student body is negative for school achievement and for school discipline. I shared my experience that the opposite is true in our school. Since we changed school boundaries and increased ethnic diversity in our student body, our statewide test scores had gone up, we had no increase in discipline issues, and students benefited from broader points of view on a number of issues. I let Mr. Stringer know that diversity is definitely a strength in our public school.

The next evening, I happened to attend an awards banquet for the Prescott Area Leadership organization, as my son Nathan had been named a finalist for a Youth Leader scholarship they present annually. Mr. Stringer attended the awards ceremony as well. My son Nathan was at the time the Student Body President of Prescott High School, and very involved both in community service and in local politics. Mr. Stringer knew Nathan well, and expressed that Nathan was a strong candidate for the top scholarship award.

Among the other finalists was a friend of my son, fellow PHS Senior Brandon Nguyen. Brandon's father is a respected local physician, and his mother wonderful lady who is a strong community advocate for education. Brandon was one of the top students at Prescott High School, the captain of our PHS tennis team, a leader in our PHS National Honors Society, a concert pianist, and also very involved in community service. He was also an excellent candidate for the top award. Brandon also happens to be of Vietnamese heritage.

My wife and I and Nathan had a lovely dinner and conversation with the Nguyen family as we anticipated the awards session. After dinner, the awards were presented. Our son Nathan received a generous scholarship as the runner-up for the Youth Leadership award, and Brandon deservedly received top honors. Both the Nguyens and my wife and I were thrilled for both young men. I was in no way disappointed that Brandon had won, and our son had earned runner up. Brandon is a fantastic young man, and totally deserved the honor.

As folks were filtering out of the room to head home, Mr. Stringer found me by myself, stopped me, and said in an obviously sarcastic tone of voice, "There's diversity for you." He walked away before I could respond. I was shocked and saddened that Mr. Stringer apparently thought:

- 1) That Brandon won the award only because he is of Vietnamese Heritage, and not because he deserved it on his merits.
- 2) My son (who is of European heritage) lost because his primary competition happened to be an ethnic minority.
- 3) That by pointing this out to me, I would perhaps be upset enough to change my mind about "diversity."

Having had a number of interactions with Mr. Stringer where he has insinuated that non-white people are a drain on society, I am pleased that light is being shined on this, and that people are finally questioning if this is the type of person who should be representing the people of LD1.

Thank you,
R. Clark Tenney

Dear Members of the House Ethics Committee,

I write to you as a constituent in LD1 trying to obtain accurate information. In the AZ Capitol Times article on February 1, 2019 Katie Campbell wrote:

Rep. T.J. Shope, R-Coolidge, chairman of the House Ethics Committee, announced on January 31 that the committee will contract outside counsel to investigate the complaints. He urged anyone with relevant information to come forward, and said the committee may still widen the scope of the investigation if additional evidence is presented.

I called Mr. Shope's office asking for direction on the correct method for delivering additional information but was not given a definitive answer. That may not have been the appropriate information source, which is why I am now asking all you. It was suggested I write to this Committee.

Many constituents have stories of direct contentious encounters with Mr. Stringer, some corroborating the biased attitude unbecoming a State Representative. We are dealing with a situation where a small number of his followers have actually followed people after said encounters, then showed up at their homes. People have been afraid to come forward.

I am asking for help. How can we get this information to your committee with a degree of protection for these people.

We have drawn up a third formal Ethics Complaint coming from a constituent with personal knowledge of many direct confrontations. I need to know if the attached letters to this complaint, outlining encounters, become public knowledge. I repeat, people are afraid.

We prefer to offer the information we have, which we believe to be very relevant, as evidence and not another Formal Complaint. Each time the media reports on a Formal action/complaint a hateful base in greater Prescott is stirred and those who have spoken against him are truly nervous. If another, a third, Formal Complaint is our only recourse we will do so.

Would documentation submitted to the committee automatically become public record? Would information gleaned in a personal interview or closed session become public record? We need to know how to get information to you or the outside agency tasked with this, without jeopardizing people. If public disclosure is necessary for legal reason, the people coming forward need to be fully aware of the situation as they may be putting themselves at some risk.

I would appreciate an immediate response as we know this situation is moving fast.

Thank you for your assistance as we all want to get back to the important business assigned to the Legislature, not repeatedly deal with someone casting a shadow over you and all the people he was tasked to represent.

Sincerely,

Ruth Lambert, LD1 Anthem

If you are in agreement, please sign this letter in the space provided below and return it to me.

Client; Scope of Engagement. Our client in this engagement will be the House. We have agreed that our engagement is limited to performance of services related to this action and will include an investigation of the allegations contained in complaints filed by Representatives Kelly Townsend and Reginald Bolding against Representative Stringer or any other complaints or concerns that may collaborate concerns and issues raised by members or others concerning Representative Stringer. Because we are not the House's general counsel, our acceptance of this engagement does not involve an undertaking to represent the House or the House's interests in any other matter.

Staffing. I will have primary responsibility for the representation and will utilize other firm lawyers, paralegals and legal assistants as I believe appropriate in the circumstances. We will provide legal counsel to the House in accordance with this letter and in reliance upon information and guidance provided by you, to keep you reasonably informed of progress and developments, and to respond to your inquiries.

Cooperation. To enable us to represent the House effectively, you agree to cooperate fully with us in all matters relating to your case, and to fully and accurately disclose to us all facts and documents that may be relevant to the matter or that we may otherwise request. You also will make yourself reasonably available to attend meetings, discovery proceedings and conferences, hearings and other proceedings. You also agree that the House will pay our statements for services and other charges as stated below.

Advice About Possible Outcomes. Either at the commencement or during the course of our representation, we may express opinions or beliefs concerning the litigation or various courses of action and the results that might be anticipated. Any such statement made by any partner or employee of our firm is intended to be an expression of opinion only, based on information available to us at the time, and should not be construed by you as a promise or guarantee.

Fees. Our fees will be based primarily on the amount of time spent on your behalf. Each lawyer and legal assistant has an hourly billing rate based generally on experience and special knowledge. The rate multiplied by the time expended on your behalf, measured in tenths of an hour, will be initial basis for determining the fee. We will bill this matter in accordance with the hourly rates contained in our current contract with the Arizona Attorney General as outside counsel to the State of Arizona (Contract # AG18-0001-003). Those rates are as follows: Joseph Kanefield (Partner) $420, Roy Herrera (of counsel) $395, Mark Kokanovich (of counsel) $452, Jacey Skinner (of counsel) $420, Daniel Arellano (associate) $260, Ian Bucon (associate) $250, and Tasha Hart (paralegal) $215. Rates are reviewed and adjusted by the firm annually. You will be notified in writing of any proposed increases and no increase will occur without your prior written approval.

Other factors may be taken into consideration in determining our fees, including the novelty and difficulty of the questions involved; the skill requisite to perform the services properly; the experience, reputation and ability of those performing the services; the time limitations imposed by you or the circumstances; the amount involved and results obtained; and any other factors that may be relevant in accordance with applicable rules of professional conduct. However, these factors will not result in our fees exceeding the indicated amounts based on our hourly rates without prior discussion with you.

Costs and Expenses. The firm typically incurs costs in connection with legal representation. These costs may include such matters as long distance telephone charges, special postage, delivery charges, telecopy and photocopy charges and related expenses, travel expenses, meals and use of other service providers, such as printers or experts. In litigation matters, such expenses may also include filing fees, deposition costs, process servers, court reporters and witness fees. We separately bill for computerized legal research and related expenses. You also agree to pay the charges for copying documents for retention in our files. We may also incur costs associated with hiring a private investigator.

Payment of Statements. Statements normally will be rendered monthly for work performed and expenses recorded on our books during the previous month. Payment is due promptly upon receipt of our statement. If any statement remains unpaid for more than 30 days, we may suspend performing services for you and withdraw as your counsel unless arrangements satisfactory to us have been made for payment of outstanding statements and the payment of future fees and expenses.

Retainer. We will waive our standard practice of requiring a retainer for the above matter. We will bill you monthly in accordance with the attached Engagement Terms. I have also enclosed a copy of our 2018 Disbursement Pricing List.

As we have discussed, the fees and costs relating to this matter are not predictable. Accordingly, we have made no commitment to you concerning the maximum fees and costs that will be necessary to resolve or complete this matter. Any estimate of fees and costs that we may have discussed represents only an estimate of such fees and costs. It is also expressly understood that payment of the firm's fees and costs is in no way contingent on the ultimate outcome of the matter.

Termination of Representation. You may terminate our representation at any time by notifying us. Your termination of our services will not affect your responsibility for payment of outstanding statements and accrued fees and expenses incurred before termination or incurred thereafter in connection with an orderly transition of the matter. If such termination occurs, your papers and property will be returned to you promptly upon receipt of payment for outstanding fees and costs. Our own files pertaining to the matter will be retained. These firm files include, for example, firm administrative records, time and expense reports, personnel and staffing materials, and credit and accounting records; and internal lawyers' work product such as drafts, notes, internal memoranda, and legal and factual research, including investigative reports, prepared by or for the internal use of lawyers. We may destroy or otherwise dispose of any such documents or other materials retained by us within a reasonable time after the termination of the engagement.

The Honorable Rusty Bowers

We may withdraw from representation if you fail to fulfill your obligations under this agreement, including your obligation to pay our fees and expenses, or as permitted or required under any applicable standards of professional conduct or rules of court, or upon our reasonable notice to you.

Conflicts. As we previously discussed, Ballard Spahr LLP represents a number of media clients in open government issues, including the public's rights under the Arizona Public Records and Open Meetings Laws. The law firm also serves as the registered lobbyist for certain news organizations in connection with open government and other issues that affect their interests. Ballard Spahr LLP enters into this engagement with the understanding that the House consents to such representations, and will not seek to disqualify the firm from representing one or more of its media clients in any matter adverse to the House involving the media client's rights under Arizona's open government laws. Of course, Ballard Spahr LLP will not represent a media client or any other client on any matter that is substantially related to this engagement, and shall preserve the confidences obtained during the course of its representation pursuant to the Arizona Rules of Professional Conduct and A.R.S. § 38-431.03.

Moreover, to prevent the possibility of positional conflicts on open government matters with Ballard Spahr LLP's other clients, the House recognizes and agrees that Ballard Spahr LLP will not be able to serve as its counsel (a) in response to any request to inspect or copy public records arising from this representation if the House opposes all or part of any such request, or (b) in any civil action involving an allegation of violations of the Arizona Public Records or Open Meetings Laws. By signing this letter, you consent on behalf of the House to all such future engagements by Ballard Spahr LLP under the terms of this contract that do not conflict with the Matter.

Israel Boycott Ban. Ballard Spahr LLP certifies that it is not currently engaged in and agrees for the duration of the Agreement not to engage in a boycott of Israel as defined in A.R.S. § 35-393.

E-Verify. Under the provisions of A.R.S. § 41-4401, Ballard Spahr LLP warrants to the House that Ballard Spahr LLP and all its subcontractors will comply with all Federal Immigration laws and regulations that relate to their employees and that Ballard Spahr and all its subcontractors now comply with the E-Verify Program under A.R.S. § 23-214(A).

A breach of this warranty by Ballard Spahr LLP or any of its subcontractors will be considered a material breach of this Agreement and may subject Ballard Spahr LLP or subcontractor to penalties up to and including termination of this Agreement or any subcontract. Ballard Spahr LLP will take appropriate steps to assure that all subcontractors comply with the requirements of the E-Verify Program. Ballard Spahr LLP's failure to assure compliance by all its subcontractors with the E-Verify Program may be considered a material breach of this Agreement by the House. The House retains the legal right to inspect the papers of any employee of Ballard Spahr LLP or any subcontractor who works on this Agreement to ensure that Contractor or any subcontractor is complying with the warranty given above.

The House may conduct random verification of the employment records of Ballard Spahr LLP and any of its subcontractors to ensure compliance with this warranty. Ballard Spahr LLP agrees to indemnify, defend and hold the House harmless for, from and against all losses and liabilities arising from any and all violations of these statutes.

We look forward to working with you on this important matter. If you have any questions regarding our engagement either now or during the course of our work together, please do not hesitate to call me.

Sincerely,

Joseph A. Kanefield

Re: Ethics Complaint regarding Representative David Stringer

Dear Representative Shope,

I will be representing Representative David Springer in the above referenced matter. As such, I am respectfully requesting all documents in his ethics file relative to the ethics complaint. I am fine with receiving correspondence and documents via email . Would you also be agreeable to this? I find that it expedites things versus snail mail.

I would also appreciate knowing if there is a deadline to respond to the complaint in writing. If not, I will await your instructions.

Sincerely,

Dear Members of the House Ethics Committee,

I write to you as a constituent in LD1 trying to obtain accurate information. In the AZ Capitol Times article on February 1, 2019 Katie Campbell wrote:

Rep. T.J. Shope, R-Coolidge, chairman of the House Ethics Committee, announced on January 31 that the committee will contract outside counsel to investigate the complaints. He urged anyone with relevant information to come forward, and said the committee may still widen the scope of the investigation if additional evidence is presented.

I called Mr. Shope's office asking for direction on the correct method for delivering additional information but was not given a definitive answer. That may not have been the appropriate information source, which is why I am now asking all you. It was suggested I write to this Committee.

Many constituents have stories of direct contentious encounters with Mr. Stringer, some corroborating the biased attitude unbecoming a State Representative. We are dealing with a situation where a small number of his followers have actually followed people after said encounters, then showed up at their homes. People have been afraid to come forward.

I am asking for help. How can we get this information to your committee with a degree of protection for these people.

We have drawn up a third formal Ethics Complaint coming from a constituent with personal knowledge of many direct confrontations. I need to know if the attached letters to this complaint, outlining encounters, become public knowledge. I repeat, people are afraid.

We prefer to offer the information we have, which we believe to be very relevant, as evidence and not another Formal Complaint. Each time the media reports on a Formal action/complaint a hateful base in greater Prescott is stirred and those who have spoken against him are truly nervous. If another, a third, Formal Complaint is our only recourse we will do so.

Would documentation submitted to the committee automatically become public record? Would information gleaned in a personal interview or closed session become public record? We need to know how to get information to you or the outside agency tasked with this, without jeopardizing people. If public disclosure is necessary for legal reason, the people coming forward need to be fully aware of the situation as they may be putting themselves at some risk.

Subject: Concerning Stringer & Baltimore MD

To whom it may concern:

The State of MD struggled with the Child Molesting problem, Fathers Spillane was not required to go through any treatment.

Even sadder Mr Stringer is claiming innocence as the Arizona Republican Party and Sheila Polk continue their relentless engagement in For Profit Cannabis Fraud.

"The Rev. Michael Spillane, 59, admitted to molesting the youths while working in the parishes of the Baltimore Archdiocese from 1969 to 1986."

It is possible Tom Miller of Elizabeth Anne Seton knows of Mr Stringers crimes, I know this as I spent time working with Tom Miller before the news of Fathers Spillane was released.

http://www.bishop-accountability.org/news3/2002_06_05_MarylandGazette_PriestIn_Michael_J_Spillane_3.htm

Tom Miller and I spent time documenting Todd Hibler's drug business for his father in Law Enforcement before I left MD to move to Tucson for the 2nd time. Tom Miller was aware of my disability and also new Cannabis was a medicine.

Tom was happy it would be easier to get in Arizona. As that year the DEA had written a 69 page paper clearly illustrating it helped patients like me and many others. (That 69 page paper has been share with the AZ Legislative body every year since 2011, none of you seem to care) Did a FBI presentation on Drugs to Troop 115 before I left.

Lt. Col. Russell Hibler and his wife, Suzanne, both psychologists employed at the government's super-secret security agencies, appear to be unlikely suspects for involvement in a major drug distribution network.

But when police, acting on tips from informants, raided the Hibler family home last week with an arrest warrant for the Hiblers' son, they arrested the parents and their two children on charges of intent to distribute drugs. The family was arrested after police found $780,000 worth of marijuana, cocaine and hashish, an assortment of weaponry, including an Uzi submachine gun and an AK-47 assault rifle, and $70,000 in cash.

The Honorable Thomas "T.J." Shope
Chairman, House Ethics Committee

Dear Chairman Shope,

I am writing to submit a formal ethics complaint against Representative David Stringer for conduct impugning the integrity of the Arizona House of Representatives.

Statement of Facts

Based on my personal knowledge from media reports, it appears that Representative Stringer has engaged in a pattern of conduct that demonstrates that he is unfit to serve in this august body. Last summer, Representative Stringer was recorded on video asserting that immigration is an "existential threat" to our country. He said, "If we don't do something about immigration very, very soon, the demographics of our country will be irrevocably changed and we will be a very different country." Representative Stringer continued his offensive comments by claiming that "there aren't enough white kids to go around" in our public schools.

In another news account of Representative Stringer's comments, he was recorded telling university students that "African-Americans and other racial groups don't . . . blend in" after arriving in the United States and that these immigrants "always look different."

Most recently, the Phoenix New Times has uncovered court documents from Maryland that show that Representative Stringer was charged with several sex crimes when he lived in Baltimore in 1983. According to that news report, Representative Stringer pled guilty to three sex crimes and was sentenced to five years of probation as well as treatment at a clinic that is known for treating sexual disorders.

Representative Stringer's pattern of conduct is dishonorable and unbecoming of a member of the Arizona House of Representatives. His conduct undermines the public's confidence in this institution and violates the order and decorum necessary to complete the people's work in this state.

Violations of Laws

The Ethics Committee is empowered to investigate complaints and charges against members, A.R.S. § 38-519, as well as claims of disorderly conduct, Ariz. Const. art. 4, pt. 1, § 11, violations of state or federal laws, conduct violating the public trust or adversely reflecting upon the House, and unethical or unprofessional conduct, such as defined in A.R.S. § 32-1901.01.

Re: Ethics Complaint regarding Representative David Stringer

Dear Members of the Committee:

By this letter, I submit a formal ethics complaint against Representative David Stringer. I have personal knowledge based on my review of two articles, one from the Arizona Daily Independent, and one from the Phoenix New Times, that Representative Stringer has a potential criminal history involving child pornography. Representative Stringer was allegedly ordered to seek treatment at Dr. Berlin's program at John Hopkin's University School of Medicine for his crime. By this conduct, if true, Representative Stringer has engaged in conduct that compromises the character of himself, members of the House and indeed holds the entire legislature up to contempt and condemnation.

The Ethics Committee is empowered to investigate complaints and charges against members, A.R.S. § 38-519, as well as claims of disorderly conduct, Ariz. Const. Art. 4, Pt. 2 § 11. Ethics Committee jurisdiction extends to violations of the Rules of the House, state or federal laws or any conduct that disrupts the orderly business of this institution. This is especially true when conduct of a member violates the public trust or adversely reflects upon the House. Unethical, unprofessional or even immoral conduct is no less disorderly when that conduct impacts the integrity of this institution and its duty to the people of Arizona.

I cannot tolerate even reports of current or past conduct, that if true, would hold an elected member up to shameful public dishonor and scorn. The people demand their elected officials to be of the highest character and reputation. Recent disturbing revelations regarding Representative David Stringer demand further and formal investigation. Conversely, it would appear that the two accounts in each report about this incident are conflicting, and in order to make a decision proper course of action, and to allow Representative Stringer and opportunity to defend himself, it is my belief that this should be referred to the Ethics Committee for proper consideration.

I declare under penalty of perjury the factual matters and things stated in this complaint are true and correct to the best of my own personal knowledge, information and belief. Based on the foregoing, I request the Ethics Committee investigate and make recommendations, including whether Representative David Stringer be subject to censure or other discipline, including expulsion by the House for disorderly behavior pursuant to Rule 1.

Hi-stay the course. The NAACP is calling a boycott on uber-liberal Prescott even tho Prescott clowns called for resignation. I am disgusted that Fann wants to cancel people's votes by deciding she knows what's good for all of dist. 1 by demanding that you resign. This is just another form of voter fraud after the fact.

I read Campbell's piece in the dirty lib courier- secret taping? That figures. I didn't listen to the lib paper's audio of the extortion tape since I would probably have to subscribe first.

Anyway-it is a statement of fact that immigrants who refuse to learn English increase costs on everything from voting forms and electric bills to hospital paper work, not to mention health insurance, which we all pay for thru higher costs on those who do speak English. That is NOT a racist position. It is a fact. It applies to Caucasian immigrants from Europe equally as to any other place. It is also a statement of fact that those from impoverished locations (like Africa, rural India, some rural areas in Asian nations and various Arab states) can't assimilate well, i.e. "blend in". In many cases there is no indoor plumbing in those places. Many even lack electricity. They may have never seen a toilet, washing machine, kitchen sink or stove. That is a fact- we had immigrants where I worked a long time ago who lived that way where they came from. Some refugees can't even read in their own language. How the heck are we to believe they can ever hope to learn English in a reasonable span of time to become contributing citizens. In the case of Arabic females, many aren't allowed to go to school to learn to read! Only an ignoramus would claim these people can "blend in".

Not only did Prescott's spineless libs vote to cancel out every "wrong" vote in dist 1 by calling for you to resign- it didn't do them any good, since even now the bullies at NAACP are still calling for a boycott.

If Fann and the jerk from NAACP wants to undo anybody's vote I advise them to do it legally instead of through economic terrorism. Pay for a recall. Unchecked immigration IS destroying our nation. We must have merit- based system to even just protect wages here. We are now essentially a failed welfare state with 50% of people getting some kind of gov money in social welfare programs.

Rep. Shope -

I'm not sure if this has been brought to the committee's attention or not, but Rep Stringer was student teaching last year (I believe middle school age). The application for a teaching certificate asks whether the applicant has ever been "arrested" (not convicted) of a sex crime.

The Alternative Teaching certificate is valid for two years from the date of issuance and may be extended yearly for no more than two consecutive years. Certificate holders must be continuously enrolled and making progress in the Board approved teacher preparation program to qualify for an extension. An individual is not eligible to hold the certificate more than once in a five-year period.
- Effective October 1, 2018, the Alternative Teaching Certificate will only reflect the Certification area the holder is qualified to teach if the applicant meets Subject Knowledge Exam Requirement for the Standard Professional Teaching Certificate they are pursuing.

Background

Born in Baltimore, Maryland, July 17, 1928, Judge Hammerman attended the Baltimore City College (third oldest public high school in America, a magnet specialized school for the Classics, humanities, social studies and liberal arts - founded 1839) and went on to graduate from the Johns Hopkins University, with a Bachelor of Arts (B.A.) degree in 1950. Hammerman was accepted to and graduated from the Harvard Law School (at Harvard University) with his Juris Doctor (J.D.) in 1953. He was admitted to Maryland Bar the same year and throughout his career was an active member of the American, Maryland State Bar Association, and Baltimore City Bar Associations, the American Judicature Society and the ancient Library Company of the Baltimore Bar. ^[1] He first took his oath as an associate judge on the bench of the old "Baltimore City Municipal Court" on May 1, 1961. (merged into the newly reorganized "District Court of Maryland" system in early 1980s). He joined the "Supreme Bench of Baltimore City" (then Municipal circuit court system) in May 1967, where he eventually served as Chief Judge of the newly reorganized "Circuit Court of Maryland" system, with the old "Supreme Bench" being replaced by the more efficient "Circuit Court of Maryland for Baltimore City" from May 1984 until July 1998, when he reached the mandatory retirement age of 70. He had been Maryland's longest serving judge to that point.^[2] After his retirement, Hammerman continued on the bench as a senior judge, working full-time but limited by law to pay for only 120 days of service per year.

Awards and honors

- Book of Golden Deeds Award,
National Exchange Club
- Annual Award for Humanitarian Service,
National Council of Jewish Women

- Man of the Year, Hebrew Noble Ladies
- Honor Roll for Superior Public Service, Afro-American
- President, Har Sinai Congregation Brotherhood.

Judicial career

As a judge, Hammerman was known as a fair but tough sentencer and a stickler for detail. Lawyers who showed up even one minute late for court were often verbally reprimanded or fined.^[3] Early in his judicial career, Hammerman was the primary judge for juvenile offenders. He presided over the Juvenile Court for eight years, bringing it into compliance with a 1967 U.S. Supreme Court decision guaranteeing the rights to counsel for juvenile defendants. He presided over several high-profile cases, including the child sexual abuse case against John Joseph Merzbacher Jr., a lay teacher sentenced to four life sentences for repeated rape and sexual abuse of one of his students in the 1970s at Catholic Community Middle School in South Baltimore., a parochial school under the auspices of the Archdiocese of Baltimore.^[4]

Civic activities

Hammerman never married nor had children but he had a strong commitment to the youth in Baltimore City. In 1952, he started a club for Jewish teenage boys called "The Lancers" (later expanded to other ethnics) . The club's activities included sports, cultural events and debates. Judge Hammerman scheduled guest speakers and set up community action projects for the group.^[5] The club eventually expanded into other areas of the city, bringing in non-Jews as well, some of whom went on to careers in public service, such as Kurt Schmoke, an official in the U.S. Dept. of Justice in the Carter administration, later States' Attorney for Baltimore City, then the first elected African American mayor of Baltimore City, now President of the University of Baltimore or Curt Anderson, a former WBAL-TV news reporter who later became a member of the Maryland House of Delegates. Many early members shared a connection with City College, the city's elite academic high school from which Hammerman graduated in 1946, and many went on, like Hammerman, to The Johns Hopkins University. Hammerman also supervised during the 1980s and 1990s, the annual Hall of Fame induction ceremonies at The Baltimore City College, of which he was a member. In addition, he was always interested and active in the affairs and progress of the school and its powerful and influential Alumni Association-founded 1866.

Accusations and Suicide

Four years before his death, a seventeen-year-old member of the Lancers Boys Club, speaking at the Gilman School graduation ceremony, publicly accused Judge Hammerman of sexually explicit conduct in the locker room showers of the tennis club where he regularly took boys from the Lancers Club.^[6] Hammerman denied this allegation, but Gilman suspended its ties to the Lancers Club and Hammerman following further allegations.^[6]

On November 11, 2004, the body of Robert Hammerman was found outside his northwest Baltimore apartment, dead of an apparent self-inflicted gunshot wound to the chest. The case was ruled a suicide because of, among other things, the letter that Hammerman had mailed the day before to more than 2000 people in and around Baltimore City.^[7] Many of those who received the letters were lawyers or his colleagues on the Bench, though most of the recipients were past and present members of his beloved Lancers club. In the letter he cited the fear of growing old with Alzheimer's, a disease that had taken his mother for whom he had personally cared. Hammerman, however, had never been diagnosed with the disease. "Some may say of me that it is an act of a coward," he wrote in his suicide note. "So be it. It is so easy for one outside the ring to tell the fighter how to fight his fight."

After Hammerman's death, an open letter to a Baltimore newspaper by another former member of the Lancers Club leveled further allegations of pedophilia against Hammerman. The letter stated that Hammerman frequently asked boys from the club questions concerning their sexual activity, and routinely watched the boys shower, going so far as to refuse to allow boys to leave the athletic clubs where he took them without showering under his watch.^[8]

(a) What constitutes. — A person is guilty of a sexual offense in the third degree if the person engages in sexual contact:

(1) With another person against the will and without the consent of the other person, and:

(i) Employs or displays a dangerous or deadly weapon or an article which the other person reasonably concludes is a dangerous or deadly weapon; or

(ii) Inflicts suffocation, strangulation, disfigurement or serious physical injury upon the other person or upon anyone else in the course of committing that offense; or

(iii) Threatens or places the victim in fear that the victim or any person known to the victim will be imminently subjected to death, suffocation, strangulation, disfigurement, serious physical injury, or kidnapping; or

(iv) Commits the offense aided and abetted by one or more other persons; or

(2) With another person who is mentally defective, mentally incapacitated, or physically helpless, and the person knows or should reasonably know the other person is mentally defective, mentally incapacitated, or physically helpless; or

(3) With another person who is under 14 years of age and the person performing the sexual contact is four or more years older than the victim.

(b) Penalty. — Any person violating the provisions of this section is guilty of a felony and upon conviction is subject to imprisonment for a period of not more than 10 years. (1976, ch. 573, § 2; 1977, ch. 291.)

University of Baltimore Law Review. — For note, "Rape and Other Sexual Offense Law Reform in Maryland, 1976-1977," see 7 U. Balt. L. Rev. 151 (1977).

Legislative intent. — The General Assembly gave no indication that it intended this subtitle to repeal or replace the common-law misdemeanor of criminal attempt with respect to the substantive offenses it was then enacting, as the operative sections embrace only consummated conduct, and not attempts to commit the same. Gray v. State, 43 Md. App. 238, 403 A.2d 853 (1979).

Intentional and unconsented to touching prohibited. — The crime of third degree sexual offense prohibits the intentional and unconsented to touching of intimate parts of the victim's body in such a manner as to place the victim in fear that she will be imminently subject to serious physical injury. United States v. Eades, 455 F. Supp. 436 (D. Md. 1978), aff'd, 633 F.2d 1075 (4th Cir. 1980).

Intent to have sexual intercourse not required. — The crime of third degree sexual offense does not in any way require an intent to have sexual intercourse with the victim. United States v. Eades, 455 F. Supp. 436 (D. Md. 1978), aff'd, 633 F.2d 1075 (4th Cir. 1980).

Section distinct from federal offense of assault with intent to rape. — The state offense of third degree sexual offense is a crime entirely distinct from the federal offense of assault with intent to rape. The two crimes are related only insofar as they both fall under the general rubric of sex offenses. United States v. Eades, 455 F. Supp. 436 (D. Md. 1978), aff'd, 633 F.2d 1075 (4th Cir. 1980).

There is no congressional intention to preempt prosecution under the Assimilative Crimes Act (18 U.S.C. § 13) and subsection (a) (1) (iii) of this section for sexual conduct which amounts to a sexual offense unless the offense is treated as only a simple assault under that Act. United States v. Eades, 633 F.2d 1075 (4th Cir. 1980).

There is slight overlap of 18 U.S.C. § 113 and this section in the sense that the great majority of the offenses proscribed by Maryland's sexual offense statutes may be said to encompass simple assault as a lesser included offense. United States v. Eades, 633 F.2d 1075 (4th Cir. 1980).

SODOMY

§ 553. Sodomy generally.

Every person convicted of the crime of sodomy shall be sentenced to the penitentiary for not more than ten years. (An. Code, 1951, § 626; 1939, § 577; 1924, § 486; 1912, § 439; 1904, § 387; 1888, § 250; 1793, ch. 57, § 10; 1809, ch. 138, § 4; 1976, ch. 573, § 3.)

For article, "Homosexual Rights: The Law in Flux and Conflict," see 9 U. Balt. L. Rev. 47 (1979).

Legislative intent. — Evidence of the fact that the General Assembly, in enacting the Sexual Offenses subtitle, did not intend to preempt the entire field of criminal sexual activity was the nonrepealer of this section and § 554 of this article. Gray v. State, 43 Md. App. 238, 403 A.2d 853 (1979).

Sodomy is an infamous crime. Kirby v. State, 48 Md. App. 205, 426 A.2d 423 (1981).

Sodomy falls within the definition of "unnatural or perverted sexual practice." Cherry v. State, 18 Md. App. 252, 306 A.2d 634 (1973).

Buggery (or sodomy) can be committed upon a female. Daniels v. State, 237 Md. 71, 205 A.2d 295 (1964).

The crime of sodomy referred to in this section is the same crime referred to in the English statute, 25 Hen. 8 ch. 6 (1533), and 5 Eliz. 17 (1562), and the word "mankind" in that statute was thought by Coke to include womankind.

Daniels v. State, 237 Md. 71, 205 A.2d 295 (1964).

Assault with intent to commit sodomy was held to be punishable by Acts 1793, ch. 57. Davis v. State, 3 Har. & J. 154 (1810).

Indictment. — In indictment for sodomy, it is unnecessary to lay the carnaliter cognovit. Davis v. State, 3 Har. & J. 154 (1810).

It is not permissible on an indictment for an unnatural crime to show that the accused had admitted he had a tendency toward such practices. Gorski v. State, 1 Md. App. 200, 228 A.2d 835 (1967).

Proof. — Where the defendant is charged with sodomy and not unnatural or perverted sexual practice, the question is whether there is sufficient evidence of penetration. Bradbury v. State, 233 Md. 421, 197 A.2d 126 (1964).

At common law some proof of penetration is necessary to support a charge of sodomy although slight evidence may suffice. Bradbury v. State, 233 Md. 421, 197 A.2d 126 (1964).

Evidence sufficient to convict. — See Bradbury v. State, 233 Md. 421, 197 A.2d 126 (1964).

Evidence of a sodomy conviction is admissible for purposes of impeachment without reference to the time of its commission. Kirby v. State, 48 Md. App. 205, 426 A.2d 423 (1981).

Applied in Sweeney v. State, 6 Md. App. 431, 252 A.2d 9 (1969).

Every person who is convicted of taking into his or her mouth the sexual organ of any other person or animal, or who shall be convicted of placing his or her sexual organ in the mouth of any other person or animal, or who shall be convicted of committing any other unnatural or perverted sexual practice with any other person or animal, shall be fined not more than one thousand dollars ($1,000.00), or be imprisoned in jail or in the house of correction or in the penitentiary for a period not exceeding ten years, or shall be both fined and imprisoned within the limits above prescribed in the discretion of the court.

And in any indictment for the commission of any of the acts, hereby declared to be offenses, it shall not be necessary to set forth the particular unnatural or perverted sexual practice with the commission of which the defendant may be charged, nor to set forth the particular manner in which said unnatural or perverted sexual practice was committed, but it shall be sufficient if the indictment set forth that the defendant committed a certain unnatural and perverted sexual practice with a person or animal, as the case may be. (An. Code, 1951, § 627; 1939, § 578; 1924, § 487; 1916, ch. 616; 1976, ch. 573, § 3.)

For article, "Homosexual Rights: The Law in Flux and Conflict," see 9 U. Balt. L. Rev. 47 (1979).

Constitutionality. — This section is not unconstitutional on the ground that it is vague and uncertain and fails to fix an ascertainable standard of guilt. Blake v. State, 210 Md. 459, 124 A.2d 273 (1956).

This section is not unconstitutional because it does not specify an age at which a minor may consent to engage in perverted sexual practice with an adult. Hughes v. State, 14 Md. App. 497, 287 A.2d 299, cert. denied, 409 U.S. 1025, 93 S. Ct. 469, 34 L. Ed. 2d 317 (1972).

The imprisonment provisions of this section are not unconstitutional on their face. The legislature is not constitutionally precluded from authorizing the imprisonment of a person convicted of committing an act which it has declared to be a crime. Hughes v. State, 14 Md. App. 497, 287 A.2d 299, cert. denied, 409 U.S. 1025, 93 S. Ct. 469, 34 L. Ed. 2d 317 (1972).

This section is not unconstitutional for overbreadth. Cherry v. State, 18 Md. App. 252, 306 A.2d 634 (1973).

This section is not void for vagueness. Cherry v. State, 18 Md. App. 252, 306 A.2d 634 (1973).

Legislative intent. — The language employed in the section demonstrated a clear legislative intention to cover the whole field of unnatural and perverted sexual practices and it was unnecessary to describe in detail practices which are matters of common knowledge. Edmonds v. State, 18 Md. App. 55, 305 A.2d 205 (1973).

Evidence of the fact that the General Assembly, in enacting the Sexual Offenses subtitle, did not intend to preempt the entire field of criminal sexual activity was the nonrepealer of

Right to privacy does not invalidate statutes prohibiting consensual sexual practices. Kelly v. State, 45 Md. App. 212, 412 A.2d 1274 (1980), aff'd, 290 Md. 364, 430 A.2d 570 (1981).

Jurisdiction of offense. — Where the offense charged in the warrant is punishable under this section by imprisonment in the penitentiary, a judge of the People's Court of Montgomery County is without jurisdiction to try the accused for that offense. Wampler v. Warden of Md. Penitentiary, 231 Md. 639, 191 A.2d 594 (1963).

Voluntariness of act immaterial. — This section makes it a violation of the criminal law of Maryland to place one's sexual organ in the mouth of any other person and it is immaterial whether the act is a voluntary or involuntary one. Gooch v. State, 34 Md. App. 331, 367 A.2d 90 (1976).

Section not restricted to acts of oral perversion. — The rule of ejusdem generis did not restrict the words "any other unnatural or perverted sexual practice" in this section to acts of oral perversion. The provision that an indictment need not set forth the particular practice charged, or the manner in which it was committed, indicated that the legislature had in mind practices other than those in the oral category. Blake v. State, 210 Md. 459, 124 A.2d 273 (1956).

Anal passage may be classified as a sexual organ within the meaning of the statute for it is well known that it has been the source of sexual gratification however perverted or distasteful such a method of gratification may be considered. Edmonds v. State, 18 Md. App. 55, 305 A.2d 205 (1973).

And anal penetration with mop or broom handle prohibited. — While the fact that appellant elected to use a mop or broom handle in place of his penis to penetrate the victim's rectum takes the act out of the category of sodomy or buggery, it does not take the action outside the classification of an unnatural and perverted sex practice. Edmonds v. State, 18 Md. App. 55, 305 A.2d 205 (1973).

Witnesses held not to be accomplices. — Where defendant was convicted of unlawfully committing unnatural and perverted sexual practices on two young boys 14 and 13 years of age, the trial judge was not clearly wrong in finding that the two boys did not knowingly, voluntarily, and with common intent unite with defendant, an older man, in the commission of the crimes, or cooperate, aid or abet in committing them, and could not have been convicted of the offenses, and, therefore, were not accomplices whose testimony required corroboration. Gregoire v. State, 211 Md. 514, 128 A.2d 243 (1957).

The victim in an unnatural sex case is not an accomplice and his testimony need not be corroborated. White v. State, 3 Md. App. 167, 238 A.2d 278 (1968).

Testimony of accused held to be admission of violation. — Where the accused in his own defense testified that the prosecutrix had taken his penis into her mouth, that statement of the accused voluntarily made in open court without any compulsion, threats, promises or other vitiating factor was a binding admission that he had violated this section. Gooch v. State, 34 Md. App. 331, 367 A.2d 90 (1976).

Testimony as to similar offenses. — In prosecution for sexual offenses, testimony as to similar offenses committed by the same party against the prosecutrix prior to the crime alleged was held admissible. Berger v. State, 179 Md. 410, 20 A.2d 146 (1941).

Assuming, without deciding, that the testimony as to the crime of sodomy is not within the scope of this section, although it is obviously an unnatural and perverted sexual practice, it was so closely linked in a prosecution under this section as to be admissible under the circumstances of the case. Blake v. State, 210 Md. 459, 124 A.2d 273 (1956).

Trial for both rape and perverted practices. — A defendant was not prejudiced where he was tried for rape and perverted practices in the same trial and the trial took place minutes after his arraignment on the latter charge, since the jury found him not guilty of perverted practices. Leek v. State, 229 Md. 526, 184 A.2d 808 (1962), cert. denied, 372 U.S. 946, 83 S. Ct. 940, 9 L. Ed. 2d 971 (1963).

Conviction affirmed. — Accused's conviction for perverted practices was affirmed, where there was some evidence that the prosecutrix did not willingly perform fellatio upon him. Winegan v. State, 10 Md. App. 196, 268 A.2d 585 (1970).

Applied in Wampler v. Warden of Md. Penitentiary, 218 F. Supp. 876 (D. Md. 1963); McKenzie v. State, 236 Md. 597, 204 A.2d 678 (1964); John Doe v. Commander, Wheaton Police Dep't, 273 Md. 262, 329 A.2d 35 (1974); Grady v. State, 24 Md. App. 85, 329 A.2d 726 (1974), aff'd, 276 Md. 178, 345 A.2d 436 (1975).

§ 464A. Second degree sexual offense.

Cited in Funkhouser v. State, 51 Md. App. 16, 440 A.2d 1114 (1982).

§ 464B. Third degree sexual offense.

Third-degree sexual offense is specific intent crime, and attempted third-degree sexual offense is a specific intent crime. Holt v.

State, 50 Md. App. 578, 438 A.2d 1386 (1982).
Cited in Funkhouser v. State, 51 Md. App. 16, 440 A.2d 1114 (1982).

§ 464C. Fourth degree sexual offense.

§ 464E. Undefined words describing elements of common-law rape.

Maryland Law Review. — For note discussing the mens rea requirement of statutory rape, see 41 Md. L. Rev. 502 (1982).

§ 465. Jurisdiction where victim transported.

Section pertains to venue, which signifies the place of the trial, not to jurisdiction, the power to hear and determine a case. State v. Jones, 51 Md. App. 321, 443 A.2d 967 (1982).

Venue presupposes proper jurisdiction, for without it, a court's judgment is void. State v. Jones, 51 Md. App. 321, 443 A.2d 967 (1982).

Section has no extraterritorial effect; it is simply a venue statute. State v. Jones, 51 Md. App. 321, 443 A.2d 967 (1982).

Section not applicable to defendant who transported victim across state lines. State

v. Jones, 51 Md. App. 321, 443 A.2d 967 (1982).

Venue held properly conferred on county from which victim transported. — Where the evidence discloses that the appellant had the intent to commit rape when he conveyed the victim into one county from another county, this intent being an essential element for conferring venue, the trial court was correct in conferring venue upon the county from which the victim is transported. Lett v. State, 51 Md. App. 668, 445 A.2d 1050 (1982).

Every police officer, sheriff, or deputy sheriff who receives a report of an alleged rape or sexual offense in any degree, shall offer without regard for the place of alleged rape or sexual offense or where it is reported, the alleged victim the opportunity to be taken immediately to the nearest facility designated by the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene in cooperation with the medical and surgical faculty of the State of Maryland and the State's attorney in the subdivision where the rape or sexual offense in any degree occurred. (1974, ch. 314; 1977, ch. 290; 1982, ch. 770, § 1.)

SODOMY

§ 554. Unnatural or perverted sexual practices.

Constitutionality.

This section does not punish mere status in violation of the Eighth Amendment of the federal Constitution, but imposes a sanction for behavior which the General Assembly has deemed harmful or offensive to the sensibilities of a large segment of the community. Neville v. State, 290 Md. 364, 430 A.2d 570 (1981).

This section does not violate the equal protection clause as it applies equally to married and unmarried persons engaging in similar conduct under similar circumstances. Neville v. State, 290 Md. 364, 430 A.2d 570 (1981).

This section may be constitutionally applied to prohibited conduct engaged in during daylight hours, out-of-doors, in a place accessible to other persons. Neville v. State, 290 Md. 364, 430 A.2d 570 (1981).

Right to privacy does not invalidate statutes, etc.

No constitutional right of privacy, as enunciated by the Supreme Court, applies to conduct of the type prohibited by this section. Neville v. State, 290 Md. 364, 430 A.2d 570 (1981).

One valid objective of perverted practices or sodomy statute is protection of public morality. Neville v. State, 290 Md. 364, 430 A.2d 570 (1981).

No element relating to place where conduct must occur to be prohibited. — The legislatively created crime of perverted practices does not, by its terms, include an element relating to the type of place where the conduct must occur in order for it to be statutorily prohibited. Neville v. State, 290 Md. 364, 430 A.2d 570 (1981).

Voluntariness of act immaterial.
In accord with original. See Neville v. State, 290 Md. 364, 430 A.2d 570 (1981).

TRESPASS

§ 576. Trespass on posted property.

Migrant camps. — Inasmuch as § 579B of this article is both the more specific and later enacted statute, it would appear to supersede this section and § 577 of this article with respect to migrant camps. 67 Op. Att'y Gen. (July 19, 1982).

Use of precise wording, "No trespassing" or "Trespassers forbidden" not mandated. It is enough if the message on the posted signs warns against trespassing irrespective of the wording employed. Monroe v. State, 51 Md. App. 661, 445 A.2d 1047 (1982).

Conspicuously posted signs indicating presence of unauthorized persons is proscribed to satisfy section. Monroe v. State, 51 Md. App. 661, 445 A.2d 1047 (1982).

§ 577. Wanton trespass upon private land or vessel; legislation by Baltimore City prohibiting denial of accommodations, etc., by public places.

Maryland Law Review. — For note discussing whether public works projects should anchor the navigation servitude, see 41 Md. L. Rev. 156 (1981).

Migrant camps. — Inasmuch as § 579B of § 579B. Trespass upon cultivated land.

Section supersedes §§ 576 and 577. — Inasmuch as this section is both the more specific and later enacted statute, it would appear to supersede §§ 576 and 577 of this article with respect to migrant camps. 67 Op. Att'y Gen. (July 19, 1982).

Language and history of subsection (b) is indication of legislative policy to facilitate communications between migrants and those who seek to serve them. 67 Op. Att'y Gen. (July 19, 1982).

(1975, ch. 457.)

SEXUAL OFFENSES

§ 461. Definitions.

(a) In general. — In this subheading, the following words have the meanings indicated.

(b) Mentally defective. — "Mentally defective" means (1) a victim who suffers from mental retardation, or (2) a victim who suffers from a mental disorder, either of which temporarily or permanently renders the victim substantially incapable of appraising the nature of his or her conduct, or resisting the act of vaginal intercourse, a sexual act, or sexual contact, or of communicating unwillingness to submit to the act of vaginal intercourse, a sexual act, or sexual contact.

(c) Mentally incapacitated. — "Mentally incapacitated" means a victim who, due to the influence of a drug, narcotic or intoxicating substance, or due to any act committed upon the victim without the victim's consent or awareness, is rendered substantially incapable of either appraising the nature of his or her conduct, or resisting the act of vaginal intercourse, a sexual act, or sexual contact.

(d) Physically helpless. — "Physically helpless" means (1) a victim who is unconscious; or (2) a victim who does not consent to an act of vaginal intercourse, a sexual act, or sexual contact, and is physically unable to resist an act of vaginal intercourse, a sexual act, or sexual contact or communicate unwillingness to submit to an act of vaginal intercourse, a sexual act, or sexual contact.

(e) Sexual act. — "Sexual act" means cunnilingus, fellatio, anilingus, or anal intercourse, but does not include vaginal intercourse. Emission of semen is not required. Penetration, however slight, is evidence of anal intercourse. Sexual act also means the penetration, however slight, by any object into the genital or anal opening of another person's body if the penetration can be reasonably construed as being for the purposes of sexual arousal or gratification or for abuse of either party and if the penetration is not for accepted medical purposes.

(f) Sexual contact. — "Sexual contact" as used in §§ 464B and 464C, means the intentional touching of any part of the victim's or actor's anal or genital areas or other intimate parts for the purposes of sexual arousal or gratification or for abuse of either party and includes the penetration, however slight, by any part of a person's body, other than the penis, mouth, or tongue, into the genital or anal opening of another person's body if that penetration can be reasonably construed as being for the purposes of sexual arousal or gratification or for abuse of either party. It does not include acts commonly expressive of familial or friendly affection, or acts for accepted medical purposes.

(g) Vaginal intercourse. — "Vaginal intercourse" has its ordinary meaning of genital copulation. Penetration, however slight, is evidence of vaginal intercourse. Emission of semen is not required. (1976, ch. 573, §§ 1, 2; 1978, ch. 223.)

For discussion regarding the Maryland Equal Rights Amendment, see 9 U. Balt. L. Rev. 342 (1980).

Legislative intent. — Evidence of the fact that the General Assembly, in enacting this subtitle, did not intend to preempt the entire field of criminal sexual activity was the nonrepealer of §§ 553 and 554 of this article. Gray v. State, 43 Md. App. 238, 403 A.2d 853 (1979).

Quoted in Watson v. State, 286 Md. 291, 407 A.2d 324 (1979).

Stated in United States v. Eades, 615 F.2d 617, rev'd on rehearing, 633 F.2d 1075 (4th Cir. 1980).

Cited in Johnson v. Maryland, 425 F. Supp. 538 (D. Md. 1976); United States v. Eades, 455 F. Supp. 436 (D. Md. 1978), aff'd, 633 F.2d 1075 (4th Cir. 1980); Lucado v. State, 40 Md. App. 25, 389 A.2d 398 (1978).

Evidence to justify conviction. — To justify a conviction, the evidence must warrant a conclusion either that the victim resisted and her resistance was overcome by force or that she was prevented from resisting by threats to her safety. Rusk v. State, 43 Md. App. 476, 406 A.2d 624 (1979), rev'd on other grounds, 289 Md. 230, 424 A.2d 720 (1981).

Proof of force required. — Without proof of force, actual or constructive, evidenced by words or conduct of the defendant or those acting in consort with him, sexual intercourse is not rape; this is so even though the intercourse may have occurred without the actual consent and against the will of the alleged victim. Goldberg v. State, 41 Md. App. 58, 395 A.2d 1213 (1979).

Actual physical force is not an indispensable element of the crime of rape. Goldberg v. State, 41 Md. App. 58, 395 A.2d 1213 (1979).

Acts and threats equivalent of force. — If the acts and threats of the defendant were calculated to create in the mind of the victim — having regard to the circumstances in which she was placed — a real and reasonable apprehension, due to fear, of imminent bodily harm, serious enough to impair or overcome her will to resist, then such acts and threats are the equivalent of force. Rusk v. State, 43 Md. App. 476, 406 A.2d 624 (1979), rev'd on other grounds, 289 Md. 230, 424 A.2d 720 (1981).

If the actions and conduct of the defendant were reasonably calculated to induce fear of imminent death or serious bodily harm in the victim's mind, then the element of force is present. State v. Rusk, 289 Md. 230, 424 A.2d 720 (1981).

Terms "against the will" and "without the consent" are synonymous in the law of rape. State v. Rusk, 289 Md. 230, 424 A.2d 720 (1981).

Lack of consent established through proof of fear. — Lack of consent can be established through proof that the victim submitted as a result of fear of imminent death or serious bodily harm. State v. Rusk, 289 Md. 230, 424 A.2d 720 (1981).

Threats of force need not be made in any particular manner in order to put a person in fear of bodily harm. State v. Rusk, 289 Md. 230, 424 A.2d 720 (1981).

Victim's fear must be reasonably grounded in order to obviate the need for either proof of actual force on the part of the assailant or physical resistance on the part of the victim. State v. Rusk, 289 Md. 230, 424 A.2d 720 (1981).

Reasonableness of the victim's apprehension of fear is plainly a question of fact for the jury to determine. State v. Rusk, 289 Md. 230, 424 A.2d 720 (1981).

Unreasonable subjective fear of resisting cannot convert conduct into that which is criminal. — In the absence of actual force, unreasonable subjective fear of resisting cannot convert the conduct of the defendant from that which is noncriminal to that which is criminal. Goldberg v. State, 41 Md. App. 58, 395 A.2d 1213 (1979).

Resistance by prosecutrix that must be shown involves not merely verbal but physical resistance "to the extent of her ability at the time." Goldberg v. State, 41 Md. App. 58, 395 A.2d 1213 (1979).

Where the prosecutrix stated that she was afraid, and submitted because of "the look in his eyes," this is not sufficient to cause a reasonable fear which overcame her ability to resist. Rusk v. State, 43 Md. App. 476, 406 A.2d 624 (1979), rev'd on other grounds, 289 Md. 230, 424 A.2d 720 (1981).

Subsection (b) is clearly constitutional on its face. Watson v. State, 286 Md. 291, 407 A.2d 324 (1979).

Applied in Phipps v. State, 39 Md. App. 206, 385 A.2d 90 (1978); Hebb v. State, 44 Md. App. 678, 410 A.2d 622 (1980).

Cited in Brown v. State, 38 Md. App. 192, 379 A.2d 1231 (1977); Lucado v. State, 40 Md. App. 25, 389 A.2d 398 (1978); Blotkamp v. State, 45 Md. App. 64, 411 A.2d 1068 (1980).
